COM(84) 252 final

Brussels, 14 May 1984

COMMISSION REPORT TO THE COUNCIL

on cooperation with European non-government organizations (NGOs) active in the development field with special reference to the cofinancing of projects (1983 Budget)

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

1. At its meeting on 28 November 1977 the Council (Development) approved the procedure to be followed for the use of the appropriations for the financing of projects with non-governmental organizations (NGOs).*

Under that procedure the Commission is to present an annual report to the Council on the use of the funds allocated during the preceding year.

Accordingly the Commission presents this Report, which deals with the use made of the 31.2m ECU entered under Article 941 of the 1983 Community Budget.

2. Although relations with the NGOs are mainly in the field of project cofinancing in developing countries, other important areas for co-operation with the NGOs are also covered, such as development education in the Community, food aid, emergency aid and inter-NGO coordination.

1. INTRODUCTION

- I. Cooperation between the European Communities and the non-governmental organizations (NGOs) began in 1976 with the aim of adding a new dimension to the Community's development policy. The idea was to enable the Community to take an active part, with public funds, in the expression of solidarity shown by Europe at a non-official level towards the poorest sections of the population in the Third World. That objective was reflected initially in the establishment of a Community budget heading to finance, with the European NGOs, projects in the developing countries. The budget, fixed on an experimental basis at 2.5m ECU in 1976, increased progressively in subsequent years to cope with the increase in requests for cofinancing submitted by the NGOs. Accordingly, this budget reached 14m ECU in 1981, doubled to 28m ECU in 1982, and was then further increased to 31.2m ECU in 1983.

- II. A review of Community cofinancing from the start of operations up to the end of 1983 indicates that from 1976 to 1983 Community aid totalled 104.5m ECU and made it possible for 1 327 projects to be cofinanced in developing countries. Table I in the Annex gives a breakdown by Member State of the total Community aid allocated from 1976 to 1983 inclusive.

These projects were implemented with 205 NGOs in 107 developing countries. A list of recipient countries with the respective Community contributions is given in Tables II (ACP countries) and III (non-ACP countries).

The geographical breakdown shows that over the reference period 47% of the funds were allocated to Africa, 25% to Latin America, 20% to Asia, 7% to the Mediterranean Basin and 1% to the Pacific. ACP countries were allocated 47% and non-ACP countries 53% of the total Community contribution.

Finally, 57% of the total available funds were allocated to developing countries with a per capita GNP of less than US$ 500.

The total joint investment between NGOs and the Commission from 1976 to 1983 was around 266m ECU, giving a multiplier effect of 2.7 times the Community contribution.

In addition, between 1979 and 1983 inclusive the Commission cofinanced 146 projects with 38 NGOs for a total amount of 4.6m ECU to raise European public awareness on development matters.

III. Compared with other items in the Community development budget, these figures, despite their steady increase, are still relatively modest. The Commission is nevertheless convinced that the multiplier effect of this large number of small operations is considerable and easily bears comparison with "conventional" projects. The success of the cofinanced operations is due above all to the high degree of motivation and personal commitment of the NGOs, their independence from any external conditioning, their relatively modest size and the autonomy and flexibility of management that are the corollary of this. The interplay of these positive factors is generally reflected in the conception and execution of projects in the developing countries, by a marked degree of effectiveness, speed and flexibility, and, above all, by the capacity of the NGOs to adapt their operations - almost from one day to the next - to any economic, political and technical changes that may occur.

The Commission, for its part, has undertaken to respect and encourage the special features of NGOs, such as their autonomy (NGOs have an exclusive right of initiative as regards the presentation of projects) and pluralism (wide variety of motivations encountered amongst these organizations). Relations between the Commission and NGOs are marked by confidence in the latter's deep-rooted motivations and real abilities. In the vast majority of cases, this confidence continues to be fully borne out by the results.

IV. The cofinancing of development projects in developing countries is, however, only one of the various forms of cooperation between NGOs and the Community. Other aspects, which are just as important, are the support given to NGOs in operations to raise European public awareness on development matters, cooperation in the distribution of food aid and in emergency operations, and the role of catalyst that the Commission continues to play in the context of inter-NGO cooperation at European level by way of a constant dialogue with NGOs, both individually and collectively.

In 1983, the Community contribution to NGOs totalled 88.7m ECU (23.7m ECU for cofinancing, 52.0m ECU for food aid and 13.0m ECU for emergency aid). This report sets out to give an account of the Commission's activities in 1983, dealing in turn with the various aspects of cooperation with NGOs while not forgetting contacts with other European institutions and the prospects and trends already taking shape for 1984.

2. ALLOCATION OF COMMUNITY AID IN 1983

2.1. Cofinancing of NGO projects in developing countries (Budget Article 941)

2.1.1. Commitments and payments

Appropriations available under Budget Article 941 amounted to 31.2m ECU in 1983.

During the year 439 project applications totalling 51.8m ECU were submitted to the Commission. It was possible to cofinance 214 of these with a total Community contribution of 23.7m ECU. Some 98 other projects, amounting to 12.4m ECU, were not accepted or were withdrawn by the NGOs. The others, i.e. 127 admissible applications totalling 15.7m ECU, had to be carried over to 1984.

These figures once again confirm the sustained interest of non-governmental organizations in the system of cofinancing set up by the Commission. It is a fact, however, that the rate of commitment for 1983 i.e. 84% is lower than in 1982 (95%). This drop is due mainly to substantial increases in the appropriation for Article 941 in recent years (from 14m ECU in 1981 to 28m ECU in 1982 and 31.2m ECU in 1983). Consequently the NGOs did not achieve their customary momentum, which normally enables them to absorb almost all the funds available each year, until the final months of 1983.

This phenomenon is thus entirely the result of circumstances and must be seen in the context of the excellent absorption capacity that NGOs have always shown (the average rate of commitment per year from 1976 to 1983 inclusive was around 95%). Table IV in the annex gives the breakdown by Member State of the 1983 allocation.

The total payments of 21.3m ECU effected in 1983 include 9.6m ECU of commitments from 1983 and 11.7m ECU of commitments from previous years.

2.1.2. Type and scale of the projects

Table V in the annex gives a complete list of the 214 projects cofinanced in 1983 in developing countries.

As in the past, the project content is extremely varied and continues to be broken down into three main traditional sectors, namely rural development, training and health. Most of the projects, however, fall within more than one sector, reflecting the integrated approach which is characteristic of NGO operations (see Table VI in the annex).

As regards the scale of the projects cofinanced, the Commission's average contribution was 111 000 ECU in 1983. Although the Commission:

contribution can be as much as 360 000 ECU over three years, in 1983 it has been above 200 000 ECU in only 37 cases, whereas in 65 cases it was less than 50 000 ECU. This confirms once more the NGOs' penchant for small-scale operations, which is in fact one of the main reasons for their success.

This trend was further accentuated in 1983 by the increase in the block grants available (see below). Table V in fact shows a very large number of mini-operations costing less than 12 000 ECU.

Finally, the total joint investment between NGOs and the Community reached 59.7m ECU in 1983, giving a multiplier effect of about 2.5 times the Community contribution as against 2.4 in 1982. This increase confirms the capacity of the NGOs to mobilize growing amounts of their own and outside resources for the projects they undertake.

2.1.3. Non-governmental organizations

In 1983 93 NGOs received funds, 18 of them for the first time, for at least one cofinancing operation. Although the Commission has not yet received requests for cofinancing from Greek organizations some contacts were made in 1983, and a Greek member now attends the Liaison Committee meetings.

Informal contacts have also been established with Spanish and Portuguese NGOs so as to familiarize them with the Community's approach and procedures.

There were 34 block grants made in 1983 totalling 2.3m ECU (compared to 1.2m ECU in 1982). This considerable increase followed the wish expressed by the NGOs at the 1983 European Assembly for a greater percentage of the overall budget to be earmarked for block grants.

Lastly, the Commission is aware of the wish expressed more and more frequently in 1983 by NGOs in developing countries ("southern NGOs") for direct access to the Community's cofinancing system.

2.1.4. Populations concerned and recipient countries

The 214 development projects cofinanced in 1983 were carried out in 80 developing countries. The geographical breakdown shows that of the allocated funds 43% went to African countries south of the Sahara, 27% to Latin America, 19% to Asia and 11% to countries of the Mediterranean Basin.

In all, ACP countries received 8.9m ECU (38%) while non-ACP States received 14.8m ECU (62%). Compared with 1982, when the respective figures were 48% and 52%, the balance has shifted considerably in favour of non-ACP countries, especially those in Asia.

In 1983, 47% of the total appropriations available were allocated to countries with a per capita GNP of less than US$ 500. However, it must be stressed once more that cofinanced projects are aimed by definition at the poorest sections of the population in developing countries, where a country's per capita GNP has only a fairly relative value in practice.

In general, the breakdown of appropriations in 1983 seems to be towards a wider variety of beneficiaries, with a large number of miniprojects due in part, as has been mentioned, to the virtual doubling of block grants.

2.2. Cofinancing of operations carried out by NGOs to raise European public awareness of development matters (Budget Article 941)

The importance of operations designed to make the European public more aware of world development matters in general and in particular of the problems of interdependence between North and South is confirmed by the growing number of NGOs wishing to cooperate with the Commission in this area.

In 1983, some 134 requests for cofinancing were received for a total of 4.6m ECU. Of these, 43 were cofinanced with 39 NGOs for a total of 2.2m ECU (equivalent to 7% of the total budget for Article 941). This is a considerable increase on 1982, when cofinanced projects totalled 1.3m ECU.

Table VII in the annex gives a complete list of projects cofinanced in 1983 with individual NGOs or with informal networks of NGOs. These networks bring together NGOs that are active in the following four areas (the first three of which became operational in 1983): agriculture and development, restructuring of industry, formal education and films and video. Highly diversified projects would appear to be motivated by a common desire to insert each project into everyday life and relate it to the specific interests of the target groups concerned so that the latter can fully appreciate the idea of North-South interdependence.

It should be borne in mind that this concern was one of the points taken into account in the updating and revision of the general conditions governing cofinancing in this area. Revision was completed during the year in close collaboration with the NGO Liaison Committee and its Subcommittee on Development Education as well as with individual NGOs. The revised general conditions entered into force in January 1984.

One of the projects undertaken jointly by the Commission and NGOs was a public opinion survey in the ten Member States on the problems of development. The results, which will be published shortly, illustrate quite clearly the importance of the role that the NGOs play and will increasingly have to play in this area in the future and will add a new dimension to the joint examination by the Commission and NGOs as to the most appropriate ways of achieving the goals set by the cofinancing system.

Finally, it emerged from discussions between the Commission and the NGOs that there was concern about the danger of discouraging public opinion by putting across a message of no hope, by implying guilt or by painting an excessively negative picture of the Third World. The messages should therefore be more positive and take account of the sensitivities of the various sections of the public so as to make them more aware of the realities of development problems.

2.3. Community food aid channelled through the NGOs (Budget Chapter 92)

The Community endeavoured in 1983 to improve its response to requests for food aid from NGOs by diversifying the products made available to them.

Accordingly, in addition to the traditional products (27 000 tonnes of skimmed milk powder, 2 000 tonnes of butteroil and 25 000 tonnes of cereals) the NGOs received certain other products, such as 1 400 tonnes of sugar, 200 tonnes of vegetable oil, 700 tonnes of beans and 50 tonnes of dried fish.

The NGOs were called upon to a greater extent to provide emergency food aid in cases of disaster or conflict, such as the persons repatriated from Nigeria to Ghana, displaced persons in El Salvador and the victims of disasters in Paraguay, Ethiopia and other African countries. The total value at world prices of the food aid (including transport) delivered via the NGOs to needy populations is estimated at 52m ECU (showing an increase of 7m ECU over 1982).

Lastly, regular exchanges of views between the Commission and the NGOs grouped together under Euronaid enable the operational capability of these organizations to be better appraised and their operations to be coordinated more effectively.

A summary by NGO and recipient country of the main food aid operations in 1983 is shown in Table VIII in the annex.

2.4. Community emergency aid channelled through the NGOs
(Budget Article 950 and Article 137 of the Lomé Convention)

In 1983 emergency aid made available to the NGOs amounted to about 13m ECU (i.e. 41% of the total amount of Community emergency aid). This amount made NGOs the main channel for this type of aid in 1983.

The NGOs helped to organize relief for the victims of natural disasters in developing countries, both in ACP countries (famine in Ethiopia, drought in Mauritania) and in other countries (floods in Andean countries, drought in Brazil and Mozambique, earthquake in Colombia). They also carried out operations to help persons repatriated from Nigeria and displaced persons in Central America.

Of the total amount of emergency aid channelled through NGOs some 10.5m ECU was allocated via the NGOs to the people of Poland.

2.5. Support for inter-NGO coordination and miscellaneous activities at European Level (Budget Article 941)

The instruments for democratic representation and dialogue for the European NGOs (National Assemblies, European Assembly, Liaison Committee) set up in previous years continued to fulfil their institutional role in 1983.

The Liaison Committee was allocated an amount of 318 431 ECU in 1983 to cover its operating costs. This includes both the activities pursued directly by the Committee and the various advisory, organizational and coordination tasks that are carried out throughout the year by its ad hoc subcommittees (which are responsible respectively for development education, food aid, emergency operations and volunteers).

In the Commission's opinion this grant, which amounts to 1% of the total budget, should be enough, now that operations are in full swing, to allow the Committee to run smoothly and should be kept at that level in future.

Other activities undertaken in 1983 include the completion of the multisectoral study started in 1982 on appropriable technologies. Similarly, preparation of the second evaluation of NGO projects continued in 1983 and, as a result, the evaluation proper can take place in 1984.

The study on the protection of the interests of volunteers was also continued.

3. INSTITUTIONAL CONTACTS

In November 1983, the European Parliament's Committee on Development and Cooperation met the NGO Liaison Committee. The ensuing exchange of views involved a wide variety of subjects, in particular, the Community's agricultural policy and hunger in the world, renegotiation of the Lomé Convention and the future of ACP-EEC cooperation, and the 1984 European elections.

The Council Working Party on Development Cooperation devoted two meetings in July and October 1983 to discussing the Commission's annual report on the various aspects of Community/NGO cooperation in 1982.

Lastly, from March to December 1983 the Court of Auditors of the European Communities undertook a detailed examination of the system of cofinancing with European NGOs covering all Member States with the exception of Greece. This ad hoc audit at the NGO headquarters, which was in addition to the monitoring of projects in the field that the Court usually undertakes on its overseas visits, covered about 20% of the 1 500 or so development and development education projects cofinanced with the Commission since 1976. The results of this large-scale operation will probably be known in 1984.

4. CONCLUSIONS AND PROSPECTS

While 1982 was marked by a 100% increase in the funds made available to NGOs and by a remarkable intensification of NGO cooperation with the Commission, 1983 was more a year of consolidation of the results obtained. This trend is likely to continue in 1984 since the size of the budget allocated is by and large in line with the current absorption capacity both of the NGOs and of the Commission departments responsible for cooperating with them.

Operations to raise the European public's awareness of development matters should continue to increase on the basis of the new general conditions in force since January 1984. Renegotiation of the Lomé Convention will remain, in 1984, one of the topical themes for NGOs specializing in development education activities.

Evaluation of cofinanced projects - both those in developing countries and development education projects in Europe - will probably come up with preliminary conclusions some time in 1984. Similarly, the results of the audit carried out by the Court of Auditors in 1983 should also be known in 1984.

Finally, it should be mentioned that as from 1984 new Community funds, even if they do not fill the gap, should at least allow the problem of refugees and displaced persons to be tackled. As was also noted in the 1982 report, certain situations arising in practice were not covered either by emergency aid (Budget Article 950) or by the cofinancing of development projects (Budget Article 941). By creating a new article (936) in the 1984 budget to help refugees and displaced persons after the emergency period but before their final integration, the budgetary authorities have shown themselves to be aware of the existence of this "grey area". Although its appropriation is still extremely modest in relation to requirements, this new instrument meets a real need and some NGOs have already shown a keen interest in cooperating with the Commission in this area too.
