Brussels, 27 January 1994

REPORT FROM THE COMMISSION

on cooperation with European non-governmental development organizations (NGDOs) in spheres concerning developing countries
(1992 financial year)

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

1. At its meeting on 28 November 1977, the Council approved the procedure to be followed for using the appropriations in Item B7-5010 of the Community budget for cofinancing operations with the NGOs.*

Under this procedure the Commission has to present an annual report to the Council on the use of the appropriations allocated during the preceding year.

The Commission presents this report for 1992 accordingly.

2. Although the Council gave its approval for the appropriations under Item B7-5010 only, this report also covers other major spheres of cooperation with the NGOs, such as food aid, emergency aid, special programmes and coordination between NGOs. The various contributions made by the relevant Commission departments provide an overview.

INTRODUCTION

Since its inception 18 years ago, cooperation between NGOs and the Community has given practical expression to the Community's contribution to the support provided by Europe's citizens to the poorest groups in the third world. It mainly involves cofinancing of development programmes in the developing countries and campaigns to heighten public awareness in Europe, food aid and emergency aid. In recent years cooperation between the Community and the NGOs has been still further diversified with the introduction of new budget headings as indicated in the report and the increase in the resources available.

In this connection, it should be emphasized that the Community's overall financial contribution to the different operations carried out by the NGOs in cooperation with their partners in the South stood at ECU 634 million in 1992, a very considerable increase on 1991 (up 32%) and 1990 (up 99%).

Cooperation between the Community and the NGOs is focused mainly on carrying out a large number of microprojects in numerous spheres. Experience has shown that the multiplier effect of these small-scale operations is considerable and that their success is mainly due to the high level of motivation and commitment demonstrated by the NGOs and their partners in the South, their independence, their relatively modest size and the resultant management independence and flexibility. The interaction of these positive factors is generally reflected in greater efficiency, speed and flexibility with respect to the design and implementation of projects in the developing countries. The Commission is constantly at pains to ensure that a high level of professionalism is maintained in the work carried out by the NGOs that it cofinances, having due regard to the particular characteristics of their operations.

The two evaluation exercises that began at the end of 1991 concerning EC-NGDO cofinancing in the field of institutional support for grassroots organizations in the developing countries and vocational training projects resulted in very sound assessments of the impact and viability of the projects and made it possible to formulate conclusions and recommendations of considerable value to the Community, the NGOs and their partners in the South. Two other evaluation exercises concerning integrated development projects and savings and loans projects are currently under way and these will be completed by the end of 1993.

EC COOPERATION WITH NGDOS IN 1992

In 1992, the Community contribution to the various operations carried out by the NGDOs amounted to some ECU 634 million, the breakdown of which is as follows:

ECU 98 million for cofinancing of development schemes in the developing countries (Item B7-5010), which represents an increase of 4.5% on 1991;

ECU 11.4 million for cofinancing public information campaigns on development issues in the Community (Item B7-5010): this is 11% more than in 1991;

ECU 251.7 million for food aid (Chapter 72), an increase of 36% on 1991;

ECU 4.0 million for the purchase of foodstuffs by the NGDOs (Item B7-5011), down 11% on 1991;

ECU 110.3 million for emergency aid (Item B7-5000), up 38% on 1991;

ECU 39.3 million for refugees and displaced persons (Article B7-302), a huge increase of 360% on 1991;

ECU 4.5 million for aid to NGDOs operating in Chile, with a view to strengthening the democratic process and contributing to economic cooperation with Chile (Item B7-5073), down 10% on 1991;

ECU 4.2 million for drug abuse control (Item B7-5045), down 13% on 1991;

ECU 80 million for aid for victims of apartheid (Item B7-5070), up 33% on 1991;

ECU 11.5 million for the population of the front-line States (Namibia, Botswana, Mozambique, etc.) (Item B7-5071), up 7% on 1991;

ECU 17.0 million for aid to NGDOs operating in the West Bank and Gaza territories (Article B7-406), a 70% increase on 1991;

ECU 1.5 million for aid to NGDOs operating in Vietnam (Item B7-5074), down 25% on 1991;

ECU 0.5 million for aid to NGOs operating in Cambodia (Item B7-5075), the same amount as in 1991.

This total contribution of ECU 634 million in 1992 represents a very substantial increase (more than 32%) over 1991 (ECU 480 million) and a 99% increase over 1990 (ECU 318.5 million).

Cofinancing of NGO operations dates from 1976. Other spheres of cooperation are relatively new, e.g. the budget items to do with Chile and aid to victims of apartheid were added in 1986; the budget headings on drug abuse control and aid for the West Bank and Gaza Strip in 1987, the budget items for the front-line states in 1988 and those on Vietnam and Cambodia in 1991. The inclusion of new fields reflects the NGOs' ability to operate in many sectors, particularly in fields where official Community aid cannot operate or where it is preferable to encourage operations via NGOs. NGOs also have an important role to play in the follow-up to humanitarian operations financed by the European Community in connection with work on reconstruction and rehabilitation and in furthering human rights and democracy.

It should be pointed out that the above list covers only the most significant spheres of cooperation with the NGOs, and those in which NGO activities are financed regularly and for sizeable amounts. In recent years, there have in addition been pilot and one-off operations, carried out by the NGOs to help developing countries and financed either from other budget headings or by the European Development Fund (EDF). Since these operations are administered on a decentralized basis by a large number of Commission departments, it was not possible to track them all down in detail for the purposes of this report.

The following chapters contain a more detailed account of the various spheres of cooperation with the NGOs in 1992.

I. COFINANCING OF DEVELOPMENT SCHEMES AND PUBLIC INFORMATION CAMPAIGNS
(Item B7-5010 of the budget)

1.1. Overview

In 1992 NGOs again showed themselves to be well able to absorb the financial resources made available to them via EC cofinancing. The large number of requests was a direct consequence of projects and requests submitted to European NGOs by partners in the South, and of the NGOs' activity in mobilizing other financial resources, whether public or private.

The appropriations for commitment entered in the 1992 budget under Item B7-5010 amounted to ECU 110 million. Practically all of these resources had been committed by the end of the year, as in previous years, as the table below shows:

| Year | Appropriations available | Commitments in ECU million | Commitment rate as % |
|------|--------------------------|----------------------------|----------------------|
| 1976 | 2.5                      | 2.5                        | 100                  |
| 1979 | 12.5                     | 12.2                       | 98                   |
| 1982 | 28.0                     | 26.9                       | 96                   |
| 1984 | 35.0                     | 34.4                       | 98                   |
| 1986 | 46.0                     | 45.0                       | 98                   |
| 1987 | 62.8                     | 62.8                       | 100                  |

| 1989 | 80.0                     | 79.6                       | 99.5                 |
| 1990 | 90.2                     | 90.2                       | 100                  |
| 1991 | 104.6                    | 104.1                      | 99.5                 |
| 1992 | 110                      | 109.9                      | 100                  |

In 1992, the overall figures for operations cofinanced (development projects and information campaigns) were as follows:

1 198 cofinancing applications dealt with by the Commission's departments, requesting a total Community contribution of ECU 239.7 million (not including a very large number of applications submitted informally for the purpose of verifying whether a formal request would be eligible and ruled out following preliminary discussions with Commission staff);

618 projects cofinanced, with a Community contribution of ECU 109.4 million (i.e., in financial terms, 46% of the total applications handled);

205 applications, requesting financing of ECU 38.6 million, which were not accepted or were withdrawn (i.e. 16%);

375 applications, representing a request for financing amounting to ECU 91.6 million, still under examination at the end of 1992 (i.e. 38%).

The Commission was able to respond to more requests in 1992 because the budget had been increased by ECU 5 million compared with 1991.

Commission departments continued to handle a large number of requests, in accordance with the criteria and rules laid down in the General Conditions for Cofinancing.<sup>1</sup> In examining each dossier, they considered the professionalism and financial soundness of the NGDO; the quality of the project; the Southern partner's operational capacity and the quality of the ties between it and the European NGDO; the impact of the project and its viability, and the potential multiplier effect on the target groups concerned.

It should be noted that in the Community system, dossiers are not carried over from one year to the next in a batch. The mechanism is more like a pipeline, with a continuous stream of financing requests and dossiers for consideration. When allocations for one year are running out, the dossiers continue to be considered for possible financing the following year, although highest priority is given to using the remaining appropriations for the most interesting projects or those which are most urgent from the perspective of the target groups. The system allows project dossiers to be processed properly and is more adaptable to the partners' needs in terms of scheduling.

The amount of payment appropriations under Item B7-5010 available in 1992 rose to ECU 95 million. Payments made in the course of the year amounted to ECU 94.99 million, of which ECU 55 million was for projects financed in preceding years.

The rigorous selection procedure which the Commission had to apply necessarily meant that some NGDOs which presented worthwhile projects had to be disappointed. As in the past, the Commission tried to uphold the basic principles on which cofinancing is based: maintaining a high standard for the schemes cofinanced, ensuring that "small" NGDOs have access to funds, rapid decision-making, etc. Special attention continued to be given to projects presented by NGDOs in the newer Member States.

<sup>1</sup> Commission of the European Communities, General Conditions for the Cofinancing of Projects undertaken in Developing Countries by Non-Governmental Organizations (reference VIII/764/87) and General Conditions for the Cofinancing of Projects to Raise Public Awareness of Development Issues Carried Out by Non-Governmental Organizations in the European Community (reference VIII/271/87).

The increase in the cofinancing budget granted for 1993 (to ECU 135 million) will be welcome in trying to respond to the requests. It is only to be expected, however, that as in the past, demand by the NGOs will continue to rise in coming years.

1.2. Cofinancing of development schemes in developing countries

1.2.1. European NGOs' growing support for partners in the South

In 1992, as in previous years, the Commission channelled approximately 90% of the appropriations under Item B7-5010 into the cofinancing of operations conducted in the developing countries, the balance being earmarked mainly for cofinancing campaigns to increase public awareness in the Community.

For operations in developing countries, the situation regarding requests and commitments was as follows:

956 cofinancing requests handled by the Commission, for a total Community contribution of ECU 214.2 million (an increase of 23% over 1991);

167 requests, requiring financing of ECU 32.7 million, not accepted or withdrawn;

305 requests, representing financing of ECU 83.5 million, still under examination at the end of 1992;

484 projects cofinanced, with a Community contribution of ECU 98 million (an increase of 4.5% over 1991).

It should be stressed that the Community continues to abide by the principle of giving extra consideration to requests from new NGOs. It helps new NGOs to increase their level of professionalism, either directly or with the help of experienced NGOs.

There was a modest increase in the financial scale of the projects cofinanced; the average Community contribution rose to ECU 202 457 per project in 1992, from ECU 187 193 in 1991.

These figures demonstrate the NGOs' preference for small-scale operations tailored to suit conditions on the ground and their partners' management capacity. This is further demonstrated by the fact that 60% of cofinancing allocations (excluding block grants) were for between ECU 60 000 and ECU 250 000 (averaging ECU 232 186); 14% were for less than ECU 60 000 and 25% were for more than ECU 250 000; yet the Community contribution can be up to ECU 500 000, and even ECU 1 million in the case of consortia.

1.2.2. Block grants

If a European NGO has worked with the Commission to its satisfaction for a number of years, the Commission may offer it an extra facility, namely access to the block grant system.

Under the block grant system, at the start of the year each eligible NGO may be allocated an advance of up to ECU 250 000 for that year, for unspecified purposes, which it must then use in the same budget year to cofinance a large number of very small "mini-projects" in developing countries (from a minimum of ECU 1 000 to a maximum of ECU 15 000). NGOs value the system highly because it offers them rapid and flexible financing for a wide range of mini-projects (e.g. the purchase of equipment, construction of small infrastructure, training, health, etc.) and allows them to meet the needs of the recipient groups through a kind of "capillary action". These mini-projects are often selected by the NGOs to complement the larger projects that they are supporting or they may serve to establish the initial contacts for cooperation with new partners in the South.

Between 1982 and 1992, the Commission cofinanced 780 block grants relating to 9 307 mini-projects accounting for a total of ECU 82.4 million. The average Community contribution was therefore ECU 3 854. The following table shows how block grants have evolved in recent years, and shows the rise in the amounts committed and the number of mini-projects which this facility made possible.

| Year | Amount of block grants (ECU million) | % of commitments under Item | Number of block grants | No. of mini-projects | Average amount of Community contribution per mini-project (ECU) |
|------|--------------------------------------|-----------------------------|------------------------|----------------------|---|
| 1982 | 1.2                                  | 4                           | 25                     | 161                  | 7 453   |

1.2.3. Fields of development project activity in developing countries

Table IV in the Annex contains a detailed breakdown of the 484 projects cofinanced in 1992 in the developing countries.

It is clear that the tendency to favour certain kinds of activity continued in 1992. Rural development, training and health all remained priority areas. These are certainly important fields in terms of people's needs and they are also areas in which there is a very large number of initiatives by groups in the South.

Many projects adopt the integrated development approach, because NGOs consider it to be one of the best ways of promoting grassroots development.<sup>1</sup>

In general, integrated development projects aim to support a variety of groups (small farmers associations, small cooperatives, village associations, women's organizations, etc.) operating in such sectors as agriculture, craft industries, training, health, environmental protection and the construction of infrastructure.

<sup>1</sup> An evaluation of integrated development projects is under way (see 1.5.3.). The results will provide more precise data on the projects cofinanced.

In agricultural development, a large proportion of projects (around 33% of the projects cofinanced in developing countries in 1992) involve support for small-scale agricultural production units, measures to combat desertification, conservation of tropical forests, marketing of food products, etc.

Training projects, which accounted for around 26% of projects in 1992, mainly consist of support activities for literacy campaigns, vocational training, training of local community leaders, training in appropriate technologies, etc.

In 1992, 21 per cent of projects in developing countries were in the health sector, of wide range of activities: was covered supporting community health programmes (hygiene, health education, etc.); setting up health centres; supporting specific projects such as maternal/infant health care, campaigns against tropical diseases, cholera prevention and treatment, and the prevention of blindness.

It is notable that in recent years NGOs in developing countries have shown particular interest in supporting production activities and revenue-generating schemes such as savings and loans schemes<sup>1</sup>, support for microenterprises in the informal sector via bank guarantees, support for the creation of family businesses by setting up revolving funds, etc.

1.2.4. Recipient groups and countries

The wealth of initiatives by Southern partners in almost all the developing countries was apparent yet again in the range of projects cofinanced in 1992.

The projects involved all of the poorest sections of the population, from small farmers to employees in the informal sector, to marginalized young people, peasant communities, village associations and street children.

The 484 development actions cofinanced in 1992 were carried out in 105 developing countries.

The geographical breakdown of Community contributions to these operations was as follows:

The 1991 report contained an assessment of various reasons for trends in the geographical breakdown of NGDO cofinancing, which is still relevant today. These trends must, however, be kept under review to prevent countries that have particular need for NGDO support from being neglected.

1.3. Cofinancing of public awareness campaigns in the Community

1.3.1. Role and importance of NGDOs in development education

In recent years NGDOs have made major efforts in the field of development education. The evaluation of development education projects shows that European public opinion reacts positively to awareness campaigns<sup>1</sup>.

<sup>1</sup> Evaluation of development education projects cofinanced by the Community. Summary report, 3rd stage, April 1991. Institut d'Etudes du Développement, Université Catholique de Louvain; the Peace Research Centre, Katholieke Universiteit Nijmegen; Economie et Humanisme, a research centre linked with l'Université de Lyon II.

Because of direct contacts with their partners in the South and their experience in the field, NGOs are in a good position to mobilize European public opinion.

The NGOs are, moreover, convinced that in order to achieve more balanced North-South interdependence, a fairer division of resources and wealth at a global level and sustainable long-term development, conduct and attitudes in the North must radically change. It is clear that these changes will not take place unless public opinion is informed, mobilized and sympathetic to the cause of the peoples of the South. To this end NGOs are conducting a wide range of campaigns, including lobbying, on the main North-South topics of international concern such as debt, world trade and GATT, the environment and development; the single market and the developing countries, and so on. At the same time they are putting forward proposals to improve European cooperation policies to assist the developing countries.

1.3.2. Sustained Community support for the NGOs and the situation in 1992

In 1976 the Commission set up the system of cofinancing with the NGOs of projects to assist the developing countries. At that time, a large number of NGOs were already involved in campaigns to heighten public awareness of development issues, alongside their work in the Third World.

The introduction in 1979 of an initial set of general conditions governing Community cofinancing of awareness campaigns marked the formal recognition of this new field of cooperation between the NGOs and the EEC.

At the same time, the Council and Parliament have always given their support by highlighting the responsibility borne by the Community and its Member States for encouraging information and development education and the key role played by the NGOs.

From modest beginnings of 17 projects cofinanced at a cost of almost ECU 200 000, the budget has increased considerably in recent years. In 1992 134 projects totalling ECU 11.4 million were cofinanced, which represents approximately 11% of budget Item B7-5010. Between 1979 and 1992 the Commission cofinanced 1 032 awareness campaigns totalling ECU 68.2 million in the twelve Member States.

In 1992, the situation regarding requests and commitments was as follows:

- 206 cofinancing applications handled by the Commission (not including multiproject programmes) requesting a total Community contribution of ECU 24 million (a 13% increase in financial terms over 1991);
- 38 applications, requesting financing of ECU 5.9 million, not accepted or withdrawn. These applications represent, in terms of financing, 25% of the total number of applications handled;
- 70 applications, representing financing requests totalling ECU 8.1 million, still under examination at the end of 1992;
- 98 projects cofinanced, with a Community contribution of ECU 9.9 million (an 8% increase over 1991).

In addition, in 1992 under the multiproject programme scheme, the Community cofinanced 36 programmes with a Community contribution of ECU 1.5 million.

Table V in the Annex gives a detailed list of all the operations cofinanced in 1992.

1.3.3. Types of development education project

Following the trend of recent years, the majority of development education projects cofinanced in 1992 concern mainly the public at large and schools. To reach public opinion in general the NGOs organize campaigns on a variety of topics such as North-South interdependence, Africa, migrants in relation to underdevelopment, international trade, agricultural issues, debt, human rights, drugs, the environment and so on. The NGOs' interest in producing and distributing films and other audiovisual material is also to be noted. Some of these films have been shown on European television channels. However, greater efforts towards other media, such as radio, the press, etc. need to be made in order to have an impact on European public opinion at European, national, regional or local level.

Schools are well provided for in development education projects, the main aims of which are to produce teaching materials and train teachers to use these materials, and to develop group-work methods around them. The subjects are very varied, although there is a preference for general topics on North-South relations, cultural or daily life, the social and economic situation in the developing countries, the environment and so on. It should be pointed out that the reform of the school curriculum in some European countries has given the NGOs an opportunity to include development education in the school system.

Other target groups reached by awareness campaigns are farmers' associations, trade unions, policy makers, the media, women, NGOs themselves (members and partners), etc. Some of the topics covered in projects cofinanced in 1992 include: Europe after 1992 and the developing countries; present and future cooperation links between Europe and Latin America (to mark the 500th anniversary of the region's discovery); international trade and North-South relations (in connection with GATT); democracy and development; environment and development to coincide with the Rio conference, and the like.

Most of the projects used a combination of methods such as: publications, audiovisual material, teaching materials, activities, exhibitions, lobbying, etc.

1.4. Cofinancing programme from 1976 to 1992

The cofinancing programme under Item B7-5010 was launched in 1976 on a trial basis and it was given a small amount of commitment appropriations, namely ECU 2.5 million. In subsequent budgets, partly as a result of the active support given by Parliament, these appropriations were gradually increased and in 1992 reached ECU 110 million. The table in paragraph 1.1 shows how the appropriations available under Item B7-5010 have evolved since 1976.

During this period, 5 990 NGO projects were cofinanced; the total Community contribution to these projects was ECU 752.6 million.

The breakdown of projects in the developing countries and operations to promote awareness was as follows:

| 1976-1992                               | Number of operations | EC contribution(ECU million) | %   |
|---|----------------------|----------------------------------|-----|
| Projects in thedeveloping countries | 4 958                | 684.4                            | 91  |
| Projects to promoteawareness        | 1 032                | 68.2                             | 9   |
| Total                                   | 5 990                | 752.7                            | 100 |

The 4 958 development projects were carried out by 544 NGOs in 119 developing countries.

The geographical breakdown of Community contributions to these projects is as follows:

| 1976-1992          | ECU million  | %            |
|--------------------|--------------|--------------|
| Sub-Saharan Africa | 282.7        | 41.3         |
| Latin America      | 236.1        | 34.5         |
| Asia               | 125.3        | 18.3         |
| Mediterranean      | 35.4         | 5.2          |
| Pacific            | 4.4          | 0.7          |
| Other              | 0.5          | -            |
| TOTAL       | 684.4 | 100.0 |

The ACP countries received 43% and the non-ACP countries 57% of the total Community contribution.

Tables I and II in the Annex show respectively the breakdown by recipient developing country and by Community Member State.

The 1 032 awareness campaigns were implemented by 338 NGOs in the twelve Member States.

Aproximately half of all the projects cofinanced were cofinanced during the last five financial years, from 1988 to 1992, and some 55% of all the funds committed were committed over the same period. These percentages reflect the rapid growth of the cofinancing programme over the last few years, but also an increase in the average financial scale of the operations cofinanced owing mainly to inflation and the emergence of larger projects conducted by consortia formed by NGOs. The average Community contribution to projects in the developing countries thus rose from ECU 123 000 in 1985 to ECU 202 458 in 1992, and the average contribution to awareness campaigns from ECU 82 027 to ECU 101 020.

1.5 Evaluation

Since the end of 1991 the Commission has launched four thematic evaluation exercises concerning projects cofinanced with the NDGOs in the developing countries in the following spheres:

- (a) Institutional support for grassroots organizations;
- (b) Vocational training;
- (c) Integrated development;
- (d) Savings and loans projects.

1.5.1 Evaluation of EEC-NGO cofinancing of institutional support for grassroots organizations<sup>1</sup>

The specific objective of this particular evaluation was to assess the application of Chapter XII of the General Conditions, which covers "Financial support for the activities of grassroots organizations in developing countries" and other projects aimed at improving the institutional and financial structures of such organizations.

This facility provides flexible financing for Southern organizations' activities, including their overheads and operating costs, on the basis of an overall programme. It thus broadens the scope of traditional cooperation, which is based on the financing of specific projects under well-defined budget headings. The Southern organizations' activities have to comply with the ultimate objective of NGO projects, which is to improve on a durable basis the living conditions and development prospects of people in the developing countries.

A. Procedure

The evaluation was entrusted to the Cota consultancy (Belgium) in 1992, and was carried out in three stages:

- (a) analysis of the files on 25 cofinanced projects and surveys of European NGOs;
- (b) on-the-spot inspections to evaluate a representative selection of support programmes (8 in all, covering Jamaica, Colombia, Chile/Uruguay, Peru/Bolivia, Senegal, Cameroon, Zimbabwe/Botswana and India);
- (c) collation and formulation of recommendations.

B. Main findings

1. During the evaluation process, the specific nature of the problems addressed led the consultancy to broaden the scope of its analysis to embrace the more general issue of the current features of NGOs and the financing system for aid channelled through them. Its findings were as follows:
  - Major progress in Southern association networks: emergence of new partners in the South and their increasingly predominant role in implementing and supporting development projects; parallel development in the North, where NGOs are becoming more involved in financing rather than implementation.
  - Increasing importance of non-humanitarian projects in the field of organization (support for self-promotion) and the economic (productive activities) and social (health, education, etc.) spheres.
  - Greater diversity of non-governmental bodies and types of intervention in the South. The consultancy identified the following kinds of bodies: grassroots organizations (focused on one specific project and with a formal membership base); cooperative organizations (set up to provide services for their members, who are carrying out specific projects); and support NGOs (with no formal membership base, designed to support the development process, and with a tendency to specialize). Some organizations combine the functions of a number of these categories.

2. As regards financing provided under Chapter XII, the evaluation makes the following points:

- This type of cofinancing meets a need frequently voiced to consultants on the ground. It reflects undoubted progress in the operational approach of Southern organizations.
- Nevertheless, the facility is significantly underutilized. Between 1988 and 1991, only 25 projects, including 13 in Latin America and 8 in Africa, were cofinanced - largely because many European NGOs were unaware of the new instrument's existence. None of the 25 organizations financed was a grassroots organization; most were support NGOs.
- On the other hand, numerous traditional cofinanced projects are in fact providing institutional support to Southern partners.

Most of the funds have been used only to cover operating costs, without necessarily helping to improve efficiency.

COTA's main recommendations in the light of the above are as follows:

- Retain the procedures for providing overall support to Southern organizations (Chapter XII), while removing the temporary provisions linked to the experimental nature of this facility (maximum duration of 2 years, no possibility of setting up consortia with European NGOs), with a view to improving organization in this sector.
- Optimize and upgrade the instrument by amending the current rules with a view to increasing administrative flexibility and monitoring efficiency; introduce an objectives contract between Northern NGOs and Southern organizations; guarantee long-term support, while ensuring that Southern organizations grow at a realistic rate; improve the Southern organizations' information system and carry out evaluations/audits before the end of each financing operation; reduce the minimum age at which Southern organizations become eligible for cofinancing under Chapter XII from 5 to 3 years; specify that the facility is primarily intended for Southern support organizations (who have in fact been the major beneficiaries) and for cooperative grassroots organizations.
- Promote Chapter XII, spelling out the objectives and rules.

3. The consultancy also looks at the Southern organizations' problems with consolidation and financing. It recommends that the organizations endeavour to diversify their sources of financing, and analyses the pros and cons of various self-financing options (access to local financing, obtaining resources linked to the organization's activities, development of self-financing activities not linked to the organization's activities).
4. Other assessments and recommendations are made by the consultancy concerning the conditions governing cofinancing of "classic" projects (appraisal, upgrading, etc.), the development of multiannual contracts with European NGOs, direct financing for grassroots organizations, and so on.

1.5.2 Evaluation of vocational training projects

A. Objectives and procedure

The evaluation focused on a cross-section of projects cofinanced with the NGOs with a view to establishing and supporting vocational training centres in the developing countries. An assessment was made of the quality of the projects, the results obtained and their sustainability, having regard, in particular, to: the infrastructure of the centre; operation and administration; methodology; training content and implementation; impact; openings on the employment market, and the like.

The evaluation was carried out by SACED (France), a firm of consultants, in three stages:

1. Selection of projects and establishment of methodology; meetings with the European NGOs concerned;
2. An evaluation visit to the various projects selected in Africa (Kenya, Madagascar and Ivory Coast), Asia (India and Sri Lanka) and Latin America (Brazil, Colombia, Guatemala and Ecuador), and preparation of evaluation reports.
3. Preparation of a summary report containing conclusions and recommendations.

B. Summary of the main findings

1. On the whole the findings were favourable: the programmes were all completed (infrastructure, fixtures and fittings, etc.) and were generally carried out efficiently.

At the same time, it should be noted that the projects that have been evaluated generally endeavour to meet the main challenges posed within their particular regional context (in economic, social, cultural and political terms), which is a clear indication that vocational training must continue to have priority in the cooperation field. In this connection, the evaluation team found that, in the main, project beneficiaries are the most disadvantaged sections of the population, both in the towns and in rural areas.

2. There is, however, scant information regarding the impact of the centres or projects themselves, since there is no means of measuring it. This lack of detailed information on an operation's impact has one major adverse effect: centres are unable to examine their mistakes or weak points and cannot, therefore, adapt the courses they offer.
3. Training programmes are generally well suited to the needs and capabilities of trainees.

With regard to technical, social and cultural sustainability, one of the requirements for training centres' sustainability that gives rise to difficulties is matching the courses offered to the real openings that they afford trainees. This requirement would be better met if centres were more outward-looking, so that courses could better correspond to the actual needs of the local area.

4. The main proposals put forward by the evaluation team with regard to revising the General Conditions for Cofinancing include the following:
  - (a) The general objective of the cofinancing conditions should no longer simply be the execution of projects aimed at helping the poorest sections of the population in the developing countries but also the initiation of a long-term development process, giving priority to three additional strategies: strengthening the partner in the South; improving the partnership between the NGO in the North and the NGO in the South with more emphasis on the medium and long-term aspects; and improving the design and follow-up of projects in order to enhance the sustainability of the operations undertaken.
  - (b) With regard to applications for cofinancing for training projects, the Commission should ask the NGOs to pay particular attention to the following aspects: definition of the target group and analysis of its needs and problems; identification of the general and specific objectives of the project; the opening up of training centres to the outside; provision of supporting documentation regarding sustainability of a centre and the operations that are to be carried out;
  - (c) As regards cofinancing policy on training, the Commission should encourage projects targeted at girls and women.

1.5.3. Evaluation of integrated development projects

This evaluation is currently under way. The first stage, involving examination of the relevant documentation and selection of the projects to be evaluated has been concluded recently. Evaluation of projects in the field will take place during the summer of 1993 and the summary report will be finalized by the end of 1993.

Integrated development projects (IDP) are of particular interest to the Community on account of their importance, both qualitatively and quantitatively. Integrated development were defined as involving a number of operations covering different sectors (economic, social, etc.) which render a project more comprehensive. A number of different types of body are involved and all the members of a local community tend to be affected. From a quantitative standpoint, there were 217 IDPs during the period 1988-91 and these accounted for 15% of all the projects cofinanced.

The statistics compiled by the evaluation team during the initial stage clearly showed that the activities pursued covered a large number of different sectors, since three-quarters of the projects involved at least five activities. Moreover, most of the IDPs included actions in the field of production (associated in most cases, with some form of technical apprenticeship), health activities, service infrastructure and welfare training.

Where a number of activities are pursued, this does not necessarily mean that they are integrated with one another. In the case of certain projects, integration simply means that a variety of activities are targeted at the same people or at people in the same local community. In some cases, however, those targeted are in no way connected and belong to different localities or environments. The evaluation exercise should make it possible to verify what form integration has taken.

Once the various criteria were determined, 23 IDPs were selected, six in Africa, nine in Latin America and eight in Asia. Sixteen of these projects will be the subject of an on-the-spot evaluation and seven will be examined on the basis of documentation. They constitute a relatively representative sample as regards their location (19 of the 23 are in rural areas), the European financing and support NGOs (25 NGOs from eight Community countries, plus one consortium), their budget, the activities pursued, the partners involved and the recipients.

1.5.4. Evaluation of savings and loans projects

The specific objective of this evaluation exercise is to assess the relevance, quality and sustainability of operations conducted by the NGOs and cofinanced by the Commission in the field of savings and loans. Savings and loans projects may encompass activities aimed at helping to develop and diversify business initiatives, particularly at grassroots level, to increase recipients' income and to promote the emergence of new players in the development field.

89 projects were identified during the first stage (based on examination of the relevant documentation). This examination enabled those carrying out the evaluation to highlight various features and draw initial conclusions:

1. Among the basic trends it was established that an increasing number of applications has been submitted in recent years; many projects focus on Latin America; a very large proportion of projects is geared to providing loans (more than 85%) as compared with securing savings deposits; schemes are largely targeted at financing manufacturing activities (86% of the projects)
2. Savings and loans projects are assuming increasing importance: they accounted for 6.8% of the total amount of Community cofinancing in 1987/89, while in 1990/92 they accounted for roughly 12.6%.
3. There is a very wide variety of projects in which loans are granted to meet social criteria (helping people escape from poverty) and the requirement of profitability.
4. The granting of loans calls for technical skills. This means that NGOs must either specialize in this activity or set up a specialized branch to deal with loans or sub-contract their lending operations to outside bodies.
5. Highly divergent objectives, methodologies and organizations are found, depending on whether projects are geared to securing savings deposits or granting loans.

As regards on-the-spot evaluation, 24 projects were selected, eleven in Africa, nine in Latin America and four in Asia. In addition to evaluating each project, a thematic assessment is planned covering: (a) the financial instruments used by different projects (guarantee fund, risk capital, projects based on savings, etc.); (b) the target groups (individuals, projects reserved for women, groups, microenterprises, etc.); (c) compatibility with the business environment (relations with banks, impact, etc.); (d) procedures involved in granting loans (decision-making arrangements; the role of training, etc.); (e) management of projects, etc.

A summary report will be finalized by the end of 1993.

II. OTHER AREAS OF COOPERATION WITH NGDOS

2.1 Food aid channelled through NGOs (Budget Chapter 72)

In 1992 Community food aid channelled through NGOs totalled ECU 257 382 000, ECU 158 040 000 of which was allocated under the normal programme and ECU 99 342 000 by way of the special food aid programme.

The NGOs therefore account (normal programme and special Africa programme) for 34.5% of the overall amount of food aid financed by the Community.

The value of food aid allocated under the normal programme for 1992 was up by 9.2% on 1991's ECU 139 540 000.

The programme of food aid to the NGOs is implemented by EuronAid, a service agency established and managed by the twenty or so European and international NGOs which most often seek Community food aid. A permanent dialogue exists between the Commission and EuronAid, to coordinate and improve the way these NGOs deliver and use aid, and account for the shipments made.

The third link in this chain of cooperation is constituted by the Commission delegations, which play an active "on-the-spot" role at every stage of the execution of food aid operations.

The overall total of products made available to the NGOs under the normal programme breaks down as follows:

| PRODUCTS            | QUANTITY (TONNES) | PERCENTAGE CHANGE ON 1991 |
|---------------------|-------------------|---------------------------|
| Cereals             | 309 009           | + 9.3%                    |
| Skimmed milk powder | 15 111            | - 24.2%                   |
| Sugar               | 3 436             | - 24.8%                   |
| Vegetable oil       | 16 545            | + 59.9%                   |
| Beans               | 31 995            | - 2.9%                    |
| Dried fish          | 348               | - 56.6%                   |

The situation in 1992, compared with 1991, is outlined below:

- (i) There was an increase in the quantities of cereals and vegetable oil made available to the NGOs.
- (ii) The continuing decline in the amount of milk powder is a reflection of the product's high price and the difficulty of ensuring that milk is properly reconstituted in the field.

It was therefore decided to reduce the overall allocation of milk powder. Skimmed milk powder is used only in health and social assistance projects, which are less numerous than development projects which enjoy higher priority.

- (iii) Owing to high prices and shrinking demand, there has been a remarkable reduction in the amount of dried fish.
- (iv) The slight decrease in the amounts of other products (sugar and beans) is attributable to a rise in the price of beans and the fact that ECU 400 000 was spent on other products, such as seeds and salt. The latter products were used in rehabilitation programmes.

A. Types of operation

During 1992, the NGOs implemented operations in the following sectors (calculations based on tonnage):

|                       | 1992 | % | 1991 |
|-----------------------|------|---|------|
| Development projects  | 17   |   | 18.9 |
| Refugee projects      | 5    |   | 2.6  |
| Humanitarian projects | 28   |   | 21.6 |
| Emergency operations  | 50   |   | 56.8 |

Unlike the table for 1991, the 1992 table does not include the special food aid plan among its "Emergency operations".

The continuing gravity of the situation (war, famine, etc.) in certain developing countries, most of them in Africa, meant that many development projects were replaced by emergency operations.

Those emergency operations did, however, see a considerable quantity of food aid used on large-scale "food for work" and social assistance programmes.

B. Breakdown by region

The severe problems, including drought, poor harvests and war, which continued to ravage Africa, led to an increase in deliveries to the ACP states for all products, save skimmed milk powder.

The further deterioration of the already disastrous situation in Africa resulted in the setting-up of a second special food aid plan described below. As in the Horn of Africa, which was severely ravaged in 1991, drought hit large areas of southern and eastern Africa.

For that reason, the special programme was supplemented by a decision to grant emergency food aid comprising 64 974 tonnes of cereals, 8 451 tonnes of oil, 1 071 tonnes of milk powder and ECU 5 373 000 in other products. Of this, NGOs distributed 36 000 tonnes of cereal equivalent, 3 650 tonnes of oil, 45 tonnes of milk powder and ECU 2 055 000 in other products.

C. Special food aid programme

During the autumn of 1991 it became clear that the dreadful famine that had been ravaging the Horn of Africa since the year before would continue to threaten the most vulnerable countries.

In early 1992 the Commission therefore proposed a special food aid programme, aimed not only at the Horn of Africa (like the 1991 special programme), but at southern and eastern Africa, and several other developing countries. This programme was in addition to the normal food aid programme for 1992.

In May, Parliament, the Council and the Commission responded to the appeal by agreeing to finance this special programme, which provided, at an estimated cost of ECU 220 million, an additional 323 500 tonnes of cereals equivalent to eastern Africa (41% of the total), 371 000 tonnes of cereals equivalent to southern Africa (47% of the total) and 105 000 tonnes of cereals equivalent (12%) to the Asian and Latin American countries.

The Commission Decision was taken on 18 May 1992.

By late October 1992, 95% of the aid, some 758 909 tonnes had been mobilized.

Over 80% of the aid was distributed by various NGOs, the World Food Programme (WFP), the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) and the International Federation of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies (IFRC). Less than 20% of the aid was delivered directly to the countries concerned.

Close cooperation with the NGOs has contributed substantially to the efficient and flexible implementation of the programme.

D. Mobilization of food aid

Taking the normal and special programmes for 1992 together, 88% of the total volume had been mobilized by December last year and about 75% had already arrived at the port of unloading. Most has already been distributed, with the remainder in the course of distribution.

The transport and distribution of aid to those at risk was particularly problematic in 1992 because of the sheer scale of requirements and the resultant aid operations.

The transport systems in the affected countries, particularly in southern Africa, were not prepared for such massive food imports (about 5-6 million tonnes of commercial imports and food aid in southern Africa alone).

However, it was usually possible to overcome the difficulties thanks to cooperation between the National Grain Boards, the Commission Delegations and relief organizations.

In East Africa, the greatest problems were obviously encountered in Somalia. In 1992 only the ICRC and a few NGOs, such as Care, Save the Children Fund and Help, were able to distribute food, and then only in conditions of great danger and instability.

The UN operation, part-financed by the Community, brought an improvement in security and the distribution of food aid. The rehabilitation programme begun by the ICRC in particular, with the distribution of seed and veterinary programmes, should now be extended to other sectors of the economy, the aim being Somalia's social and economic reconstruction.

Major efforts by the donor governments and international organizations along with the transport industry ensured that all imports of Community aid arrived more or less on time. Widespread famine and death were thus avoided, in spite of the dismal outlook at the beginning of the year.

2.2. Community contribution to storage programmes and early warning systems (Budget Item B7-2071)

In 1992 the use of this budget facility was substantially determined by the threat of unprecedented famine, particularly in the Horn and southern Africa:

- A large part of the available funds was used to improve the storage condition needed to enable the international organizations (ICRC, WFP and UNHCR) to deliver emergency food aid to the starving.
- At the same time, some of the funds initially allocated to this budget item had to be transferred to reinforce the budget for the purchase of food products, which proved inadequate to cover the exceptional needs.

Of the ECU 2.7 million available, funding totalling ECU 405 500 was allocated in 1992 for three NGO operations:

- . ECU 269 200 was granted to EuronAid for the purchase and transport to Eritrea of tarpaulins;
- . ECU 107 460 was granted to Punto de Fraternita for the construction of a warehouse in Quelimane, Mozambique;
- . ECU 28 900 was granted to Caritas/SENAPS for the construction of a warehouse in Riobamba, Ecuador.

Although 1992 was an exceptional year, the relatively small number of projects presented by the NGOs suggests that they are not sufficiently aware of the opportunities offered by this budget item. At the Commission's request, EuronAid conducted an information campaign among European NGOs in 1992.

2.3. Cofinancing for the purchase of food products or seeds by international bodies or non-governmental organizations (Budget Item B7-5011)

Commitment appropriations for this facility totalled ECU 5 million in 1992. ECU 4 million was allocated to NGOs and the remainder was reserved for the ICRC. Demand always exceeds availability, and 1992 was no exception. It was nevertheless possible to meet, at least in part, a good many requests concerning projects in various countries.

In 1992 it was possible, for the very first time, to use this facility to buy not only foodstuffs and seed, but also tools. This option was welcomed by the NGOs and the ICRC (the only international organization to make use of this cofinancing in 1992).

In 1992 less aid from this facility went to Africa. Whereas projects for Africa accounted for 90% of the total in 1990, this figure was down to 75% in 1992. The Horn of Africa's share fell from 55% to 33% over the same period. If Latin America benefited from this reduction in 1991, in 1992 Asia absorbed 23% of the overall budget. The percentage of projects involving a seed and tools component increased from 11% in 1990 to 22% in 1992. (All the above percentages are based on value).

2.4 EUROPEAN COMMUNITY HUMANITARIAN OFFICE (ECHO)

2.4.1. Background and aims

ECHO owes its creation to a series of recent international crises (Kurdistan, Bangladesh, famine in Africa, eastern and southern Europe, including former Yugoslavia and Albania) highlighting the need to improve the ability of the international community, and in particular the European Community, to react to disasters and other emergencies.

The grounds for setting up the European Community Humanitarian Office (ECHO), which officially began work on 1 April 1992, were twofold:

- (a) There was a need for a new office to improve the efficiency of Community humanitarian aid and help improve that of international relief efforts.

- (b) At the same time, there was a need to bring home to the general public in the Member States and non-member countries alike the fact that the Community was actively involved in relief, in other words to give Community humanitarian aid operations a higher profile.

2.4.2 Mandate

The Commission mandated ECHO to provide consistent management for emergency and food aid operations previously handled by different departments of the Commission, along with internal and external coordination for Community disaster prevention and preparedness operations.

Alongside this clearly defined area of activity, is a "grey area" covering exceptional circumstances: the Commission can call on ECHO to handle relief operations even in situations that are not, strictly speaking, emergencies.

2.4.3 Summary of Community emergency operations in 1992

1. The Commission was very active in the emergency aid field in 1992, having to cope with the numerous crises that arose in that year. In all, it granted ECU 368 million in emergency aid (see table below) to victims of natural or man-made disasters in developing and other non-member countries. Of this total, ECU 71 670 000 was allocated to ACP countries under the Lomé Convention and ECU 296 300 000 came from the 1992 Commission budget. 1992 was characterized by two major crises, the civil wars that hit Somalia and the former Yugoslavia.
2. The Commission was among the first to respond to humanitarian needs in Somalia at the beginning of 1991, shortly after the start of the in-fighting following the departure of Siad Barre. In 1992 the Commission provided ECU 40 million in emergency humanitarian aid, almost 40% of total relief to the country. The aid was used to finance medical, water-supply and special feeding projects implemented by the Commission's partners, including the ICRC, UNDP, MSF, Concern, SCF and, for displaced persons, the UNHCR. Community aid also helped pay for the dispatch of Belgian troops to join UNOSOM.

3. The civil war in former Yugoslavia has directly affected more than three million people (refugees, displaced persons and direct victims of the fighting) and led the Commission to grant the republics of former Yugoslavia ECU 276 million in emergency aid, ECU 267 million of which has so far been allocated to cover, for example, the delivery of 300 000 tonnes of food, about 2 700 000 family parcels, 178 000 blankets, 50 000 mattresses and 4 500 tonnes of toiletries, medical programmes costing about ECU 24 million or shelter programmes totalling about ECU 37 million. Thus, since the crisis in Yugoslavia started in 1991, the Commission has allocated emergency aid totalling ECU 290 million.

The Yugoslav crisis also necessitated the establishment of the European Community Task Force (ECTF), which is now operating out of Zagreb and providing Community agencies with logistical support in the field. It is also coordinating operations between these agencies. At the time of writing, eight Member States are already actively involved in, or have announced their imminent involvement in, the Zagreb-based task force.

* To this sum should be added ECU 51.5 million for operations financed by the EAGGF.

This task force has already organized several convoys to Bosnia-Herzegovina for the UNHCR and the ICRC. It should also help ensure greater consistency in Europe's efforts.

The ECTF is also directly implementing an ECHO operation involving the distribution of some 30 000 tonnes of food and 100 000 family parcels to refugees and displaced persons in Croatia.

An ECHO team in Belgrade is also directly implementing an operation to distribute 325 000 family parcels in Serbia and Montenegro.

4. Apart from these two major crises, the Commission has continued its efforts to help victims of emergencies all over the world. It has granted ECU 5.55 million in emergency aid to Eastern European countries such as Albania and the former Soviet Union, ECU 28.4 million to other parts of Africa (including Angola, Ethiopia, Mozambique and Sudan), ECU 11.5 million to Asia (Afghanistan and Bangladesh), ECU 500 000 in Central and Latin America (e.g. the cholera epidemic in Latin America) and ECU 600 000 in Oceania.

Commission emergency aid has helped meet the needs of people affected by all sorts of natural disasters, including earthquakes, cyclones and floods. It is, however, war that has most often led to the use of emergency funds to meet the needs of victims of conflicts throughout the world.

5. The Commission has coordinated its grants of emergency aid with the Member States' under the requisite Community procedure.

The Member States have notified the Commission of emergency aid totalling ECU 389.838 million, broken down as follows (ECU '000):

|                      |         |
|----------------------|---------|
| Belgium              | 12 326  |

| Portugal             | 0       |
| United Kingdom       | 61 491  |
| Member States' total | 389 838 |

6. In addition to coordinating efforts by Member States' governments, 1992 saw ECHO move into coordinating operations for former Yugoslavia. Besides the ECTF's coordinating role, the Commission appointed, at the UNHCR's request, one of its officials to work in Zagreb with Mrs Ogata's special envoy.

2.5 Aid towards self-sufficiency for refugees, displaced persons and voluntary returnees in Asia and Latin America (Budget Article B7-302)

This budget line was created at the behest of the European Parliament in 1984 with a view to helping refugees, displaced persons and returnees become self-sufficient in the period between the initial emergency and the longer-term development phase.

The volume of the facility has increased regularly since it was set up in 1984. In the period 1984-92 a total of ECU 248 593 000 was allocated to over 200 projects implemented by many NGOs (European in the case of Latin America and European and Asian in the case of Asia), international organizations (primarily the UNHCR) and government agencies.<sup>1</sup>

In 1992 Article B7-302 was used to fund 83 projects totalling ECU 81 209 000, ECU 62 469 000 (76%) in Asia and ECU 18 740 000 (24%) in Latin America. Of these 83 projects, 49 were financed with NGOs at a total cost of ECU 39 324 214, or 48% of the total committed in 1992: ECU 29 474 214 was allocated to 38 projects in Asia and ECU 9 850 000 on 11 projects in Latin America.

The programmes implemented in 1992 for refugees, displaced persons and returnees are broad in scope and geographical spread. They continue to support action plans adopted at the International Conference on Refugees in Central America (CIREFCA, Guatemala, 1989) and at the International Conference on Indochinese refugees<sup>2</sup> (Geneva, 1989). The international institutions also receive support for care and maintenance (UNHCR) and repatriation (UNOCHA<sup>3</sup>, UNHCR<sup>4</sup>).

In Asia, the NGOs are fostering self-sufficiency assistance through new projects in the areas of mine clearance, health and rural rehabilitation in Afghanistan, care and maintenance and health for Rohingya refugees in Bangladesh and health for Khmer refugees in Thailand. Eight NGOs, coordinated by a TA consultant, are involved in an ECU 8 million rehabilitation programme for Cambodian refugees. The programme's components include health, education, agriculture, infrastructure and mine clearance. In addition to this programme, of the 30 projects carried out by NGOs in Asia in 1992, 17 involve Afghan refugees and returnees, six are for Rohingya refugees, three benefit Khmer refugees, one is for Karen refugees, as well as two projects for Cambodian returnees..

In view of the peace process under way in Central America, Community aid since 1990 has focused on repatriation and resettlement. Projects cofinanced and executed in 1992 by European NGOs (in cooperation with local counterparts) in the region deal mainly with health, agricultural development and the reconstruction of housing in El Salvador, and health, nutrition and education in Guatemala. Of 11 projects executed in Latin America, seven concern the resettlement of returnees in their places of origin (in El Salvador and Guatemala) and four concern displaced persons in Guatemala and displaced persons and demobilized fighters in El Salvador.

2.6 Aid for NGOs operating in Chile (Budget Item B7-5073)

Item B7-5073, first included in the Community budget in 1986, was allocated ECU 4.5 million in commitment and payment appropriations in 1992, ECU 2.5 million of it for NGOs. Its aim is now to help the people of Chile through NGO schemes and contribute to economic cooperation with Chile.

During the year, 81 requests for a total of ECU 10 million were submitted by Chilean and European NGOs. The resources available permitted 33 projects to be financed at a total cost of almost ECU 2.5 million, with the balance being used for economic cooperation. As in previous years, all Item B7-5073 resources were committed.

The breakdown of schemes cofinanced under Item B7-5073 in 1992 was as follows:

|                                     | Number of actions | EC contribution (ECU) | (%)  |
|-------------------------------------|-------------------|-----------------------|------|

Projects financed in previous years have been, or are being, completed, with very encouraging results in most cases. All in all, 292 projects received financial help from the Community totalling ECU 26.3 million between 1986 and 1992.

NGOs and project beneficiaries alike continue to attach great value to the Item B7-5073 programme. All the information available suggests that it contributes to the Chileans' favourable view of the Community and builds confidence between the two.

2.7 Programme of North-South cooperation projects in the campaign against drug abuse (Budget Item B7-5080)

Of ECU 8 917 694 committed in 1992 for a total of 37 projects, ECU 4 220 694 (47.3%) went to 25 projects implemented by 23 NGOs.

These projects break down as follows:

In accordance with the programme's guidelines adopted by the Council on 26 January 1987, the projects are aimed at the various components of the drug problem and seek to stop the illegal production of drugs, and to curb, and, more importantly prevent, drug taking. A few NGO projects in this field (alternative crops, training, etc.) were also cofinanced as part of the Item B7-5010 programme.

2.8 Special aid programme for apartheid victims (Budget Item B7-5070)

1. In implementing the Community's special programme under Budget Item B7-5070, (ECU 10 million was made available under the 1986 budget, ECU 20 million in 1987, ECU 25.5 million in 1988, ECU 25 million in 1989, ECU 30 million in 1990, ECU 60 million in 1991 and ECU 80 million in 1992), the Commission is working within the framework established by the European political cooperation on 10 September 1985, part of which stipulates that assistance should be channelled through non-violent organizations, particularly the churches.

2. As regards the implementation of the special programme, 109 projects were approved in 1992, using up all of the budget allocation for the year. Community assistance was channelled through the following organizations::

|   | No of projects | ECU million |

The Commission monitors continuously the operations financed and carries out evaluations of the programme.

4. The Commission has responded to change in South Africa by making the programme more development-oriented through support for a variety of measures in sectors such as training, rural development and primary health care.

In the light of the changing situation in South Africa and the fact that in February 1991 the Commission opened a programme coordination office in Pretoria, it was agreed that the four groups would no longer have exclusive access to resources under the special programme. The Commission, in conjunction with its traditional partners, is attempting to widen the range of institutions with which it cooperates, so as to flesh out the 'development' dimension of the programme. The special programme will, however, continue to be expanded in line with the criteria and guidelines followed to date.

2.9 Support for front line States and SADCC Member States (Budget Item B7-5071)

In 1992, ECU 13 million was allocated to Item B7-5071, first introduced in 1988 to counter South Africa's efforts to destabilize the front line states and the member states of the SADCC.

The resources were used to finance 27 projects:

- ECU 1 440 944 (11%) was granted to 7 projects involving training, education and information, including study programmes for refugees from SADCC countries subjected to destabilization, training awards and programmes bringing together different groups of the population interested in a non-violent transition to a new South Africa.
- ECU 11 559 056 (89%) went to 20 projects aimed at providing initial aid for those affected by destabilization, in the form of equipment, care and education and training, often informal, to enable them to be reintegrated into society. The projects also aimed to rehabilitate hospitals and training centres, and to bring together and educate orphans and children separated from their families.
- Seven of the 27 projects, amounting to ECU 3 597 079, or 27.7% of the available resources, were specially devoted to displaced people, refugees and returnees, and the return of demobilized troops (Angola and Mozambique).

About three-quarters of commitments had been paid out by the end of the financial year, which shows how quickly the projects were implemented.

NGOs ran 20 of the projects financed, using a total of ECU 11 496 056 or 88% of available resources.

2.10 Financial assistance for the West Bank and the Gaza Strip (Budget Article B7-406)

Following the conclusions of the Council on 27 October 1986, a new heading (Article 966) was introduced into the Community budget in 1987 to finance development projects in the Israeli-occupied territories of the West Bank and the Gaza Strip. Until then, the Community had been carrying out an ad hoc programme of aid to these territories including rural development, study or training awards and other projects cofinanced with European NGOs. Between 1981 and 1986, total finance for this programme stood at approximately ECU 9 million (including ECU 4 million for NGO projects cofinanced under Article 941).

The Commission was able to finance a wider range of development activities under Article B7-406 (formerly 966) and funded 106 projects in the period 1987-92, with a total Community contribution of some ECU 44 million (1987: ECU 2.97 million; 1988: ECU 3 million; 1989: ECU 5 million; 1990: ECU 6 million; 1991: ECU 10 million; 1992: ECU 17 million). Health projects accounted for 45% of available funds in 1992, a further 45% went to education (primarily for the re-establishment of the universities) and the remaining 10% to other projects and technical assistance (farming, production cooperatives and studies).

Priority areas for financing under Article B7-406 included support for projects generating employment in the agricultural and industrial sectors; support for education campaigns (secondary and higher education and vocational training); support for primary health care projects and family planning; and schemes aimed at strengthening local Palestinian institutions. These were identified and formulated following direct contact with local organizations in order to ensure that they corresponded closely to local needs and development efforts.

2.11. Programme for NGOs operating in Vietnam (B7-5074)

This budget item was instituted in 1991 with the aim of helping the Vietnamese population through NGO operations. In 1992 ECU 1.5 million were allocated, enabling four operations to be financed through four European NGOs that had lengthy experience of working in Vietnam. The operations cover primary health care, the setting up of a revolving fund to provide medicines and agricultural activities. All the projects include a considerable training element.

2.12. Programmes for NGOs operating in Cambodia (B7-5075)

Since this new budget item was instituted, the operations set in train in 1991 to strengthen human resources (training of farm workers) have met with success. They have been accompanied by another initiative in the field of teacher training (involving the distribution of teaching materials and training aids) and primary education covering a number of the country's provinces.

In 1992, commitments amounted to ECU 1 050 000.

III. CONCLUSIONS AND OUTLOOK

Over the past 18 years, cooperation with NGOs based in the Member States has grown into one of the most active areas of the Community's development cooperation.

In 1992, as in previous years, the results of this cooperation were positive and encouraging, with a significant 32% rise from ECU 480 million ECU in 1991 to ECU 634 million in 1992 in the amount of Community resources made available to the various NGDO schemes.

As outlined in the report, joint EC-NGDO efforts cover a large and increasing number of fields. This diversification reflects the NGOs' ability to operate in a number of sectors, particularly in fields in which the Community's official cooperation is sometimes ruled out or where it is preferable to promote activities through the NGDOs. NGDOs are also called upon to play an important role in the follow-up to operations financed by the Community connected with reconstruction and rehabilitation work in the developing countries as well as in furthering human rights and democracy.

The findings of the evaluations undertaken for the Commission since the end of 1991 demonstrate, amongst other things, the vast range of projects that have been carried out, the involvement and the ability of the partner organizations in the developing countries to carry out projects and the support provided by the European NGDOs. At the same time, the various conclusions drawn and recommendations made by the evaluation teams provide food for thought in facing up to all the changes and challenges encountered in the South.

In this regard it is important to point out that the network of associations in the developing countries has expanded considerably during recent years and it now constitutes the channel for numerous local initiatives in these countries. Furthermore, the operations supported by the non-governmental sector in the North and the South do not focus solely on humanitarian and charitable work but are increasingly concerned with other fields: the organizational and political (support for self-promotion), the economic (support for manufacturing or commercial ventures) and the social (more focused management of operations covering, for example, education, health and urban renewal).

If they are to continue to stay in line with their policy of supporting local initiatives in developing countries, NGDOs must provide support that is unambiguous, well thought out and suited to the institutional development of the sector in the South and to strengthening the organizational structures of the NGOs of which it is composed. In order to do so, they must, together with their partner organizations and in tune with their demands, work out a strategy to supporting the on-going developments, this implies new directions for their support.
