REGIONAL STUDIES IN SOUTH WALES

Commission Ready to Go Ahead

Owing to a transmission fault, the following corrections should be made to our press release ISEC/18/75 :

1. Paragraph one - delete second sentence : But no further discussions have taken place between the Commission and the British Government since the middle of June, 1974.
2. 4. b) - substitute the following text : a study of the impact of industrial development on the labour market in South Wales, and
3. 6. - substitute the following text : There were no further discussions about the proposed studies for South Wales between the middle of June and the middle of December 1974. However, discussions about the "Study about the effects of transferring Government Offices to the Cardiff area" are now taking place between the Commission and British Government officials. The Commission is ready to finalise arrangements for this study and to consider the two other studies as soon as the British Government wishes to do so.
