This document is intended to accompany the Commission's Annual Report for the year 2005¹ on the protection of the European Communities' financial interests and fight against fraud which is drafted in accordance with Article 280 of the Treaty.

The first part contains a detailed description of the implementation of the 2004-2005 Action Plan for the protection of the Communities' financial interests and the fight against fraud in 2005. The Action Plan defines the priority actions for the protection of the Community's financial interests which are intended to implement the first phase of the overall strategic approach 2001-2005 adopted in June 2000. In the second section the services of the Commission make available all the answers given by the Member States to a questionnaire sent to them in preparation for the 2005 Annual Report on the Protection of the Financial Interests of the Member States.

FOLLOW-UP OF THE COMMISSION ACTION PLAN 2004-2005

In the strategic global approach adopted in the 28th of June 2001², the Commission has established the political objectives for the period 2001-2005. The Commission has identified 4 priority actions for the protection of the Community's financial interests:

The implementation of the global strategy has been achieved in the action plan 2001-2003³ and 2004-2005⁴.

IMPLEMENTATION OF ARTICLE 280 OF THE EC TREATY BY THE MEMBER STATES IN 2005

INTRODUCTION

The protection of the European Communities' financial interests and the fight against fraud is an area in which responsibility is shared between the Community and the Member States. Consequently, each year the Commission draws up a report in cooperation with the Member States on the measures taken to implement this obligation, according to article 280 of the EC Treaty. This report is addressed to the European Parliament and the Council and is published.

The Commission bases its report on the measures taken by Member States on the replies to the "Article 280" questionnaire. This questionnaire covers the period from 1 January to 31 December 2005.

The present document lists all the answers of Member States to the 2005 questionnaire.

Over time the report had become more and more voluminous. Both the Council and the European Parliament were concerned that its size was increasing and that it's being annual, horizontal and multisectoral hampered a detailed assessment of all the aspects of the protection of the Community's financial interests by the Member States. Since 2003, the Commission has therefore applied a new approach. After the traditional question asking Member States to report on new measures taken in 2005, the questionnaire focuses on a few major themes. The aim is to gather information on topics which go beyond the measures taken in the course of a calendar year, thereby allowing a more detailed analysis of these topics. The topics change from year to year.

As always, the first part of the questionnaire asks Member States to list the legal instruments that give effect to Article 280, i.e. measures to combat fraud and all illegal activities affecting the financial interests of the Community in the areas of own resources, agricultural expenditure and structural measures. The Member States has been asked to list only national measures and not those which simply transpose Community legislation, and to do so in brief so as to reduce the volume of the staff working document which incorporates the replies from the 25 Member States. At the end of this first question, Member States have the opportunity of giving a more detailed description of a few measures which they consider to have been the most important in the calendar year. This year, the question on own resources covers not just traditional own resources as in previous years but also VAT. Some Member States indicated to have a reservation about the inclusion of VAT in the questionnaire, so it has been agreed that it is open to Member States to answer this question. Ireland declared in its answer that as a matter of principle, Ireland will not be responding to the question in respect of VAT.

The second question concerns the recovery of sums unduly paid or not collected by the Communities. In 2003 and 2004, the questionnaire focused on joining civil actions to criminal proceedings. The 2005 questionnaire is dealing with certain aspects of administrative and judicial recovery procedures, but not with joining civil actions.

The third part of the questionnaire addresses the procedures which exist in the Member States for certifying the proper implementation of public expenditure. This question comes in the context of the Commission's efforts to obtain a positive statement of assurance on Community expenditure. With this goal in mind, it is useful for the Commission to know what systems for certifying the proper implementation of public expenditure are in place in the Member States.

1. LEGAL INSTRUMENTS THAT GIVE EFFECT TO ARTICLE 280 OF THE EC TREATY — PRINCIPAL DEVELOPMENTS

1.1. Horizontal developments: Have there been any significant new legislative horizontal developments (not just implementing measures) contributing to the implementation of Article 280 of the Treaty in 2005? Member States are asked to list only measures adopted on their own initiative and not those which simply transpose Community legislation.
If so, please indicate below: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> – the type of legal instrument (e.g. law, regulation, legislative decree), – the references of the legal instrument (number/date of publication in Official Gazette, etc.), – the legal instrument or code which it amends (if any), – the title of the legal instrument or a brief description (no longer than one to two sentences).

2005 –2nd edition) introduced a measure to combat abuse of the law in the field of VAT.

It was felt that there was good reason to introduce a specific VAT provision, similar to what is provided for in Article 344 of the income tax code 92, incorporating into national law the concept of abuse of law in cases where the sole purpose of the legal status given by the parties to an act or several different acts executing the same transaction, even if this transaction is genuinely intended and performed, was to avoid VAT.

Article 128 of the aforementioned law inserts into Article 59 of the VAT code a paragraph (3) to read as follows:

“The authorities will not accept the legal status given by the parties to an act or to several different acts executing a single transaction where they have evidence, by presumption or other means of evidence provided for in paragraph (1), that the sole purpose of this legal status is to avoid VAT, unless the taxable person proves that this status is justified on the grounds of legitimate financial or economic needs”.

The aim of this new provision is to combat manoeuvres whose sole purpose is to avoid VAT by means of legal combinations, and to enable the authorities to be certain that VAT due or deductible is based on the normal legal status that should be assigned to the transaction performed between the parties.

However, since these are cases of tax avoidance, there is no infringement of the law and there can be no question of refusing the taxable person the right to opt for whichever solution carries the lightest tax burden.”

This provision applies to acts concluded from 1 November 2005.

2) The law of 10 August 2005 introduced a new Article 93 undecies (B) in the VAT 2 Code aimed at combating the organisation of insolvency in cases of fraudulent assignment of a set of assets.

This article states that:

“(1). Without prejudice to the application of Articles 93ter to 93 decies, the assignment of ownership, or beneficial ownership, of a set of assets, including assets needed in order to retain clients, relating to exercise of a profession, responsibility or office or an industrial, commercial or agricultural business, or the assignment of beneficial ownership of these assets, can only be accepted by the collector at the end of the month following that in which an authenticated copy of the act was submitted to the collector responsible for the assignor’s domicile or registered office.

(2). The assignee shall be jointly and severally liable for payment of the assignor’s tax debts on expiry of the time specified in (1) above, up to the amount already paid or contributed by him or the amount of the nominal value of the shares or units granted in exchange for the assignment before the expiry of this time.

(3). (1) and (2) shall not be applicable if the assignor attaches to the deed of assignment a certificate issued solely for this purpose by the collector referred to in (1) within the thirty days before notification of the creditors' arrangement is given.

This certificate shall only be issued if the assignor submits a request in two copies to the collector responsible for the assignor's domicile or registered office.

The certificate will not be issued by the collector if, at the date of the request, the assignor owes any taxes, interest, tax fines or additional payments or if the request is submitted after an inspection has been announced, during an inspection or after the assignor has sent a request for information on his tax situation.

The collector must either issue the certificate or refuse to grant it within thirty days after the request is submitted by the assignor.

(4) This article shall not apply to assignments made by a receiver, liquidator or as part of a merger transaction, an unbundling transaction, or the assignment of a totality of assets or of an activity carried on in accordance with the Companies Code.

(5) The request and the certificate referred to in this article must be submitted using the standard models specified by the ministry responsible for finance."

The aim of this new provision is, firstly, to prevent a natural or legal person from transferring his business assets without settling his VAT debts and, secondly, to prevent the fraudulent procedure whereby certain tax debtors hastily sell off their business assets as soon as they become aware that their tax situation is subject to special scrutiny.

Royal Decree 754/2004 of 24 June, regulating the milk levy scheme. (BOE nr 162, 8-07-2005).

Its main purpose is to set up the basic operational requirements of the control system, to assess whether the milk quota's national reference quantities allocated to Spain have been exceeded and how to proceed with the appropriate assessments in case of quota overrun. Furthermore, an information system is set up to ensure harmonisation of all the information the public administrations concerned should have concerning the milk quota scheme. Besides, a coordination board, consisting of representatives of the Autonomous Communities and the Ministry of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food, has been established (with a view to laying down a transitional regime until the full entry into force of the new legal framework, at the end of the levy period 2006-2007).

Under the provisions of this Royal Decree and of Regulation (EC) 595/2004, the following FEQA General Instructions have been established:

14/2005 of 7 November, establishing the procedure for carrying out checks on milk deliveries by producers.

16/2005 of 1 December, establishing the procedure for carrying out controls on milk transport from farmers to buyers. It prevents the non-declaration of milk delivered outside the quota.

19/2005 of 2 December, establishing the most efficient control mechanisms over farmers, buyers and milk transport in order to manage the milk levy scheme. The scope of these measures covers the cow's milk sector.

In June and December 2005 the Department of European Programmes of the Ministry of the Walloon region updated the CD-ROM for functional administrations. This CD-ROM contains the Community provisions (general provisions, eligibility, publicity requirements, use of the Euro, management and control), regional provisions (implementing arrangements, control), programming documents, records of meetings, annual reports and a list of useful websites. The CD-ROM was distributed to the functional administrations (intermediate bodies) and the offices (cabinets) of the Ministers concerned.

The European Social Fund Agency provides operators with an administrative and financial guide to the Community, national and regional legislation relevant to the handling of ESF financial dossiers. In 2005 the guide was updated for two administrative matters: the revaluation of EPA (Walloon Region) and publicity requirements.

The ministers of justice and foreign affairs issued a framework memorandum on “integral security” concerning the best integral and integrated security policy, which was adopted by the Council of Ministers on 30 and 31 March 2004 and signed by all the members of the government. The strategic objectives of this security policy are set out in the introduction. Tackling fraud against the European Union’s financial interests is one of the priorities of this policy. In 2005 a network was set up for this purpose under the Federal Public Services for Justice and the Economy.

the implementation unit (second level intermediate body), the implementing agency (first level intermediate body) and the management authority.

The provision is necessary so that in the event of shortcomings in the control systems the paying agency has the right to stop payments and to require the implementation of measures to correct the problem.

The Minister of Finance's regulation No 63 of 19 September 2005 "Conditions and procedure for the recovery and repayment of structural aid and the transmission of information concerning the improper use of structural aid" imposed a duty on implementation units to inform the financial control department of the Ministry of Finance (AFCOS – OLAF's cooperation partner) within two weeks of the irregularity, the suspicion of fraudulent conduct or shortcomings in the control system. AFCOS oversees the paying agency and managing authority and, if necessary, other relevant agencies, whose competence includes contributing to the rectification of irregularities. With immediate reporting of irregularities it can be ascertained whether all necessary measures have been implemented and, if necessary, contributed to preventing irregularities and solving problems. The need for measures is because previously information concerning irregularities was provided only once per quarter, while several cases required a faster reaction at the level of the auditing authority and the paying agency.

The regulation also laid down a national financial limit of 2500 EUR for infringement reports; a report does not have to be submitted if the infringement is under this limit.

A copy of the decision to recover aid has to be submitted to the Ministry of Finance, regardless of the amount to be recovered.

1.5. Description of key developments:

Member States are invited to describe the two or three most important measures (whether legislative or administrative) taken in the course of 2005 about which they would wish to provide more detailed information. These should be measures adopted on Member States' own initiative and not measures which simply transpose Community legislation.

I) - Government Decree No. 55/2005 (III. 26.) on the procedure for recovering EU subsidies and the associated state subsidies improperly used or used contrary to the law or the terms of contract entered into force on 29 March 2005, but its provisions must also be applied – if the contract was concluded after 1 January 2003 – to the collection (in the form of taxes) of receivables arising from grant contracts made before the decree entered into effect, including contracts made using pre-accession instruments.

The Government Decree was issued pursuant to Article 13/A (10) of Act XXXVIII of 1992 on public finances (Hungarian abbreviation: Áht), and its objective is to provide a detailed description of the implementation of rules related to subsidies as set forth in Article 13/A (4)-(9) of Áht.

1) The scope of the act covers

– managing authorities and intermediary bodies specified in Government Decree No. 1/2004 (I. 5.) on the institutions responsible for the domestic utilisation of grants coming from the European Union Structural Funds and Cohesion Fund as well as the competent ministries and bodies with national jurisdiction,

– the competent authorities specified in Government Decree No. 179/2004 (V. 26.) on the establishment of the financial planning, implementation and control procedures for utilising the Schengen Fund, as well as the professional intermediary bodies and competent ministries and bodies with national jurisdiction,

– the institutions falling within the scope of Government Decree No. 119/2004 (IV. 29.) on the financial planning, implementation, audit and control procedures for the use of aids from EU pre-accession funds and transition facilities,

– the entities receiving subsidies (beneficiaries) from the programmes or projects, and

– tax authorities responsible for the collection of payment liabilities qualified as public dues to be recovered in the form of taxes.

2) Key provisions:

a) Termination of contract

– If the competent authority establishes that the subsidy has been used illegally or in a manner differing from their intended purpose and terminates the contract for this reason, the competent authority (entitled to enforce the claim) shall proceed to enforce the claim relating to the repayment obligation to which the beneficiary is subject in accordance with the provisions of specific other legislation.

– The competent authority may also terminate the contract if bankruptcy, liquidation, dissolution, ex officio cancellation, or property settlement proceedings are initiated against the beneficiary or if enforcement or tax settlement proceedings against the beneficiary are in

b) Repayment obligation

– If the beneficiary fails, entirely or in part, to meet its repayment obligation within the term set in the grant contract and the submitted prompt collection order fails to produce any result, measures must be taken to enforce the applicable guarantees in accordance with the grant contract.

– From among the guarantees defined in the grant contract, primarily those must be enforced by which the reclaimed amount can be most quickly collected. Collection of the claim by enforcing other guarantees may only be initiated if the above mentioned procedures fail to deliver any result.

– If the claim cannot be enforced from the guarantees, the body entitled to enforce the claim will refer to the competent tax authority to initiate recovery of the claimed amount in the form of taxes and concurrently notify the beneficiary that it has taken this step. If the tax enforcement turns into a court enforcement, the tax authority will notify the body entitled to enforce the claim of this.

– The body entitled to enforce the claim, as the referring party, is obliged to pay in advance the minimum enforcement cost specified in Article 161 (2) of Act XCII of 2003 on taxation procedures (hereinafter referred to as 'Art.').

c) Further procedures in case of failure to recover claimed amounts in the form of taxes

After receiving the tax authority's notice of unsuccessful collection in the form of taxes, the body entitled to enforce the claim is obliged to take further measures to enforce further security guarantees, if any exist. If these guarantees cannot be enforced either, the managing or competent authority will request that liquidation or tax settlement proceedings be ordered against the beneficiary.

– The organisation authorised to enforce the claim is obliged to participate in any bankruptcy, liquidation, dissolution, ex officio cancellation, and property settlement or enforcement proceedings that have already begun.

II) - Act CXL of 2004 on the general rules of administrative procedures and services (hereinafter referred to as 'Ket'), promulgated on 28 December 2004 in issue no. 203/2004 of the Hungarian Official Gazette, entered into force on 1 November 2005 and entailed the reform of national public administrative procedure.

The Hungarian Parliament adopted the act in order to strengthen and make transparent the service function of public administrative proceedings concerning citizens and organisations on the broadest base, to meet the requirements of operation as an EU Member State, to enforce the rights and obligations of clients as well as to provide a guarantee framework for the specific procedural rules by enforcing the primary character of the general rules. As we refer several times to Ket in the questions below, we will not describe any rule in detail here.

Member States are invited to describe the two or three most important measures (whether legislative or administrative) taken in the course of 2005 about which they would wish to provide more detailed information. These should be measures adopted on Member States' own initiative and not measures which simply transpose Community legislation.

III) - Article 208 of Act CI of 2004 amending legislation on taxes, contributions and other payments to the budget, which entered into force on 1 January 2005, amended Article 88 (5) of Act XCII of 2003 on taxation procedures. The amendment was promulgated on 15 November 2004 in issue no. 169/2004 of the Hungarian Official Gazette.

The Hungarian Parliament adopted the above mentioned amendment in order to ensure the rational utilisation of the control potential – namely, human resources deployed for controls by the customs authority and the state tax authority – of the authorities relating to taxes (particularly the valued added tax) that fall within the scope of the state tax authority in order to find and reduce various tax abuses and frauds as well as to improve the efficiency of audits. In conformity with the authorisation provided in the legislative measure referred to above, the customs authority and the state tax authority; in order to ensure and increase community and national revenues and find abuses (frauds), continuously aims at increasing the efficiency of control and the number and depth of tax audits as well as at widening the sphere of audit types.

IV) - Pursuant to the authorisation provided for in Article 149 (2) c) of Government Decree No. 217/1998 (XII. 30.) on the operational procedures of public finances, Annex 23 containing the declaration relating to the accountability of executive officers was amended as follows:

‘A) I, the undersigned, head of the budget organisation, in full awareness of my legal liability, do hereby declare that pursuant to Article 97 of Act XXXVIII of 1992 on public finances, in the year in the budgetary organisation I manage, I have provided for the organisation and efficient operation of preliminary and follow-up executive control built into the process.

I have provided for:

- the organisation and efficient operation of internal control.’

The Managing Authority has drafted a Manual of Procedure, available to the public, online. It has been designed as a guide to all key players involved in the management and implementation of Malta's Single Programming Document 2004-2006. This Manual of Procedures is continually updated with improved development and comprehensively addresses issues relating to: The roles and responsibilities of all entities involved; Compliance with Community Policies; Programming procedures; Aid schemes; Technical Assistance; Contracting; Monitoring; Reporting; Evaluation; Financial Management and Payments; Drawdown of Funds from the European Commission; Audit and Control; Reporting of Irregularities; Retention of Documents; Communication; and Delegation of Authority.

The Ministry of Finance has continued to introduce measures related to the implementation of accrual accounting in Government.

The introduction of accrual accounting will be a major change in the way the internal financial business of Government is conducted. This financial reform process will cross Ministerial and Departmental boundaries and have a major impact on the way each Department will conduct its day-to-day financial administration. Accrual Accounting will provide more meaningful financial information, so as to enhance the quality of the Government's financial decision-making process. It will provide a better and more comprehensive understanding of the overall in the delivery of 2000-06 programmes and gives additional guidance to supplement an earlier guidance note, with particular reference to financial control procedures, for assessing projects which are the subject of applications for retrospective ERDF funding.

GN4.15 on ERDF Overhead Calculations and Apportionments. This note (still having draft status) clarifies the basis on which overheads can be attributed to ERDF projects. Recent DG Regio and ECA audits have highlighted the fact that in many cases, particularly those involving Universities and other further education establishments, ineligible costs have been included in the calculation of overheads. This guidance note provides a framework in which project applicants and ERDF secretariats/executives can determine the eligibility of overhead calculations and acceptable apportionment methods.

At the end of 2005, it was too early to consider the improvements resulting from these notes. However, improvements are expected during 2006.

2. RECOVERY OF SUMS UNDULY PAID OR NOT COLLECTED BY THE COMMUNITIES IN THE FIELD OF INDIRECT EXPENDITURE

The Member States are responsible for recovering sums disbursed by the Community in the field of indirect expenditure, i.e. funds managed by the Member States on behalf of the Communities, mainly under the Structural Funds and Cohesion Fund, and agricultural expenditure under the EAGGF Guarantee Section. Statistics obtained on the basis of the available information on irregularities communicated by the Member States appear to show that the effectiveness of recovery is often influenced by the complexity or the efficacy of national procedures and of rules for applying precautionary measures. The implications for the protection of the Community's financial interests are considerable, which is why the Commission would like to find out more about the key aspects of national recovery procedures. Member States are advised to reply as comprehensively and concisely as possible so as to enable the Commission departments to make a useful comparison.

2.1. Preliminary

(a) The possibility of citing legitimate expectations in order to avoid recovery of a sum unduly paid

The right to legal certainty means that citizens must be able to rely on the information provided by the administrative authorities on the procedures to be followed. Where a citizen has followed the instructions given by an administrative authority and the latter subsequently accuses him of irregular conduct, it is sometimes possible for that citizen to cite legitimate expectations to justify his actions.

In your legal system, can the citizen (debtor) cite legitimate expectations in order to oppose recovery of a sum unduly received? If so, on what conditions?

In your legal system, is the concept of legitimate expectations compatible with any offence committed intentionally or by gross negligence by the person citing it?

BE	Yes.	Not mentioned.	Error by the administration; conferring of an advantage on the member of the public as a result of that error, and lack of serious grounds for withdrawing the advantage from that person.	Not possible if serious or intentional negligence.
CZ	No, but compensation is possible.	Act. No 82/1998	Incorrect instructions provided by an administrative body could be deemed to be a negligent administrative act. If the beneficiary were required to pay back the grant, he could sue the State c) for compensation for the loss he sustained as a result of this negligent or unlawful administrative act.	Not applicable.
DK	Yes.	Not mentioned.	Whether the sum is repaid depends on an individual evaluation in which consideration of the addressee's legitimate expectations and subjective circumstances plays an essential role.	It will depend on an individual assessment of the extent to which gross or intentional negligence is compatible with legitimate expectations. In principle, however, it must be assumed that there is a right to take action to recover the payment in such situations.
DE	Yes.	Section 48(2) of the Administrative Procedures Act.	The recipient has relied on the validity of the administrative act.	No.
EE	Yes.	Not mentioned.	If decision has been made to approve an application for aid the final recipient has a legitimate expectation that he or she who makes the decision (IA or IU) has been guided by valid legislation. If the person committing irregularities is the person making the decision, in the event of recovery of aid one must take into consideration a person's trust that the administrative instrument will remain in force.	No. If the case involves the action of the debtor or the lack thereof, then he or she does not have the right to refer to legitimate expectations and trust, as they have not discharged their obligations.

Administrative case-law, especially when Community law is at issue (Conseil d'État, 3.12.2001, Syndicat national de l'industrie pharmaceutique ; CE, 9 May 2001, entreprise personnelle de transports Freymuth , No 210944 and CE, 8 July 2005, fédération des syndicats généraux de l'éducation nationale et de la recherche publique SGEN CFDT , No 266900)	The debtor must show first that his expectations have been "betrayed" (e.g. by a failure to keep promises or formal assurances, a change in the rules, etc.) and second that his expectations were genuinely "legitimate" (e.g. it was impossible for him to predict the change in the rules). France thinks it justified for the sums not recovered by the French authorities in accordance with this case law to be systematically deducted from the statements of expenditure sent to the European Commission.	To date, there is no case-law on this issue. However, an offence committed intentionally or by gross negligence would not appear in itself to prevent the citing of legitimate expectations, although it would be taken into account in assessing respective liability.
IE	Yes.	No.	Only if the irregular conduct was shown to be as a direct result of the citizen following the actual instructions provided by the administrative authority and they were incorrect or negligently given. If the instructions are provided in a correct manner and not followed by the citizen then legitimate expectation could not be relied on. It is however open to a citizen to plead any defence, which may or may not be accepted by the court dealing with the matter.	No.

IT	Yes.	Law and case-law.	A person has unwittingly attributed importance to situations appearing but not actually corresponding to reality. Citizens/debtors may cite legitimate expectations when challenging the recovery of money unduly paid as long as their expectations were reasonable and they were unwitting, both circumstances to be decided by the court or the administrative authorities.	No.
CY	Yes.	“Law on General Principles of Administrative Law, (Mo. 158(I)/99)” and jurisprudence of the Supreme Court of Cyprus.	The citizen (debtor) has to prove that he was of the belief that he was entitled to the specific benefit.	Yes.
LV	Yes.	Article 10 “Principle of Confidence in Legality of Actions” of the Administrative Procedure Law.	An institution's error, for the occurring, of which a private person can not be held at fault, may not cause unfavourable consequences for the private person. The court evaluates the circumstances in each particular case.	No.
LT	No, but compensation is possible.	Not applicable.	In such cases the funds will not be disbursed to or will be recovered from the debtor (project implementer or beneficiary), who in defending his/her right to cite legitimate expectations will have a right to sue the allegedly guilty institution for damages. HU	No, but compensation is possible.	Act CXL of 2004 Administrative Procedure Act (Ket).	The decision may not be modified or withdrawn if it prejudices rights acquired and practiced in good faith, except for erroneous information in official records, on official identification cards, or in official statements in the certificate of citizenship. The client may request the revision or withdrawal of the decision (of recovery) if the enforcement of the decision unfairly causes him serious detriment owing to reasons occurring after the final decision was made. Pursuant to the provisions of the Civil Code, the administrative authority shall compensate the client for damages arising from any procedure that is not compliant with the law . Thus, in the event the repayment obligation is established for the client despite the instruction and information he received from the administrative authority, the client must fulfil this obligation. However, he may claim compensation for the damage or loss of profit he has incurred from the administrative authority providing him with erroneous information or instruction.	All the parties involved are entitled to appeal against administrative decisions, whatever the reason might be; no grounds are required. The client will not be deprived of his right to appeal merely because he has proved to be negligent in the course of the basic procedure (in which a decision unfavourable to him had been made). The negligent or intentional behaviour of the client will be judged in the course of the appellate procedure.

	Possibility to cite it: Yes/No	Legal provisions	Conditions (excepted when legitimate expectation is regulated by Community law)	Possible if offence committed intentionally or by gross negligence by the person citing it
MT	No but compensation is possible.	Not mentioned.	The principle is that what is paid without being due is recoverable as long as the action is commenced within two years from when the wrong payment was discovered or ought to have been discovered. However if a debtor received the undue payment only because he had followed the instructions given to him by the administrative authority then the position of that authority in an eventual court case where recovery is claimed will be complicated because it may be deemed not to have paid by mistake but to have granted its consent to such payment.	No.
NL	No, but compensation is possible.	Article 203 of Book 6 of the Civil Code; case law. AT	Yes.	Not mentioned.	Where the citizen acts in accordance with information provided by the authorities and is subsequently accused by the authorities of improper conduct, the citizen may cite legitimate expectations to justify his/her actions. Under the general principles of civil law a debtor required to repay sums may cite legitimate expectations only if the funds in question were spent in good faith. It is impossible to cite legitimate expectations if the funds were unlawfully obtained or used for some purpose other than that originally intended. In the case of the ERDF the final beneficiaries obtain ERDF funding under grant agreements concluded under private law.	No, legitimate expectations may not be cited in connection with any kind of negligence. The recipient may not even cite legitimate expectations where the debtor has any cause to doubt the lawfulness of the grant paid to him/her.
PL	Yes.	Case-law for public-law claims, Articles 14(a) and (b) of the Tax Ordinance (Tax Act of 29 August 1997, Official Gazette 2005/8, item 60).	Public-law claims: no details in the polish answer. In the tax law field, there is a well known principle that compliance by the taxpayer with the authorities' interpretation may not work to his detriment.	Polish law does not exclude the taking into account of negligence on the part of an individual citing legitimate expectation. However, how such negligence affects the obligation to repay the amount requested by the Member State will depend on the assessment made of all the circumstances of the case in question. For intentional negligence to exist, there must be a causal relationship between it and the amount wrongly paid.

PT	Yes.	Article 7 of the Code of Administrative Procedure (Código do Procedimento Administrativo or CPA). Article 204 of the Code on Tax Proceedings and Procedure contained in Decree Law No 433/99 of 26 October 1999.	The legal value accorded to the principle of good faith depends on each specific situation. Conditions: Legitimate expectations must exist – based on the good faith or ethics of the injured party; These expectations must be justified – i.e. there must be objective factors giving rise to a plausible belief; The expectations must have been acted on – legal actions must have taken on the basis of the firm belief ; and lastly, The legitimate expectations must be attributable – there must be someone responsible for creating the legitimate expectations of the member of the public. These conditions have been understood as not being ranked and as not all being indispensable: if one factor is particularly strong, this may compensate for another's not being present. In tax law field, enforcement proceedings, the principle of legitimate expectations does not constitute a ground for opposing recovery of sums unduly received.	No.
SI	No.	Not applicable.	Not applicable.	No. The fact that a party relied on allegedly false information obtained from the body does not provide exculpatory grounds.

SK	No, but possibility to cite action in good faith and under good intention, and possibility to ask for compensation.	Act No 71/1967 Coll. on administrative proceedings, Act No 99/1963 Coll., the Civil Procedure Code, and Act No 514/2003 Coll. on responsibility for damage caused by execution of public authority. FI	Yes.	Section 6 of the Administrative Procedure Act (434/2003).	There are therefore substantial differences in the various provisions on recovery. However, they generally include a provision against unreasonable recovery, which is closely related to the protection of legitimate expectation. The protection of legitimate expectations would not be warranted in the event of a deliberate breach of the law by a citizen or of a foreseeable change in the legal situation. Legitimate expectations must be assessed on the merits of the case, striking a balance between private expectations and public interest.	No legitimate expectations exist if the party concerned has provided inaccurate or materially incomplete information.

2.1. Preliminary questions
Member State	a. Legitimate expectation
	Possibility to cite it: Yes/No	Legal provisions	Conditions (excepted when legitimate expectation if regulated by Community law)	Possible if offence committed intentionally or by gross negligence by the person citing it
SE	Yes.	Not mentioned.	The rule governing recovery of sums unduly paid has traditionally been that the party who has paid the surplus amount has a right to recover it, but the rule has been modified several times in order to take account of the recipient's interests, especially in cases when the recipient has acted in good faith and has already spent the surplus amount or has adapted his situation accordingly . There are no limits to the debtor's right to cite legitimate expectations, either in proceedings with an authority or in court proceedings.	According to Swedish law the concept of legitimate expectations can always be cited, whether this is equitable or not. Normally it is not considered illegitimate to claim recovery of the full amount, when it has been proved that there has been gross negligence or the offence was intentional.
UK	Rural Payment Agency (RPA): Yes. Department of Trade and Industry (DTI): No. Scotland: No, excepted agriculture. Nord Ireland: as England.	Not mentioned.	Rural payment Agency: the operative representation by the Government authority should have been clear and unambiguous; the citizen should have changed his position in reliance upon the representation ; the citizen should have acted in good faith .	Such conduct by the citizen would generally have the effect of negating the good faith condition.

(b) The rights of third parties acting in good faith

What rights can third parties acting in good faith rely on to oppose recovery of a sum wrongly paid?

(c) In your Member State is there a system for coordinating recovery procedures as between authorities in the event of multi source financing? If so, please give a brief description.

Member State	2.1.b. The rights of third parties acting in good faith	2.1.c. Coordination of recovery exists
	Applicable rules	Coordination of recovery exists (Yes/No)
BE	Structural funds: No. Common Agricultural policy: Yes.	With the exception of the Wallonia Region there is no system in Belgium for coordinating recovery procedures as between authorities in the event of multi-source financing.
CZ	Third parties may seek compensation from the grant beneficiary for any loss they sustained as the result of the beneficiary having to pay the grant back. Acting on the basis of "legitimate expectations", the beneficiary could then seek compensation from the State (Czech Republic) for what he had had to pay to the third parties.	No answer to this question.
DK	The status of a third party acting in good faith as a contracting party does not entitle him to oppose the recovery of funding from the beneficiary.	From 1 November 2005, the Arrears Recovery Authority – which is identical with the customs and taxation administration (SKAT) – has been responsible for the recovery of all claims including interest, fees and other costs that are collected or recovered by state authorities (Act No 429 of 6 June 2005 on the collection and recovery of certain claims). As there is only one authority responsible for the recovery of state claims, there is no need for any coordination between authorities.
DE	None.	No.
EE	Pursuant to national law a relationship is formed between the state and the final recipient. Any obligations with regard to third parties are the final recipient's. The state recovers the aid, if necessary, from the final recipient.	The recovery procedure is coordinated, if necessary, by the person who made the decision to approve an application for aid.

Member State	2.1.b. The rights of third parties acting in good faith	2.1.c. Coordination of recovery exists
	Applicable rules	Coordination of recovery exists (Yes/No)
EL	Third parties can only cite the rights which arise as a result of their contractual relationship.	There is a system for coordinating recovery procedures as between authorities in the event of multi-source financing, arising from the general principles of the national administration.
ES	The only possible right of any third party acting in good faith could derive from ignorance of EU law provisions not compatible with national law, due to non transposition.	No. The recovery of sums unduly received is carried out in a decentralized manner by the bodies having intervened in co financing (end recipients of the system). These bodies receive instructions from the management body to fill in the Appendix to Annex II of the declaration of expenditure, with a view to reporting on their recoveries by computerised means.
FR	To oppose recovery of a sum wrongly paid, a third party acting in good faith could, if appropriate, cite the case law mentioned above regarding liability on account of inaccurate information or unkept promises, or the rules relating to the withdrawal of administrative acts which establish rights. France think it justified for the sums not recovered by the French authorities from third parties acting in good faith to be deducted from the statements of expenditure sent to the European Commission.	No.
IE	A third party acting in good faith, may seek to join the party at fault as a party to any recovery action taken and seek to pass on liability to the actual defaulter by way of indemnity and contribution from the party who is believed to be at fault.	No.
IT	The same rights as can be exercised by original contractor who received the money, as long as the third party was also acting in good faith.	No.
CY	Third parties acting in good faith can rely on Common – Law rights of “bona fide” third Parties. These rights are safeguarded and taken into account in the legal system of Cyprus, both in civil as well as in criminal proceedings.	There is no formal system; however, such coordination can take place on a case by case basis.

Member State	2.1.b. The rights of third parties acting in good faith	2.1.c. Coordination of recovery exists
	Applicable rules	Coordination of recovery exists (Yes/No)
LV	In legislation there are no direct and incontestable rights to rely on to oppose the mentioned recovery. In such cases third parties can rely on the civil rights. The third party according to the Administrative Procedure Law has the same rights as an applicant. The third party may rely on the following principles used in the administrative procedure: the principle of observance of the rights of private persons, the principle of equality, the principle of the rule of law, the principle of reasonable application of the norms of law, the principle of not allowing arbitrariness, the principle of confidence in legality of actions, the principle of lawful basis, the principle of democratic structure, the principle of proportionality, the principle of priority of laws, the principle of procedural equity.	Regarding Structural funds, where national public and/or private co-financing is provided such system is laid down by the law.
LT	Third parties acting in good faith, as any other manager, may defend their right of management (in this case, the management of the funds received) in a judicial procedure and require compensation for damages caused by the violation of their right to management.	The answer is not enough detailed.
LU	Article 220(2)(b) of the Community Customs Code established by Council Regulation (EEC) No 2913/92 of 12 October 1992 provides that except in the cases referred to in the second and third subparagraphs of Article 217(1), subsequent entry in the accounts shall not occur where the amount of duty legally owed was not entered in the accounts as a result of an error on the part of the customs authorities which could not reasonably have been detected by the person liable for payment, the latter for his part having acted in good faith and complied with all the provisions laid down by the legislation in force as regards the customs declaration. The person liable may plead good faith when he can demonstrate that, during the period of the trading operations concerned, he has taken due care to ensure that all the conditions for the preferential treatment have been fulfilled.	Not mentioned.

Member State	2.1.b. The rights of third parties acting in good faith	2.1.c. Coordination of recovery exists
	Applicable rules	Coordination of recovery exists (Yes/No)
HU	The general rules of the Civil Code apply to third parties acting in good faith. There is no legal relationship between the third party acting in good faith and the provider of the subsidy. As there is only a legal relationship between the principal of the service or matter (the beneficiary) and the third party, it is not possible to reclaim the sum unduly paid from the third party acting in good faith by referring to the irregularity of the subsidy.	No.
MT	It is not necessary to prove the bad faith of the recipient when suing for the recovery of sums unduly paid. Strictly, third parties acting in good faith who have no direct juridical relationship with the administrative authority have rights only against the person with whom they contracted and they may not oppose the recovery of the sum due by the person to whom it was wrongly paid. Likewise the administrative authority may not recover from them since it has no juridical relationship with them. Such third parties are however likely to be allowed to intervene in proceedings where recovery is sought.	Such co-ordination does not have a legal basis and would have to be made on a case by case basis using 'cumulative' actions if necessary. It is more likely that each creditor will file its own separate claim in order to avoid the raising of procedural obstacles.
NL	None.	No.
AT	Claims based on conditions must be reduced where the provisions of the goods or services brought the recipient disadvantages as well as advantages and he/she appears to merit protection as the person providing the goods or services (making good financial prejudice). Case law holds that undue wage, salary or maintenance payments may not be recovered where the recipient acted in good faith, but this does not currently apply to agricultural subsidies provided by Austria. The third party who acted in good faith is entitled to cancel the contract and claim compensation from the contractual partner who failed to fulfil the contract or who must account for the fact that the payment could not be made or was responsible for the situation.	CAP: In administrative and civil law cases most recoveries are effected by Agrarmarkt Austria (the Austrian agricultural market organisation). Where, however, other authorities recover sums unduly paid in other sectors (e.g. export refunds), there is no coordination. ERDF: No.

Member State	2.1.b. The rights of third parties acting in good faith	2.1.c. Coordination of recovery exists
	Applicable rules	Coordination of recovery exists (Yes/No)
PL	Third parties with property rights or ownership rights for which enforcement proceedings are under way may apply to the enforcement agency for exemption from enforcement. In addition, third parties acting in good faith which receive amounts wrongly paid may apply for enforcement to be limited pursuant to Article 829 et seq. of the Code of Civil Procedure. A basic right of third parties is the right to obtain damages for losses incurred. It is also possible for third parties to obtain damages on the basis of legislation concerning the Treasury's liability for losses caused by action incompatible with the law or negligence when exercising power. A third party who is the spouse of a debtor may effectively oppose enforcement or limit its scope in so far as it concerns jointly owned property. Under part III of the Tax Act, third parties are liable for the debtor's arrears to the full extent of their assets, jointly and severally with the debtor or his legal successor. In such cases third parties may lodge a retrospective claim against the debtor under the general rules.	The Ordinance of the Ministry of Agriculture and Rural Development dated 1 September 2004 set up a system for exchanging information on debtors in respect of payments earmarked for the implementation of the CAP which were received unduly or the amount of which was excessive.
PT	Third parties, even when acting in good faith, are not considered part of the legal/administrative relationship and therefore cannot oppose recovery. Third parties acting in good faith have the right to oppose recovery of a sum wrongly paid under Act No 446/2002 Coll. on mutual assistance in the recovery of some kinds of financial receivables, as amended by Act No 223/2004.	In Portugal, even though a programme may be financed by more than one structural fund, specific actions and projects come under only one fund, so there is no need for coordination between authorities with a view to recovering sums unduly paid. As regards assistance under the EAGGF (Guarantee and Guidance Section) paid by IFADAP/INGA, the procedure for recovering/collecting sums unduly paid is the same in so far as it applies to all recovery proceedings irrespective of the fund concerned.
SI	The Execution of Judgments in Civil Matters and Insurance of Claims Act stipulates the right of a third party to lodge an objection against a decision of recovery, if that party can demonstrate as probable that it has a right pertaining to the subject of recovery that prevents said recovery.	Provisions of the Enforcement of Judgments in Civil Matters and Insurance of Claims Act. Tax Procedure Act.

Member State	2.1.b. The rights of third parties acting in good faith	2.1.c. Coordination of recovery exists

SK	If compulsory execution of a decision affects the right of a third party to a given thing which does not allow execution of the decision, that person may protect themselves by submitting a plaint to a civil court for exclusion of the given thing from enforcement of the decision. Third parties acting in good faith have the right to oppose recovery of a sum wrongly paid under Act No 446/2002 Coll. on mutual assistance in the recovery of some kinds of financial receivables, as amended by Act No 223/2004.	Yes, there is a system for coordinating recovery procedures between individual competent authorities. Initial tasks are performed by the competent administrative body.
FI	Third parties acting in good faith normally cannot oppose measures carried out under public law to recover sums from their co-contractors or, in certain cases in accordance with special legal provisions, from the third parties themselves. In many cases, the only legal remedy available to third parties is therefore to institute civil proceedings against their co-contractor with a view to annulling the contract and obtaining compensation. In situations involving administrative action to recover financial benefits from third parties, such parties naturally have a right of appeal against recovery. When a third party is excluded from recovery measures, its legal interest in the matter is not generally considered sufficient to give rise to the right of appeal. However, the possibility cannot be excluded in administrative proceedings that a third party might intervene on behalf of an appeal lodged by a recovery.	Finland has a nationwide register and data system for unpaid debts as well as various credit registers, but no separate system for coordinating recovery procedures between authorities in the event of multi-source financing.
SE	Claims for recovery cannot succeed against a third party. Sums wrongly paid can be recovered only from the formal recipient. A third party's right to seek performance of a contract through the courts does not turn on whether or not the other party has received the Community financing which he expected unless there has been a specific agreement to that end and thus does not depend on whether or not the recovery is effected on the other party's Community financing.	No.

Member State	2.1.b. The rights of third parties acting in good faith	2.1.c. Coordination of recovery exists
	Applicable rules	Coordination of recovery exists (Yes/No)
UK	In Scotland, there are various cases of potentially defective acquisitions of (rights in) things where the potential defect is cured by the good faith of the person acquiring. For example where a purchaser (P) fraudulently induces a seller (S) to transfer certain property, for example by paying with a worthless cheque. Here, in case of movables, (P), notwithstanding the fraud, will generally acquire a voidable or reducible title to the goods. If a third party (T) then in good faith acquires the goods for value from (P) before (S) has taken any steps sufficient to reduce or avoid P's voidable title, T's right to the goods is then indefeasible. By contrast, in a case of theft, the original owner retains unimpaired rights and no ulterior transactions between the thief and an honest purchaser or any subsequent purchaser, however good their faith, suffices to divest the owner of his or her rights. A third party receiving a payment in error might be able to resist a claim for repayment, or restitution on the ground.	Projects can only receive Structural Funds from one source therefore each fund usually operates their own recovery procedures. If there are different authorities involved, generally speaking the "lead" authority will handle recovery action on behalf of all the different authorities involved. This would be dealt with on a case-by-case basis. There is a pooling of resources and information, in so far as this is compatible with privacy and data rights of the individual. Various databases are accessible by Departments for recording allocations, expenditure and recoveries.

2.2. The administrative recovery procedure (or procedure for recovering amounts wrongly paid)

Where a claim has been established, the relevant authority launches the recovery procedure. Please give a brief outline of the rules applicable to the administrative recovery procedure as applied to the recovery of indirect Community expenditure (as defined at point 3 in the Introduction) after an irregularity is detected, by answering the following questions:

(a) Voluntary payment

In general, after establishing the claim, the administrative authority calls on the debtor to pay the amount to be recovered by issuing a debit note. Failing voluntary payment within a specified time limit, the administrative authority issues formal notice or an injunction to pay.

When the administrative recovery procedure is launched, is a debit note automatically sent to the debtor, requesting him to pay voluntarily the amount that is to be recovered? If so, is there a deadline stipulated in law after which it is considered that there has been no voluntary payment and that formal notice should be given? If so, what is it? If not, what deadline is generally applied in practice?

(b) Notice or injunction to pay

Is there a deadline stipulated in law for the issuance of formal notice or an administrative payment injunction, or is this determined on a case by case basis? What is the deadline (including deadlines for reminders)?

2.3. Enforcement

(a) Apart from cases of offsetting or where contractual guarantees are called in (see 2.3), are there situations in your legal system in which enforcement measures can be taken without the need for court action? If so, what conditions apply?

(b) Where court action must be taken to obtain enforcement measures, which courts have jurisdiction?

Member State	2.2. The administrative recovery procedure			2.3. Enforcement
	a. Is a debit note sent?	Deadline for debit note	b. formal notice/administrative payment injunction	Deadline	a. Possibility without court action	b. Jurisdiction where court action needed
BE	An invitation to pay is systematically sent to the debtor.	Normally 30, 60 days.	An injunction to pay is sent to the debtor.	No deadline is stipulated in the Belgium law. The deadline normally applied varies between 2 months and 1 year.	In principle, there are no situations where enforcement measures can be taken without court actions.	The magistrate's court or the county court, whether the claim is less than €1860 or more.
CZ	There is a decision issued by the Tax Administration.	15 days, plus 8 days additional time-limit.	Valid decision of the relevant body.	The debtor has to pay within the deadline if he fails to pay an additional time-limit of 8 days is set. Once the additional time-limit is up the financial office proceed to effect recovery forthwith.	No need for court action to enforce recovery tax debts. Financial offices are authorised to carry out enforcement.	Where a financial office decides to conduct enforcement through a court or bailiff, the court with jurisdiction will be the civil court in whose district the debtor's place of residence or place of business is located in the case of natural persons or in whose district the debtor's registered offices are located in the case of legal persons

DK	The debtor receive a debit note or some other form of written notification.	No deadline stipulated in the law. It depends on the rules governing the grant, one or two months.	If there is a failure to repay, a set-off may be applied.	.There is no deadline stipulated in law for the issue of a formal payment demand or order.	Claims can be recovered by the bailiffs of the Arrears Recovery Authority by distraint. If there is no legal basis for such distraint, it must be levied by the Bailiff's court. Another possibility is an order for wage deduction which can be issued by the Arrears Recovery Authority, if there is a legal basis.	In the event of individual proceedings (distraint): bailiff's court (Section 487 of the Code of Civil Procedure, No 910 of 27 September 2005). In the event of universal proceedings (bankruptcy, etc): bankruptcy court (Bankruptcy Act, No 118 of 4 February 1997).
DE	No provision for formal payment notices.	Recovery orders often stipulate 4 weeks for the payment.	Recovery orders.	A period of four weeks for payment.	Under national law, the main custom's offices internal administrative execution departments must enforce the measures.	Not applicable.
EE	No voluntary payment, there is a decision for recovering aid.	No deadline mentioned.	A decision to recover aid is taken.	A decision to recover aid is taken within 20 days from the fact. It is sent to the recipient within 10 days. A decision to recover aid may be taken within 5 years after the last payment.	The law does not provide for enforcement of a decision to recover aid. A notarial agreement is possible and then based on this agreement enforcement measures can be taken.	As the granting and recovery of structural aid are subject to administrative proceedings, the recovery decision can be made by an administrative court. It is therefore possible to enforce the administrative court's decision in the case.

As a rule, it does have a suspensory effect, however the decision may be enforced before it has become final, if there is a provision in law to this effect and If by nature the decision requires immediate enforcement or for a public interest it can not be delayed.	Under Section 9 of the Act on the Enforced Collection of Taxes and Charges, the imposition of an injunction or suspension of enforcement may be made conditional on the applicant providing the enforcement officer with security for the debt if recovery or enforcement of the debt might otherwise be put at risk. If the applicant provides the required security, the court must forbid enforcement or order its suspension. Administrative courts do not have the power to order precautionary measures proper, such as the seizure of assets.

Member State	2.4. The administrative contentious procedure
	a. Jurisdiction	b. effect of an appeal	c. Interim and/or precautionary measures
SE	Concerning EAGGF appeals against recovery orders can be made to the Swedish Board of agriculture. Appeals against orders issued by the Swedish Board of Agriculture can be made to Administrative courts. Appeals against Enforcement Authority orders can be made to the civil court. Concerning Structural Funds appeals are only accepted if the order concerns grants from EAGF or FIG.	Administrative courts can temporarily suspend the enforcement of a recovery order that would be directly enforceable. Concerning EAGGF enforcement can be suspended if an appeal is lodge.	Under section 28 of the Administrative Courts Procedure Act (1971:291) the administrative courts can decide on interim or precautionary measures. The civil courts can decide on interim or precautionary measures, such as seizure, under Chapter 15 of the Code of Judicial Procedure.
UK	Nationally, Civil Court have jurisdiction. However there may be different recourse action where the debtor challenges a recovery decision as a matter of public law the Administrative Court has exclusive jurisdiction. The County Court or High Court, have also jurisdiction when the debtor challenges a decision in case of offsetting or damage or counterclaim where the authority has taken is own action. Theoretically a debtor could take action by way of judicial review in the Court of Session in relation to a decision to seek repayment (e.g. a letter or invoice). However when legal procedure had been commenced in sheriff court the debtor would have to challenge the decision by defending that sheriff court claim rather than a separate judicial review claim	In the Scottish Executive, no general rule can be stated, but frequently a recovery order would be suspended by an appeal. In RPA in practice an appeal has a suspensory effect. In England the debtor can only appeal if he can prove that they know about the court proceedings or could not attend.	In Scotland The court may take the following interim or precautionary measures: Arrestment on the dependence – an order freezing sums held by a third party; Caution as a condition precedent to further procedure – here the court may require consignment into court of the sum in dispute (or part thereof); Interim decree – this is an order for part payment – usually of a sum not in dispute; The allowing of early extract or the superseding of the extract. Arrestment in execution – a diligence after the case is concluded which freezes sums held by third parties – pending their release to the creditor. In England the court can grant injunctive relief in appropriate case, in particular preservation of assets.

2.5. Priority given to public claims

In your legal system, is public assistance (including Community grants) given priority in the event of an insolvency? If so, please give a brief description of the procedure to be followed and an indication of the ranking of the various categories of priority creditors.

Member State	2.5. Priority given to the public claims
	Government claim (including Community assistance, but not tax or customs claims) has priority.	Tax or custom claims have priority	Priority order
BE	No.
CZ	No.	Tax claims do not have priority as a general rule, but if a tax claim arises after bankruptcy has been declared, then it counts as a priority claim and may be satisfied at any point in the course of the bankruptcy proceedings.	The Czech Republic would point out that a new law is being drafted on bankruptcy and procedures for handling it (the Insolvency Act) which should make it possible for “public assistance” to be given priority.
DK	No.	No.
DE	No.
EE	No.
EL	No.		The ranking of the various categories of priority creditors is: (a) funeral costs, (b) maintenance costs, (c) education costs, (d) medical costs, (e) legal costs, (f) insurance costs (Social Insurance Institute - IKA), (g) public authorities.

Member State	2.5. Priority given to the public claims
	Government claim (including Community assistance, but not tax or customs claims) has priority.	Tax or custom claims have priority	Priority order
ES	No.	Yes.	Enforcement procedures carried out by AEAT to collect due and unpaid debts (seizure, enforcement...), are given priority regarding other creditors (except those holding claims to the title, liens, mortgages and other property rights recorded in the relevant registry before the date on which the claim of the Treasury Department is recorded in it, complying with the “minimum subsistence threshold” established by law. The administration is also entitled to place a lien enforceable against all parties on goods declared to customs for the payment of the customs and tax debt.
FR	No.	Yes.	The claims of paying agencies, as public bodies, are treated in the same way, whether they are national or Community claims. They are regarded as non-preferential, unsecured claims, and are ranked after the preferential claims held by the tax and customs authorities, which are themselves ranked after the super-preferential claim of employees and court fees. Experience shows that the recovery of preferential claims, and in particular tax and social security claims, in most cases exhausts any sums available for the recovery of EAGGF Guarantee Section claims. It is not possible to rank the latter higher than social security, tax or customs claims. The same is true of the Structural Funds.
IE	Most monies due to Revenue Commissioners have priority over other sums due by the liquidated company or individual debtor. This would encompass most taxes due to the State. EU funding does not per se have any special priority.	Yes.	EU funding does not per se have any special priority and if due, would be deemed to be “unsecured” and would fall into the last category of creditor to be paid out of any funds left over, once all priorities and secured creditors, debenture holders or mortgagees have been paid back.

Member State	2.5. Priority given to the public claims
	Government claim (including Community assistance, but not tax or customs claims) has priority.	Tax or custom claims have priority	Priority order
IT	Yes.		Where public assistance for the development of productive activities, in the form of incentives, grants, concessions, aid and benefits of any kind, is withdrawn, the administration's claims are given priority. Under section 9 of Legislative Order No 123/1998, claims for the repayment of assistance granted for the above reasons "take priority over any other pre-emptive right, apart from legal costs and costs provided for under section 2751-bis of the Civil Code or prior claims of third parties." These privileges are exercised by law in bankruptcy proceedings (e.g. when bankruptcy is proved) or by means of enforcement procedures. EAGGF refunds are covered by section 6 of Presidential Decree No 532/73, which assigns EAGGF claims a special, movable priority. In the case of bankruptcy, the administration applies for bankruptcy to be proved as a privileged creditor.
CY	No.	Yes.	The ranking of the various creditors is the following: Expenses and fees of the official receiver; Creditors that have security on assets (i.e. mortgages); Hire purchases, fixed charge creditors (i.e. on equipment); Priority creditors which include the amounts due to the Government for duties and income tax and employee salaries, social security contributions and PAYE. Unsecured creditors on a pro rata basis, including Government grants and EU Funds refundable that were not specifically secured during the agreement signed for the payment of those funds.

Under national legislation the following are priority claims in the enforcement of a decision: 1) subsistence claims; 2) claims of compensation for damage caused to the injured party by damage to health; 3) claims of compensation for damage caused by intentional criminal acts; 4) tax, charges and customs receivables, health insurance and social insurance, pension insurance, excess payment receivables for reimbursement of income during temporary inability to perform work, allowances from social insurance, pension insurance, child support, receivables of payments for social services provided under a special rule. In proceedings on insolvency of a debtor in bankruptcy, claims are preferentially satisfied against the assets, which are claims arising after declaration of bankruptcy in connection with the administration and realisation of the assets subject to bankruptcy, subsistence for minors, the commission of the administrator, as well as claims arising after declaration of bankruptcy such as taxes, charges, cu
FI	No.		In insolvency proceedings (bankruptcy, company reorganisation, debt adjustment of a private citizen), creditors are entitled to recover their claim in order of priority (Act on Priority Creditors (1578/1992)). There are few preferential claims. Apart from secured claims, priority is given mainly to claims which have arisen in the course of a reorganisation ending in bankruptcy, claims based on children's maintenance allowances and, until the end of 2010, certain claims based on the supplementary pension system. Non-preferential claims are paid off in proportion to the amount of the claim.
SE	No.		The State has priority in some cases, i.e. concerning recourse for wage securities which have been paid, but this is because the State represents the employee in such cases.
UK	No.

2.6. Offsetting

(a) Is offsetting possible for public funds (national budget)? If so, does it apply to all categories of debts and claims, or only on a sectoral basis?

(b) Is offsetting used to recover Community funds? If so, does it apply only to debts and claims in the same sector or under the same Community Fund, or between Funds of the same type but managed by the same authority, or between funds managed by different authorities that have established recovery coordination procedures?

Member State	2.6. Offsetting

DK	In Danish law the term used is “modregning” (set-off), and this method is often used for recovery. Where set-off is not regulated by law the rule is that it must be applied between the same parties (“reciprocity” requirement), that the offsetter’s claim (set-off claim) must be due, and that the period for settlement of the principal’s claim (principal claim) must have begun (“settlement maturity” requirement), that the set-off claim must be legally enforceable, and that the claims are equatable (“computability” requirement, which means that both claims are of the same nature, i.e. that they are both pecuniary, for example).	Applied to all categories.	Yes.	1) The Directorate for Food, Fisheries and Agri-Business uses set-off extensively. The Directorate offsets both EU resources and national resources internally across aid schemes and funds. There are, however, a few exceptions to this set-off practice, for example the retirement schemes for farmers and fishermen, which are aid schemes with a social aim, where applying set-off would run counter to the schemes’ objective. The Directorate also applies external set-off - to a limited extent - in respect of claims received from the tax administration, for example. If set-off cannot be applied or if there is no sum to be offset, the claim is passed on to the Arrears Recovery Authority in the tax administration. In the field of the Social Fund, the National Agency for Enterprise and Construction applies set-off between different payment periods for grants to the same beneficiary, where payments are made as a matter of principle only in respect of costs incurred, or against a guarantee provided by a financial institution. Errors found during controls in the course of carrying out a project may involve set-off, and 20% of the grant is paid out only on approval of a project’s final accounts.
DE	Yes.	Not mentioned.	Yes.	The answer is not detailed enough.
EE	No, Estonia do not offset the state budget funds	Not applicable	Yes.	1) Applicable only to debts and claims in the same sector. The offsetting mechanism is used on a national level if the final recipient has not received the last payment in the project. In such cases the implementation unit deducts from the next payment (in the framework of the same project) a sum in the amount of the infringement.

EL	Yes, a claim on the state can be offset against a debt to the state in any situation where the debtor has a financial claim against the state which is cleared and established by a final judgment or public document. The claims should be mutual, certain, cleared and proven . In cases where there are confirmed due debts to the public financial office and existing data show that the debtor has a claim on the state, offsetting is to be carried out automatically by the head of the public financial office. HU	Yes. There can be offsetting between public debts and subsidies, but only to recover public debts, the person obliged to pay a tax cannot set off its existing claim against its tax liability. The offsetting is possible in cases provided for by law, e.g. under the taxation procedure Act, the public finances Act (when the beneficiary of a subsidy has any tax debt or unpaid liability concerning levies, fees or customs duties).	Applied to all categories.	Yes.	1) EAGGF: The Agricultural and Rural Development Agency (ARDA) shall transfer the appropriate subsidy amounts from the implementation accounts related to the different measure groups to the client's bank account or in the event that the client has public debts as specified in a decision, it shall transfer the sum of such debts to the appropriate account of TFCA separated by tax types. As regards the EAGGF Guarantee Section, debts are not differentiated in terms of the source. ARDA may eliminate the practice of its withholding right upon the client's written request if the default of subsidies makes the client's economic activities impossible.

3. THE DAS PROCEDURE (STATEMENT OF ASSURANCE BY THE MEMBER STATES) FOR CERTIFYING THE PROPER MANAGEMENT OF PUBLIC EXPENDITURE IN THE MEMBER STATES

Introduction

For the tenth consecutive year, the Commission, which is responsible for implementing the budget under Article 274 of the EC Treaty, has failed to obtain a positive statement of assurance for payments under the Community budget, with the exception of administrative expenditure. The main problem, according to the Court's reports, relates to the funds jointly managed with the Member States. Obtaining a positive DAS is one of the Barroso Commission's strategic objectives. On 15 June 2005 the Commission adopted a communication suggesting a number of measures for obtaining a positive DAS for the entire Community budget. The cooperation of Member States is being sought in order to ensure proper implementation of the Community budget and hence effective protection of the Community's financial interests.

The importance of the principle of equivalent protection laid down in Article 280 of the Treaty should be noted in this connection. For instance, it would be helpful to know whether there are certification systems (or statements of assurance) for the accounts used by the Member States for national expenditure. The questionnaire below concerns only ex post checks on payments and not the system of own resources.

3.1. Certification of national funds

3.1.1. By an internal body

In your Member States do you have an annual certification procedure for ensuring the legality and the regularity of public expenditure that is carried out by an internal authority and based on the checks and the reports of an internal auditor ? (Yes/No). If so, does the procedure apply to the budget as a whole or only to certain areas? What are these areas?

Is this certification issued by the internal auditor himself? (Yes/No). If not, by whom? The administrator responsible for the budget? The politician responsible?

Does the certifying body also give an opinion on the amounts which are likely to be recovered by the paying agencies?

At which level (national, regional) is this certification issued?

Is this annual certification of accounts submitted to the national (regional) parliament? (Yes/No). If so, for what purpose?

In your Member State do you have a central organization which has the task of harmonizing and coordinating the work of an internal auditor? (Yes/No).

Are the internal control systems in conformity with the international standards of internal public control (IIA, INTOSAI) or with other internal control standards accepted at international level (COSO, COSO ERM)? If not, are they being brought into line with such standards?
