1. The Commission's work programme

Priorities for 1981

1.1.1. On 11 February Mr Gaston Thorn, President of the Commission, presented the Fourteenth General Report on the Activities of the European Communities to Parliament and gave an address outlining the Commission's priorities for 1981.¹

1.1.2. The document laid before Parliament differs from the customary 'annexed memorandum' in that it does not provide an inventory of all the activities planned for the year but a policy framework and priorities for dealing with certain major problems.

The outline programme, the first of its kind, has three aims:

- to define the main political and economic issues facing the Member States;
- to establish the principles underlying Community action;
- to set out the Commission's main activities for 1981 in the light of the scarce financial and administrative resources available and ensure that the means for implementing these policies are available.

This outline programme should become the means of dealing with groups of problems as a whole and ensuring that they are discussed regularly.

In this way, the links between problems will be more obvious and this will help concentrate political attention on these problems as they develop and change.

1.1.3. The Commission's activities in 1981 come under three main headings: building upon what the Community has already achieved, internal priorities and external priorities.

Answering those who would have liked a more detailed programme, Mr Thorn said that Parliament and the Commission would have the opportunity to exchange views on the whole range of Community policies towards the middle of the year.

At the end of the debate Parliament passed a resolution endorsing the principles underlying the 1981 programme.²

2. Agricultural price proposals for 1981/82

1.2.1. Price increases ranging from 4 to 12% are recommended in the proposals on agricultural prices for 1981/82 which the Commission sent to the Council on 20 February.¹ The proposals are accompanied by a set of new measures designed to ensure greater control over expenditure and to restore market unity by a substantial reduction in the monetary compensatory amounts.

The Council began its examination of the measures on 23 February;¹ it should reach a decision once it has received Parliament's opinion and has agreed to set the prices at a meeting scheduled for 30 and 31 March.

1.2.2. The Commission's proposals are summarized below.

Price increase needed

The increase in support prices and aid to producers, which is needed to halt the decline in farmers' incomes, varies from 4 to 12%, depending on the product. The Commission also had to take account of the market situation and budgetary constraints.

Producers' financial responsibility

The price increases proposed by the Commission are linked to the wider application of the new principle of co-responsibility, whereby producers bear part of the financial cost entailed by increases in production, since it is impossible in such circumstances to maintain a system of open-ended guarantees. Measures placing some financial responsibility on producers are proposed for the cereals, oilseeds, olive oil, milk, beef and veal, processed fruit and vegetables and tobacco sectors (the proposals relating to sugar¹ already embody this approach). As the Commission stated in its 'Reflections on the common agricultural policy',² this is the only way to reconcile the budgetary constraints with the need to achieve market equilibrium and maintain the level of agricultural incomes.

Significant reduction in positive monetary compensatory amounts

The positive monetary compensatory amounts should be reduced by five points in the Federal Republic of Germany and the United Kingdom, where they amount to 8.8% and 18.2% respectively. For the Benelux countries, the Commission proposes that the existing positive MCAs, currently 1.7%, should be abolished. This alignment of the green rates with the real rates of exchange should not only enable new progress to be made towards restoring market unity but should also make a useful contribution towards restraining the excessive increase in certain types of production and, consequently, in budgetary expenditure.

No increase in budgetary appropriations for 1981

No increase in budgetary appropriations for expenditure on market support in 1981 will be necessary since any extra expenditure will be financed by the economies that the Commission has managed to make in its running of the system and by the upward movement of the world markets for several products. As regards the budget outlook for 1982, the rate of increase in expenditure by the EAGGF Guarantee Section ought to remain below the rate of increase in the Communities' own resources, provided that the Council adopts the proposed measures whereby producers would be partly responsible for financing the disposal of increased production in certain sectors. In this connection, the Commission stresses that it would have to review the general level of price increases if the wider application of the co-responsibility principle were not accepted.

Limited impact on consumer prices

The impact of the proposed price increases on the level of consumer prices for foodstuffs has been calculated to be about 2.5%, which is well below the expected rate of inflation for 1981 of 9.8%.

Price proposals: modulated increases³

1.2.3. The price proposals for 1981/82 are presented at a time of economic crisis, the effects of which are being increasingly felt by agriculture. As a result of the sharp rise in the prices of farm inputs (12% up in 1980), together with the Community policy of moderate increases in common prices, agricultural incomes per person employed dropped by 8.9% in real terms in 1980, compared with a 1.8% drop in 1979, in spite of a substantial increase in production.

By virtue of the very moderate price policy followed over the last two years, agriculture has already made a significant contribution to the fight against inflation. If the Community wishes to avoid the risk of serious social and economic problems in the agricultural sector and to enable agriculture to continue making its contribution to the general economy, it will have to allow for an appreciable increase in agricultural prices. However, the market situation for certain products and the budgetary constraints require that the increases should be modulated so as to maintain a proper market balance and to prevent any uncontrolled increase in expenditure in the Community budget.

For cereals (other than rice), where production has been expanding rapidly for the last five years, the Commission proposes a modulated increase in prices so as to bring down the cost of exports and encourage internal consumption, particularly in animal feed, where cereals have to compete with imported substitute products. While accepting a 9% rise in the target prices for feed grains (barley and maize) and an 8% rise for common wheat, the Commission proposes that the single common intervention price for feed grains should rise by only 6%, so as to encourage sales to the internal and external markets. While accepting a 6% increase in the reference price for common wheat of average bread-making quality in order to maintain the relationship with feed wheat, the Commission proposes that the reference price for the minimum quality, intervention stocks of which are on the increase, should be raised by only 4%. These proposals are accompanied by new standards for determining the quality of wheat, so that an end can be brought to the present situation where substantial quantities of low-quality wheat qualify for the same aid as wheat of high bread-making quality.

The situation of the beef and veal and milk markets, which alone account for 53% of all expenditure on market support, requires that the price increase for these products should be as small as possible. At the same time, more than two-thirds of the farms in the Community (in many cases the smallest and poorest farms) keep beef or dairy cattle. The Commission proposes a phased increase in prices: 6% at the beginning of the marketing year, rising to 8% for milk from 16 September and to 9% for beef and veal at the beginning of December. This two-stage increase should make it possible to prevent a sudden impact on consumer prices or the budget. In the milk sector, now that stocks of dairy products have been considerably reduced, the Commission intends to follow a restrictive policy on consumer subsidies but without jeopardizing internal outlets. In the beef and veal sector, the premium for maintaining suckler cows would be increased by 8%, while the calving premium granted in Italy would be phased out over the next three marketing years.

For some products, where the situation on the market warrants it, the Commission proposes a price increase of approximately 10%. This is the case, for example, with oilseeds (the highest increase being 12% for sunflower oil), rice, pigmeat (9%) and fresh fruit and vegetables (for which the increase ranges between 8% and 10%). Where production is already subject to certain controls, the Commission also proposes price increases of 10% for wine (except for certain types of white wine) and 8.6% for sugar (including increased reimbursement of storage costs). For olive oil the Commission proposes a 10% increase in the producer target price, while restricting the rise in the intervention price to 6% in order to discourage offers of substantial quantities for intervention. The production aid would be increased by 7.5%, pending certain improvements in the present control arrangements. In the case of sheepmeat, for which prices were fixed only recently (October 1980), the Commission proposes a 6% increase.

Co-responsibility: the precondition for the price increases

1.2.4. In its 'Reflections on the common agricultural policy'¹ the Commission concluded that the real advantages of such a policy, both in guaranteeing farm prices and in ensuring supplies to consumers, should be safeguarded by more general application of the principle that producers should bear at least part of the financial responsibility for the disposal of production in excess of an agreed quantity. Support prices for basic quantities could thus be increased to take account of increased production costs and the need to raise agricultural incomes without encouraging the production of further surpluses or worsening the present budgetary situation.

1.2.5. As far as milk is concerned, the principle of the producer's financial responsibility has been accepted and applied by the Council since 1977 in the form of a co-responsibility levy, which now amounts to 2% of the target price; for 1981/82 the Commission proposes that this levy should be applied at the same rate and subject to the same exemptions — that is, the hill-farming and other less-favoured areas. The Council had also adopted the principle that an additional levy would be charged if the quantity of milk produced in 1980 was greater than that produced in 1979 by 1.5% or more;¹ the levy was to be fixed so as to cover the costs incurred by the Community in disposing of the extra quantities of milk. Since milk supplies were 2.6% up in 1980, the Commission proposes that the additional levy be applied at the rate of 8.8 ECU per 100 kg of milk treated or processed by dairies in 1981/82 in excess of the average quantities treated or processed in 1979/80 and 1980/81, as an effective deterrent to any further increase in milk production. The levy would be collected at the dairies. Exemptions would be granted only in hill-farming areas, the south of Italy and Greece, and for milk used to increase manufacture of certain fresh products. Moreover, to discourage the expansion of production by large-scale farms, the basic levy would be trebled in the case of milk from holdings supplying more than 15 000 kg per hectare under fodder crops.

1.2.6. The co-responsibility principle has already been adopted in the sugar sector. The Commission proposals² for the new organization of the sugar market provide for a maximum additional levy of 37.5% on the B quota to finance the cost of disposal, if necessary.

The Commission is now proposing that this principle should be extended to other sectors — cereals in particular. Given the relatively high price levels and rising productivity in this sector, there is reason to expect a further increase in production. Producer co-responsibility would take the form of a 1% drop in the intervention price (the reference price in the case of bread-making wheat) for every 1% by which production exceeded certain basic quantities, provided that the total drop in the intervention price did not exceed 5%. Since the market normally reacts to variations in the support prices, the cost of export refunds would diminish in line with the cost of intervention buying. The Commission proposes that the basic quantities should be based on average production over the last three years.

1.2.7. In the beef and veal sector, the Commission finds that the rigid and non-selective system of intervention buying has encouraged the consumption of pigmeat and poultrymeat, which are subject to a very light form of market organization. The result has been the accumulation of intervention stocks of beef and veal, now amounting to some 300 000 tonnes, despite record exports. The Commission considers that producer co-responsibility should take the form of more restricted and selective intervention buying during the year so that Community production can be marketed normally, though the average level of prices should not be appreciably affected.

1.2.8. In the oilseeds sector, colza oil may prove difficult to sell both on the Community market and on the world market. The Commission considers it necessary to introduce a co-responsibility system similar to that for cereal producers: that is, support prices would be reduced by a fixed amount for each percent by which oil production exceeded a basic quantity, which would be fixed in advance.

1.2.9. Lastly, the Commission plans to apply the co-responsibility principle to three sectors which receive direct aid and where production has been considerably expanded (processed fruit and vegetables) or where marketing difficulties have entailed substantial intervention costs (olive oil and tobacco). As regards olive oil, the Commission proposes that the aid to producers should be reduced proportionately for all quantities produced in excess of a maximum figure, which would be fixed at 700 000 tonnes for the next three marketing years. As regards processed fruit and vegetables, aid would be granted only for the processing of certain quantities, the main products concerned being tomato concentrate, peeled tomatoes and peaches in syrup. In the tobacco sector, provision is made for special measures to reduce intervention buying of certain varieties production of which has expanded far beyond the quantities which can actually be marketed.

Financial implications

1.2.10. The financial implications of the Commission's proposals have to be seen both for the current year and for a full 12-month period. Given the dates for the beginning of the several farm years and the timing of payments, the impact of the current year is always considerably less than on a 12-month period. The financial implications are set out in Table 1.

The financial effects shown in the table result from the difference between expenditure and the savings entailed by the Commission proposals; the savings are essentially the result of the measures aimed at increasing the participation of producers in financing the disposal of increases in production in the various sectors concerned.

3. Community loans to provide balance-of-payments support

Adjusting the mechanism

1.3.1. On 16 February the Council reached agreement on the outstanding points regarding adjustment of the Community loan mechanism set up in 1975 to support the balances of payments of Community Member States.¹ The agreement² is an outcome of the general review of the problems involved in recycling oil producers' surpluses which the Community has been carrying out since mid-1980.

² Which was the subject of a Regulation adopted by the Council on 16 March: OJ L 73, 19.3.1981.

Community loans and oil problems

1.3.2. The sharp and repeated increases in oil prices have given rise to major balance-of-payments disequilibria, and this situation involves risks for the stability of the international economic and financial system; the European Council meeting in Luxembourg in April 1980¹ and in Venice in June 1980² therefore stressed the need to step up international and Community action on recycling.

On 3 November 1980, following the policy debate on these problems by the Council (Economic and Financial Affairs) on 20 October, and on the basis of a report by the Monetary Committee, the Commission presented a proposal for a Regulation adjusting the Community loan mechanism designed to support the balances of payments of Community Member States.³ Parliament delivered its opinion on the proposal on 19 December.⁴

1.3.3. The adjustments proposed by the Commission do not affect the general design of the mechanism: they are confined to the way in which it operates. The principle is still that the Community will use its credit standing to borrow funds on the markets or direct from non-Community countries and financial institutions and to on-lend the funds raised to any Member State in balance-of-payments difficulties caused by the increase in prices of petroleum products. The purpose of the adjustments is to allow the mechanism to provide early, rapid and flexible support.

The new arrangements

1.3.4. In future, any Member State seeking a loan will first have to draw up its own adjustment programme, which it must submit to the Council in support of its loan application and which it must undertake to comply with. After examining the programme and the situation of the Member State, the Council will lay down the economic policy conditions attaching to the loan. The conditions must be such as to restore an acceptable balance-of-payments situation and must be adapted to the gravity of the situation in the Member State and to the way in which it develops.

It is the Council's responsibility to decide whether the loan is to be granted, what economic policy conditions are to be attached and how it is to be disbursed. Since the Commission is empowered to contract the relevant loans, additional Council action authorizing the Commission to negotiate the loans and determining their financial terms will no longer be required.

1.3.5. The new arrangements also provide for greater flexibility in the choice of borrowing and lending techniques: loans granted may carry an early repayment option; the five-year minimum average duration of borrowing operations has been abolished; the loans granted may be disbursed in several instalments; the specific mechanism for possible refinancing by the Member States has not been renewed, the guarantee system thus being aligned on that of the Community's other financial instruments.

1.3.6. The final two outstanding points settled by the Council concerned the ceiling for borrowings and the voting rules.

As regards the first point, the outstanding amount of the borrowings authorized under the mechanism has been set at 6 000 million ECU in principal. Although it is somewhat below the figure of 7 000 million ECU proposed by the Commission, this amount represents a significant increase in the funds that can be raised. In the initial Regulation dating from 1975, borrowing operations were limited to the equivalent of USD 3 000 million, this amount covering principal and interest payments. Once the 6 000 million ECU ceiling has been reached, new borrowings will be possible as and when repayments are made.

As regards the voting rules, implementing decisions—on whether to grant the loans and on the relevant economic policy conditions—will be taken by the Council acting unanimously and not by a qualified majority as proposed by the Commission.

4. Steel restructuring policies

1.4.1. In its efforts to overcome the crisis in the Community's steel industry, the Commission's main problem—and its principal objective—is restructuring.

At its meeting on 30 October 1980,¹ which resulted in the Commission adopting measures under Article 58 of the ECSC Treaty to deal with a 'manifest crisis', the Council decided to examine the question of restructuring the steel industry in this new context. On 20 February the Commission therefore sent the Council a paper setting out objectives and measures in the light of an overall assessment of the situation and of the constraints to which such measures would be subject, referring in particular to the Commission's first report on the application of the Decision concerning State aids.² In this new paper the Commission asked the Council to approve the objectives and measures suggested.

Assessment of the situation

1.4.2. During the past five years, substantial efforts have been made by the Community and the Member States to adapt the structure of Europe's steel industry to changed economic conditions. The fact that the gravity of the present situation has been recognized by the declaration of a state of manifest crisis only goes to show that, overall, these efforts have been insufficient and that a reinforcement of Community policies in this respect is called for.

The main reasons for the crisis in the Community are a deterioration in international competitiveness and a fall in internal demand (which had always increased in the past, but which peaked in 1974 and has never fully recovered since then). The decline in demand can be explained to a large extent by the low level of capital investment in the economy at large and by a marked drop in the specific consumption of steel. Over the past three years, the general situation has deteriorated to such an extent that there is now no question but that structural excess capacity is affecting most firms. It is therefore indispensable for appropriate measures to be applied effectively to reduce the level of production capacity.

1.4.3. The forecasts indicate that the employment situation in the steel industry will be very difficult. Experience in certain areas shows that successful restructuring can provide a better guarantee of long-term employment than maintaining uncompetitive structures. But the lack of a well-thought-out restructuring policy could result in the employment situation deteriorating even further.

1.4.4. The steel policy is an integral part of an overall policy of adaptation. Steel restructuring is an important element in the Community's approach to the adjustment of industrial structure to new domestic and international economic factors. This approach will succeed only if the policies and resources with which the regional and social difficulties are to be dealt with are commensurate with the seriousness of these difficulties.

Objectives and constraints

1.4.5. The objectives of the steel restructuring policy are to restore the international competitiveness of the Community's steel industry and the profitability of the steelmaking firms and to assure stability of employment. Furthermore, sight must not be lost of the fact that user industries must have reliable sources of supply, that steelworks are not flexible from the technical point of view and, finally, that dependence on imported energy and raw materials is increasing.

1.4.6. Attainment of these objectives is hampered by a number of substantial constraints which affect the context within which firms have to take decisions and the implementation of Community measures.

The economic context. Inadequate investment in modernization in the past and the indebtedness and weak cash position of most steelworks have inhibited the restructuring process.

The situation has been aggravated as a result of the firms' pricing policy, which has made it impossible to keep up with developments in certain costs determined on world markets (energy and raw materials). Finally, increasing unemployment in the Community as a whole since 1973, and especially in 1980, makes restructuring programmes involving many redundancies even less acceptable than before.

Implementation of Community measures. Restructuring has also been hampered by difficulties involved in implementing existing Community measures: first of all, the ECSC instruments are designed to promote new investment, whereas rationalization also requires that conditions be created that will enable firms to agree to cut back their capacities; secondly, the discipline required by the Decision on State aids¹ must be complied with if the industry is to become truly competitive again.

Community policies

1.4.7. The Commission is determined to make ECSC policies more consistent and more rigorous. With this in view it will concentrate on the attainment of the general objectives and on the Community's regulatory and financial instruments. The first step is to bring together and make available information relating to the state of the industry.

1.4.8. Investment policy, especially as defined in Article 54 of the ECSC Treaty, is one of the principal instruments of the restructuring policy. The Commission will strengthen the system of opinions on investments so as to facilitate a more rigorous application of the aid rules and even more systematic use of these opinions in decisions on Community financing.

1.4.9. Competition policy is aimed at creating a viable industry and restoring the market to full competitiveness, while avoiding situations that might induce firms to enter into agreements or to develop types of business cooperation which could prove to be incompatible with the Treaties. However, the Commission will continue to promote cooperation measures resulting in better utilization of industrial plant. Aid to the industry will have to be granted on the basis of full information supplied in time to enable the Commission to reach a decision.

1.4.10. Where social policy is concerned, the inevitable reduction in the number of jobs resulting from adjustment to the current situation will have to be accompanied by measures aimed at creating new jobs to be taken by the firms themselves or by the public authorities. A social plan should be an integral part of any restructuring programme at company level.

1.4.11. Lastly, there should be incentives to disinvestment. Even if all other aspects of a restructuring policy are satisfactorily dealt with, one problem still remains: firms are often reluctant to shut down obsolete plant which may still be marginally profitable, especially when they have to service outstanding debts. There are several alternative solutions to this problem: the Community definition of closure aids could include writing off or refinancing debts, thereby enabling the Member States to reconstitute firms' capital in this case; the mutual purchase and closure of plant by firms could, in any case, have an equivalent effect; finally, a form of closure premium could be considered, which might possibly be partly financed by the Community.

5. Review of energy policy objectives for 1990 and Member States' investment programmes

Commission report

1.5.1. Exposed as it is to the damaging consequences of repeated increases in the price of oil and the risk of uncertainty and shortfalls in supplies, the Community has repeatedly affirmed its intention to save energy and reduce its dependence on imported oil — latterly in the Council Resolution of 9 June 1980.¹ All efforts in this direction by the Member States therefore contribute towards achieving the objectives of a policy approved at Community level.

1.5.2. In order to assess the extent and relevance of national efforts with regard to the guidelines set out by the Council, the Commission drafted a report on the Member States' energy policy objectives for 1990 and their investment programmes and sent it to the Council on 25 February.²

1.5.3. On the same date, to supplement and enlarge upon certain aspects of the national programmes, the Commission sent the Council a communication on Community electricity supplies and the use of oil in power stations.

Energy objectives and investment programmes

1.5.4. After analysing the progress made towards achieving the Community's objectives for 1990 and considering whether investment plans are adequate, the report concludes that, taken as a whole and in their present form, the Member States' policies are largely consistent with the Community objectives, but it also points out the weaknesses and risks of failure present in some of the measures envisaged. The report shows, for instance, that investment should be speeded up in some areas, notably energy saving, rational use of energy and the substitution of coal and nuclear energy for oil.

Adequacy of national programmes in the light of the Community guidelines

1.5.5. In the light of the guidelines approved by the Council in May 1980, the Commission has a number of general comments to make:

- The ratio of energy growth to economic growth of at least 0.7 is likely to be achieved.
- Oil consumption is likely to account for about 43% of total energy consumption instead of 40%.
- 70 to 75% of electricity will probably be generated from coal and nuclear energy, but only if investment programmes are completed.³
- Although it is going up, the proportion of energy consumption covered by renewable sources will inevitably remain small (2.2%).
- Though progress is being made in tailoring energy prices to objectives, pricing policies still vary widely within the Community.

Energy investment

1.5.6. On energy investment the Commission's conclusions are summarized below. On the supply side, the established energy industries (oil, coal, gas and electricity) have ambitious plans for investment, and in most cases the scope for doing more is limited; the major exception is nuclear energy, where some Member States are still planning a cautious or zero rate of growth. Assuming sensible pricing policies, obstacles to investment in energy supply are not normally of a financial character (coal production is an exception); but there is a real danger in the current investment climate that low growth could cause a reduction in investment plans, thereby exacerbating oil dependence, and leading to still lower growth. A major priority for energy policy in the 1980s will be to break out of this vicious circle and ensure that the energy supply industries are able to realize, and where possible to expand, their investment plans, despite the unfavourable circumstances for investment as a whole.

On the demand side, on the other hand, the scope for increased investment in energy efficiency and fuel substitution is very large, and if the means could be found to realize these investments the economic prospects for the Community would be improved. Investment in energy efficiency not only improves the energy balance but creates employment, is environmentally benign, and expands the base of an innovatory industry with great export potential. But there is an urgent need to develop new policy approaches to overcoming consumer inertia and motivating investors — both individual households and firms.

Community electricity supplies

1.5.7. The Commission draws attention to the fact that dependence on oil for generating electricity has not been sufficiently reduced. Too much dependence on fuel oils for electricity production will only increase the already high cost and, should there be a shortage of oil, it might become impossible to meet the demand for electricity. It would therefore be advisable to aim at less than 10% dependence on oil for this purpose.

Where nuclear capacity can be installed it provides by a clear margin the most economic means of base-load electricity production per kWh. Except for France, the Member States which already have nuclear power stations need to ensure a timely increase in the rate of ordering nuclear plant within the next three years, so that the current forecast for 1990 may be achieved and preferably exceeded.

Those Member States which do not have a nuclear programme should consider the case for a change of policy as soon as possible.

Member States should reconsider, and keep under constant review, the conversion of existing oil-burning plant to coal wherever technically feasible, and the ordering of new solid-fuel-burning plant as early as possible. New studies should be put in hand at national and Community level on the case for advance ordering of nuclear and coal-fired plant in anticipation of electricity demand growing beyond levels already forecast. If economic activity took an upturn in the next few years, the corresponding increase in electricity demand could in many cases be met only by increasing oil-generated electricity production, and that would clearly be undesirable.

ACTIVITIES
IN FEBRUARY 1981

1. Building the Community

Economic and monetary policy

Community loans

2.1.1. On 16 February the Council endorsed adjustments to the Community loan mechanism designed to support the balances of payments of Community Member States.¹

2.1.2. The Economic and Social Committee endorsed² in February a Commission proposal concerning loans under the NCI ('Ortoli facility') to finance infrastructure and energy investment projects in the Community.³

Economic situation

2.1.3. At its 16 February meeting the Council discussed recent developments in the economic situation in the Community and asked the Commission to take account of the views expressed in preparing the first quarterly examination, provided for in the Decision on convergence, which the Council will be holding on 16 March.

Economic Policy Committee

2.1.4. The Economic Policy Committee held its 105th and 106th meetings in Brussels in February.

- On 18 February it met in its reduced 'budget' composition with Mr Wagner in the chair, to examine the implementation of budgets in 1980 and the budgetary outlook for 1981.

- On 27 February it met in its reduced 'medium-term' composition with Mr Maldaque in the chair, to continue examination of the preparatory work on the fifth medium-term economic policy programme.

Internal market and industrial affairs

Free movement of goods

Removal of technical barriers to trade

Foodstuffs

2.1.5. On 9 February the Commission transmitted to the Council a proposal for a Regulation that would give the Commission authority to fix different rates of refund according to the destination of the goods in the case of certain processed agricultural products exported in the form of goods not listed in Annex II to the Treaty.

2.1.6. On 25 February the Economic Committee gave an opinion⁴ on the proposal for a Directive relating to flavourings for use in foodstuffs.⁵

Freedom of movement for persons — Freedom to provide services

Mutual recognition of diplomas — The right to engage in economic activities

Doctors

2.1.7. On 4 February the Commission transmitted to the Council a proposal to amend two Directives adopted on 16 June 1975 concerning freedom of movement for doctors.⁶ The proposal contains both amendments of a technical nature and amendments to be made to the provisions relating to the part-time training of specialists.

Pharmacists

2.1.8. On 8 February the Commission presented to the Council a number of proposals on the right of establishment of pharmacy graduates in the Community;¹ these measures concern the following:

- the coordination of the minimum range of fields of activities open to pharmacy graduates without conferring any monopoly on them and the training required for the award of diplomas;
- the mutual recognition of diplomas, certificates and other evidence of formal qualifications in pharmacy, and certain additional measures to facilitate the effective exercise of the right of establishment;
- the setting up of an advisory committee on the training of dispensing chemists.

These texts are based to a large extent on the provisions already adopted by the Council in the field of health: pharmacy is the last important graduate profession in this field still to be covered by Council Directives.

2.1.9. On 11 February the Commission transmitted to the Council a proposal designed to make good an omission concerning established rights in the Directives on freedom of movement for doctors,² nurses responsible for general care,³ practitioners of dentistry⁴ and veterinary surgeons.⁵

Industry

Steel

2.1.10. On 20 February the Commission transmitted to the Council a communication on restructuring policies for the steel industry,⁶ setting out what measures need to be taken and asking the Council to express its opinion on certain aims and instruments.

2.1.11. Under its Decision of 31 October 1980 setting up a production quota system for the steel industry,⁷ the Commission adopted a Decision on 13 February requiring manufacturers of steel tubes to furnish it with certain particulars concerning their output.⁸

Electronics and information technologies

2.1.12. On 25 February the Economic and Social Committee gave its opinion⁹ on a proposal relating to Community action in the field of microelectronic technology.¹⁰

Customs union

Common Customs Tariff

Nomenclature

2.1.13. The Commission adopted a number of Regulations to ensure uniform application of the Common Customs Tariff nomenclature. One of these amends the Regulation of 20 December 1979¹¹ in respect of the conditions of entry of certain Virginia, Burley and Maryland-type tobaccos falling within subheading 24.01 A of the CCT.¹² The others concern the classification of:

- goose paletots under CCT subheading 02.02 B II f);¹³
- certain lacing boots under CCT heading 64.01;¹⁴
- heavy-duty fork-lift trucks under CCT subheading 87.07 C I;¹⁵

Economic tariff matters

Tariff quotas

2.1.14. On 17 February the Council adopted two Regulations opening, allocating and providing for the administration of Community tariff quotas for sardines originating in Morocco and Tunisia (1981).¹

Community surveillance of imports

2.1.15. On 10 February the Council adopted Regulations establishing indicative ceilings and Community surveillance in respect of imports of certain products originating in Austria, Finland, Norway and Sweden (1981).

Origin of goods

2.1.16. On 12 February the Commission adopted a Regulation to bring origin certificates and the corresponding application forms into line with the layout key recommended by the UN Economic Commission for Europe for documents used in international trade.² The new Regulation, which enters into force on 1 April, will also reduce to two years the minimum length of time applications for certificates must be kept and make it possible for these applications to be kept as copies, reduced in format if necessary, under certain circumstances.

General legislation

Harmonization of export procedures

2.1.17. On 24 February the Council adopted a Directive on the harmonization of procedures for the export of goods,³ following the Commission proposal transmitted on 24 July 1979.⁴

The purpose of this Directive is to make the various legal requirements imposed on commercial operators completing export customs formalities the same in all Member States and ensure uniform application of the various common policies affecting exports throughout the Community.

The new Directive also makes provision for a set of simplified procedures to be introduced by national administrations to keep pace with developments in customs techniques, in particular the increasingly widespread use of data processing.

Competition

State aids

General aids

Italy

2.1.18. On 20 February the Commission decided not to raise any objection to a scheme of assistance which Italy proposed to introduce to promote the employment of young people in cooperatives in Sicily. The bill containing the scheme forms part of a series of measures taken by the Italian Government to deal with unemployment among the young and supplements a programme launched in 1978.

The scheme provides for help with the purchase of equipment and, in the case of agricultural cooperatives, for loans for the purchase of farms. To be eligible for assistance, cooperatives must be formed mainly by young people between 18 and 29 years of age registered as unemployed and must submit a 'development plan' approved by the appropriate regional authorities. A grant covering 50% of expenditure on equipment will be payable (up to a maximum of LIT 30 million), and the remaining 50% may be covered by a loan from IRCAC (Istituto Regionale per il Credito Alla Cooperazione).

Agricultural cooperatives will be eligible for IRCAC loans for the purchase of farms; however, those receiving loans will have to undertake to run the farms personally for a minimum of 10 years.

³ OJ L 83, 30.3.1981.

⁴ OJ C 201, 10.8.1979; Bull. EC 7/8-1979, point 2.1.28.

The Commission decided not to oppose the implementation of this scheme because of the economic and social situation in Sicily, especially the acute unemployment problem.

Industry aids

Steel

2.1.19. On 23 February the Commission sent the Council its first report on the application of the rules for aids to the steel industry, in which it reviews the experience gained since its Decision of 1 February 1980.¹

The Commission notes that, during this period, it approved aids notified to it only where they met the criteria imposed under the rules themselves. It did not authorize any aid that did not contribute overall to restructuring the steel industry. However, it is evident that, while the adjustments carried out by steel firms with the help of financial assistance from the public authorities are a step in the right direction, the restructuring process is not yet advancing on a large enough scale. The Commission will therefore in future scrutinize subsidies even more closely from the angle of their contribution to restructuring, particularly as regards the reduction of capacities which is essential if improved equilibrium between supply and demand is to be restored. In the Commission's view, radical restructuring of the Community steel industry must achieve such equilibrium within a relatively short period. This means that, in assessing the subsidies which the national authorities propose to grant, the Commission must look first and foremost at their impact on the industry. In an industry such as steel, the maintenance of ultimately uncompetitive excess capacity through public funds will not contribute either to the real development of a region or to the preservation of vital jobs on a sure and lasting basis.

These considerations apply both to aids that might prove temporarily necessary to buoy up firms which are fundamentally sound and are already—or could be—adapted to changed market conditions, but which are in difficulties because of the seriousness and duration of the crisis, and to aid intended to alleviate acute social problems. The Commission believes it is essential to ensure that rescue aid is granted only if genuine and acute social problems exist and if at the same time the aid remains strictly rescue aid, i.e. if it is strictly limited in time, is not granted repeatedly and enables the firm in question to carry out a genuine restructuring programme. Where investment aid is granted, the Commission will rigorously ensure that the investment is consistent with restructuring. Investment aid discipline, which the Commission is determined to see observed, will be all the more effective as and when specific restructuring objectives are worked out jointly by the Commission, the Member States and the steel industry.

Shipbuilding

2.1.20. On 27 February the Commission decided to raise no objection to the extension of an aid scheme providing loans to Danish shipowners for the purchase of ships within the Community. The scheme applies to orders placed in 1981 for delivery before 1983. The terms of credit remain the same: the loans may not exceed 80% of the contract price of the vessel in question. The annual interest rate is 8%, and the loan is repayable in six-monthly instalments over 14 years. The Commission is satisfied that the scheme will not endanger the general Community discipline in aid to shipbuilding. It had assessed the scheme in the light of the Council Directive of 4 April 1978, whose period of validity has been extended to 31 March 1981.² It also bore in mind the general guidelines on aid to shipowners in its proposal for a fifth Directive on aid to shipbuilding.³

2.1.21. On the same day the Commission decided to raise no objection to the establishment of a new intervention fund for the British shipbuilding industry for the period 1 July 1981 to 1 July 1982.

At the same time it approved the continuance of the third intervention fund from January to July 1981. During the period in which the third fund has existed, the workforce of the British shipbuilding industry has fallen from 33 800 to 23 100, and production capacity has been reduced from 762 000 cgrt in 1978 to 510 000 cgrt today, though deliveries represent only 386 000 cgrt. The cuts have brought employment below the level envisaged when the fund was approved by the Commission.¹

It is a condition of aid from the new fund that further cuts be made in capacity, reducing it to 460 000 cgrt, while employment would have to fall to 22 000 jobs. The aid is being progressively reduced, both in intensity and in volume; the maximum rate of aid falls to 20%, and the total amount is now only UKL 55 million. Given the progressive reduction in aid and the restructuring process envisaged, the Commission concluded that it should raise no objection.

State monopolies of a commercial character

Manufactured tobacco

France

2.1.22. On 25 February the Commission decided that it would initiate the infringement procedure under the second paragraph of Article 169 of the EEC Treaty within three months at the latest if contacts with the French authorities had not produced a satisfactory solution by then. In February 1979 an association of tobacco manufacturers had renewed and extended an old complaint dating from May 1976: the association alleged that access of foreign cigarettes to the French market was made more difficult by the French Government's policy towards cigarettes manufactured by the State monopoly SEITA, and particularly the Gauloises brand, which it alleged was being sold below cost. The new complaint further claimed that SEITA's losses were being made good by the State, so that the terms of competition were likely to be distorted. Following this complaint, and in the light of the new case-law developed in the Hansen case,² the Commission has undertaken contacts with the French authorities.

Employment, education and social policy

European Social Fund

2.1.23. In the light of the results of the survey carried out by the Statistical Office of the European Communities in 1979, and in accordance with the guidelines for the management of the European Social Fund for the period 1981-83,³ the Commission amended the list of priority regions based on youth unemployment⁴ drawn up following the 1977 survey.⁵

The new list includes:

- the five priority regions (Greenland, the French overseas departments, Ireland, Northern Ireland and the Mezzogiorno);
- regions in which the youth unemployment rate in 1979 was higher than the Community average;
- regions in which the youth unemployment rate was below the Community average but considerably (30%) higher than the national average in 1979;
- Luxembourg;
- Greece.

2.1.24. On 6 February the Commission transmitted to the Council a supplement to the Eight Report on the Activities of the European Social Fund (1979).⁶ It contains national reports on activities carried out with Fund assistance in several Member States.

Education and vocational training

2.1.25. On 2 and 3 February representatives of the Commission and the Council of Europe met again in Strasbourg to decide on fields in which they could cooperate and on specific arrangements for cooperation, in particular as regards information and documentation in education, the education of migrant workers and their families, the European dimension in schools, higher education and further education.

2.1.26. On 25 and 26 February, in conjunction with the Association for Teacher Education in Europe, the Commission organized an exchange of views between representatives of the teacher training sector in the Member States on the implications of the new information technologies for education in schools and teacher training establishments.

Social security—Living and working conditions

Equal treatment for men and women

2.1.27. Despite the significant progress made at all levels in the Member States in embodying the principle of equal treatment in legislation, considerable ground has still to be covered in putting this principle into practice given that there has been no improvement in the situation of women in working life—particularly in view of the current recession. This conclusion is reached in a report from the Commission to the Council on the extent to which the provisions of the Council Directive of 9 February 1976 on the implementation of the principle of equal treatment for men and women as regards access to employment, vocational training and promotion, and working conditions¹ have been incorporated in the laws of the Member States.

The report highlights the progress achieved thus far as regards legislation in the Member States, but it also pinpoints those areas that still require attention so that the necessary infringement procedures can be initiated where the Commission thinks fit. An examination of the measures taken by the various governments reveals that none of the Member States has properly fulfilled its obligations.

For its part, the Commission will examine measures designed to resolve the problems of working women with a view to tabling suitable proposals. The objectives it has in mind include desegregation of the labour market (achieving a more equitable mix), preparing women to cope with the introduction of new technologies at work and the effective sharing of family responsibilities.

2.1.28. On 11 February Parliament adopted a resolution on the situation of women in the European Community.²

2.1.29. The Economic and Social Committee gave its opinion³ in February on a Commission proposal concerning social security for migrant workers.⁴

Regional policy

Financial instruments

European Regional Development Fund

Regional infrastructure

2.1.30. On 20 February the Commission sent the Council a communication on the categories of infrastructure to which the ERDF may grant assistance in the regions aided by the Fund. The purpose of this proposal is to lay down a broader criterion for eligible infrastructure, in line with the intention expressed by the Council in February 1979.⁵

ERDF aid: first allocation for 1981

2.1.31. On 2 February the Commission approved the first allocation of grants for 1981 from the European Regional Development Fund, totalling 354.05 million ECU. These grants will go to 302 projects costing a total of 1 342.46 million ECU. The recipient Member States are Greece, Ireland, Italy and the United Kingdom.

This is the first time that Greece will be receiving ERDF assistance for investment projects in aid of regional development.

¹ Including one project for which the assistance from the ERDF approved by the Commission in 1980 included a portion to be committed against the appropriations for 1981.

Under the Regulation of 18 March 1975 establishing the ERDF,¹ as amended by the Regulations of 6 February 1979² and 16 December 1980,³ the Fund Committee had endorsed these projects on 2 and 3 December 1980, except for two on which a consensus was not reached. The Regional Policy Committee had been consulted on 27 and 28 November on projects relating to infrastructure investments costing more than 10 million ECU.

The 354.05 million ECU breaks down as follows:

(a) 341.14 million ECU to help finance 298 industrial and tourism infrastructure projects, comprising:

- 178.77 million ECU to finance 21 projects costing over 10 million ECU each;
- 158.97 million ECU to finance 269 projects costing less than 10 million ECU each;
- 3.40 million ECU to finance 8 projects costing less than 10 million ECU each in the regions referred to in the Directive on mountain and hill-farming in certain less-favoured areas.

The total cost of infrastructure investment projects receiving assistance from the Fund amounts to 1 669.28 million ECU.

(b) 12.91 million ECU to finance 4 projects in industrial (including small business) or service activities, comprising:

- 11.14 million ECU to finance 2 projects costing more than 10 million ECU each;

- 1.77 million ECU to finance 2 projects costing less than 10 million ECU each.

The total cost of industrial and services investments projects receiving assistance from the Fund amounts to 76.26 million ECU.

Conversion loans

2.1.32. In February the Commission granted a 2.60 million ECU loan to a German bank.⁴

Environment and consumers

Environment

Cooperation with Norway

2.1.33. On 2 February an agreement in the form of an exchange of letters concerning cooperation on environmental matters between the Commission and the Norwegian Government was concluded in Brussels. This shows the importance the Commission attaches—under its environment programme—to close and regular cooperation with non-member countries, Norway being the seventh non-Community country with which relations of this type have been established. Similar arrangements are in force with Austria, Canada, Japan, Sweden, Switzerland and the United States.

Cooperation in this field also constitutes an extension of relations with the EFTA countries over and above the free-trade arrangements, as advocated by the Heads of State or Government at their May 1977 summit in Vienna.¹ As part of the new cooperation arrangements it is planned to hold an annual meeting at official level, plus a number of expert-level sessions, and there will be regular contacts and exchanges of documents.

Prevention and reduction of pollution and nuisances

Freshwater and marine pollution

Discharges of cadmium into the aquatic environment

2.1.34. On 17 February the Commission sent the Council a proposal for a Directive concerning the limit values applicable to discharges of cadmium into the aquatic environment and quality objectives in respect of cadmium in the aquatic environment. The purpose of the Directive is to eliminate pollution caused by discharges containing cadmium, an element which is objectionable in the environment by reason of its toxicity, persistence and bioaccumulation.

Noise pollution

2.1.35. On 20 and 21 February the Commission was represented at a symposium held at the University of Compiègne by the French Minister for the Environment and the Quality of Life. Its purpose was to decide on areas for research on noise pollution, particularly in the acoustic physics, psychoacoustics and medical fields.

Chemical products

Control of toxic substances

2.1.36. On 25 February the Commission decided to submit to the Council a progress report on negotiations undertaken with the United States on the basis of the Council mandate of 30 May 1978² with a view to arriving at an agreement on the procedures for applying the Toxic Substances Control Act (TSCA) to Community products and the corresponding Community legislation to products from the United States.

The six meetings held over the last two years between the Commission and the American authorities responsible for enforcing the TSCA have shown the importance of dialogue between the two parties and have allowed the Commission to clarify the Community position on the control of chemical substances. In particular it has been possible to harmonize approaches and practices with regard to testing methods, minimal sets of pre-marketing data and good laboratory practice; there are good prospects of harmonizing assessment methods and procedures for sharing costs arising out of the testing of new substances.

Chlorofluorocarbons in the environment

2.1.37. On 5 and 6 February the Commission organized a further meeting of national experts on the effects of chlorofluorocarbons on the environment and the possibility of controlling discharges. The meeting discussed future Community policy on the subject, particularly action to be taken at international level and the proposals for possible new measures to be put forward with regard to aerosols, refrigeration, plastic foam and solvents. In all these four cases, it was decided to have a close look at the possible advantages of clean technologies in limiting discharges as far as possible.

Protection and rational use of land, the environment and natural resources

Natural resources

2.1.38. On 5 and 6 February the Commission was represented at the first European congress on food packaging in Nice. Discussions and reports emphasized the problems connected with drink packaging and materials intended to come into contact with foodstuffs.

2.1.39. The Economic and Social Committee gave its opinion¹ in February on a Commission proposal on the implementation in the Community of the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora.²

Consumers

Consumer information, education and representation

Textile fibres

2.1.40. On 17 February the Council adopted a Directive³ amending Annex II to the Directive of 17 July 1972⁴ on the approximation of the laws of the Member States relating to certain methods for the quantitative analysis of binary textile fibre mixtures.⁵

Consumers Consultative Committee

2.1.41. On 20 February Mr Narjes, Member of the Commission with special responsibility for consumer affairs, took part in the deliberations of the Consumers Consultative Committee, which was meeting for the first time in its new expanded form.⁶

Mr Narjes stressed the importance attached by the Commission to an active consumer policy which is to find practical application in the very near future with the adoption of the second Community programme for consumers.

The Committee elected a new chairman—Mr Semler-Collery, representative of the European Community of Consumers Cooperatives. It stated its position on the question of loans on real property and adopted a report in which it advocated a fundamental revision of the common agricultural policy to make it a real supply policy, open to the outside world, putting an end to high prices and abandoning the system of guaranteeing farmers' incomes by fixing farm prices.

Agriculture

Agricultural matters before the Council

2.1.42. The Council, meeting on 23 and 24 February, discussed for the first time the Commission's agricultural price proposals for 1981/82 (Table 3) and related measures;⁷ this enabled the delegations to voice their initial political and technical reactions to the proposals. The Commission stressed that the measures proposed were to be regarded as a whole and could not be seen in isolation. The Ministers have already agreed to fix the prices at a meeting scheduled for the end of March, after receiving the opinion of Parliament.

2.1.43. However, the Council meeting was dominated by discussions on a number of major issues still outstanding: the future rules for the market in sugar; a package of measures on agricultural structures; the arrangements to be applied to butter imports from New Zealand; estimates for beef and veal. Nine delegations were able to accept the Commission's compromise proposal, the balanced nature of which was underlined by the Council. But one Member State could not accept one of the items in the package at this meeting, and that prevented the other measures from being adopted.

Economic aspects of the common agricultural policy

General guidelines

N.B.: The aid for cotton seed will be replaced at the beginning of 1981/82 by a regime defined in Protocol No 4 to the Act of Accession of Greece concerning cotton.

² The same absolute amount as for common wheat.

³ Provisional, the final amount and the criteria of application to be determined in the light of the report being submitted by the Commission on this product.

⁴ The actual increase in 1981/82 will be 8.6% because of a proposed change in the basis of the storage levy/reimbursement scheme.

⁵ For dried potatoes the fixed-rate aid will be 13.41 ECU/tonne (+ 8%). For Greece: 2.68 ECU/tonne.

⁶ The proposals refer to marketing years 1982/83 and 1983/84. The aid for 1981/82 has already been fixed (column 3). For Greece, the proposed aid is as follows:

	1982/83	1983/84
Monoecious hemp	3.6	4.7

In the case of Greece lower prices are to be fixed for tomatoes, peaches, lemons, mandarins and oranges and higher prices for pears and table grapes.

The common prices are applicable for cauliflowers and apples.

tion, either internally or externally, at reasonable prices, while safeguarding farmers' incomes and at the same time remaining within the budgetary limits set. If restraint on production in certain sectors is not exercised, so as to restrict budgetary expenditure and bring the markets in question back into balance, the Community will face some very serious financial and political problems: these are the conclusions set out by the Commission in the 1980 Report on the Situation of the Agricultural Markets, which it presented to the Council on 25 February.

Agri-monetary measures

2.1.45. In view of the movement of sterling on the exchanges the Commission again altered¹ the monetary compensatory amounts with effect from 9 February.²

Market organizations

Prices and specific measures

Fruit and vegetables

2.1.46. In the fresh fruit and vegetables sector the Commission fixed, for the 1981 marketing year, the reference prices for cucumbers and the Community offer price for cucumbers applicable with regard to Greece.³

2.1.47. The Commission also adopted a derogation from the quality standards for tomatoes in the light of the present and foreseeable situation on the Community market.⁴

Milk and milk products

2.1.48. Pending the adoption of arrangements—at present under discussion—for 1981, 1982 and 1983, the Council on several occasions extended the transitional arrangements for butter imports from New Zealand:⁵ the maximum quantity for the period 1 January to 31 March was fixed at 23 750 tonnes.

2.1.49. In a Regulation dated 6 February the Commission decided to continue the promotional and publicity measures in respect of milk and milk products.⁶

2.1.50. On 9 February the Commission adopted a Decision excluding Greece from application of the co-responsibility levy in respect of milk and milk products.⁷

Beef and veal

2.1.51. The Commission extended until 5 April 1981 the period of validity of the measure suspending the buying-in of beef forequarters by intervention agencies.⁸

2.1.52. In the light of the situation on the Greek market the Commission authorized Greece to suspend from 1 January to 31 August the customs duties applicable on beef and veal imported from the other Member States.⁹

Sugar and isoglucose

2.1.53. On 10 February the Council adopted Regulations restoring, with retroactive effect, production quotas for isoglucose from 1 July 1979 to 30 June 1980 and from 1 July 1980 to 30 June 1981.⁸ Parliament had given its opinion on the relevant Commission proposals on 9 February.⁹ This resolves the legal problem which arose as a result of the judgments of the Court of Justice on 25 October 1980¹⁰ annulling the Council Regulation of 25 June 1979 on the grounds of infringement of an essential procedural requirement (Parliament had not given an opinion).

Seeds

2.1.54. On 27 February the Commission presented to the Council a report on the development of the market in certified rice seeds. The Commission concludes in particular that, in view of the relative stability of the market, there are at present no grounds for amending the basic Regulation on seeds.¹

Structures

New measures; amendment of Directives

2.1.55. At its 23 and 24 February meeting the Council scrutinized the issues left outstanding² in the package of structural measures proposed by the Commission. The compromise solution reached by the Council means that formal decisions could be arrived at in the course of a forthcoming meeting.

2.1.56. On 25 February the Economic and Social Committee gave its opinion² on the proposal for a Regulation concerning a common measure to stimulate the improvement of the infrastructure in certain less-favoured agricultural areas of the Federal Republic of Germany.³

Agricultural legislation

Veterinary legislation

2.1.57. Parliament⁴ and the Economic and Social Committee⁵ gave their opinions on the proposals concerning the use of hormones in stock farming⁶ and control measures regarding such use.⁷

Conditions of competition

2.1.58. Applying Articles 92 to 94 of the EEC Treaty, the Commission decided to make no comment at present on the following aid measures notified by:

(i) the Federal Republic of Germany (North Rhine-Westphalia and Hesse), consisting in the granting of subsidies for planting/replanting trees, forestry development work and medium-term forestry planning and in the granting of loans for the purchase of forestry machinery; the Commission regards such measures as being compatible with the common organization of the market;

(ii) Denmark, on the levying of a tax on domestic production of fruit and horticultural products in order to finance certain measures, and on publicity and sales promotion measures.

2.1.59. As regards the amendment of an existing aid measure for sheep exports from Ireland, the Commission has notified the Irish authorities that such aid is not compatible with the common organization of the market. In the light of the Irish authorities' undertaking to terminate the aid, the Commission has decided not to pursue the infringement procedure and to regard the case as closed.

2.1.60. The Commission decided to initiate the Article 93(2) procedure in respect of the aid to incomes notified by the French authorities (1980 income-support payments).

European Agricultural Guidance and Guarantee Fund

Guarantee Section

2.1.61. On 10 February the Commission transmitted to the Council a proposal to amend the general rules applying to the financing of intervention by the EAGGF Guarantee Section, by completely rewriting the Annex to the Regulation of 2 August 1978.⁸

Fisheries

Resources

Internal aspects

2.1.62. Although discussions continued for three days, the Council meeting on fisheries ended on 12 February without reaching agreement on a common fisheries policy, mainly because it proved impossible to settle the politically highly sensitive issue of conditions of access to fishing areas.

A number of alternatives were considered on the subject of access, aimed principally at finding a compromise between the positions of the United Kingdom and France. These included a prolongation of the present arrangements set out in Articles 100 and 101 of the Act of Accession, the question of regulating historical rights in United Kingdom coastal waters, and the fishing effort in specified protected zones outside the 12-mile limit. In spite of the efforts of the Commission and the Presidency, the divergency of positions remained, in particular with regard to the United Kingdom's request for fishing areas around the Orkneys and the Shetlands and in the Irish Sea from which vessels larger than 80 ft would be excluded.

Even if the Council had been able to resolve the access question, there remained another important matter which was also not settled, namely total allowable catches (TACs) for 1981 and the allocation of these TACs in the form of quotas among the Member States.

2.1.63. The Regulation laying down technical measures for the conservation of fishery resources, due to expire on 28 February, was renewed until 31 March.¹

Several decisions were made on particular stocks. The Federal Republic of Germany undertook to limit its cod fishing east of Greenland, and the TAC for prawns west of Greenland was raised to 30 000 tonnes.

2.1.64. With regard to national conservation measures, the Commission confirmed on 17 February that three UK measures were on the whole consistent with Community rules:

the Sea Fish (Conservation) (Enforcement of Miscellaneous EEC Provisions) Regulations, 1980, the Specified Sea Fish (Prohibition of Fishing Methods) Order, 1980 and the Fishing Nets Order, 1980.

External aspects

Bilateral relations

2.1.65. Reciprocal fishery arrangements between the Community and Norway were resumed on 29 January on an interim basis,² pending the adoption of definitive arrangements for 1981. On the other hand, arrangements between the Community and Canada, Sweden, the Faeroe Islands and Spain, respectively, remained suspended throughout February.

2.1.66. The Council was unable to give its approval to the long-term agreement initiated by the heads of the Community and Canadian delegations on 29 November 1980³ in view of links established by certain Member States between it and internal aspects of the common fisheries policy.

2.1.67. Delegations representing the Community and the Faeroe Islands agreed on 6 February to recommend to their respective authorities arrangements concerning reciprocal fishing for 1981. But, as with the Canadian agreement, the Council was unable to approve these arrangements.

2.1.68. Consultations concerning fishery relations between the Community and Spain were concluded on 17 February. Following the outcome of these consultations the Commission proposed to the Council that it adopt a Regulation granting access to the Community zone for Spanish vessels. The number of Spanish vessels licensed to fish in the Community zone and the quota allocated to them are lower than for 1980.

Multilateral relations

2.1.69. The Community participated in a meeting of parties entitled to become contracting parties to the Convention for the Conservation of Antarctic Marine Living Resources held from 25 to 27 February. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss practical questions concerning the setting-up of the Organization to be established by the Convention following its entry into force.¹

Markets and structures

Common organization of the market

2.1.70. As a consequence of disturbances on the Italian market for carpet shell clams due to massive low-priced imports from non-Community countries, the Commission adopted a Regulation on 9 February introducing protective measures against such imports.²

2.1.71. Parliament gave its opinion on 13 February³ on the Commission's proposals concerning the common organization of the market in fishery products.⁴

Structures

2.1.72. In the context of State aid and procedures under Articles 92 to 94 of the EEC Treaty, the Commission decided not to take action against the prolongation in Denmark of subsidies for technical advisory services in the fisheries sector and for encouraging structural adjustment in the fisheries sector producing for human consumption.

On the other hand, it decided to initiate the Article 93(2) procedure with respect to the prolongation in Sicily of a fuel subsidy originally due to expire on 30 June 1980. In this matter the Commission maintains the position it took in 1980 with respect to similar aid granted in France and in the rest of Italy.⁵

Transport

Sea transport

Safety and pollution prevention

2.1.73. The Commission sent the Federal German Government an opinion⁶ on the implementation of the Council Directive of 21 December 1978⁷ concerning pilotage of vessels by deep-sea pilots in the North Sea and English Channel.⁸

The Commission notes that examination of the documents submitted showed that the Directive is being fully applied in the Federal Republic of Germany save in one respect: the provision making access to the occupation in question conditional upon the possession of German nationality should be amended.

2.1.74. On 13 February Parliament adopted a resolution⁹ on drivers' hours on remote islands and in depopulated and isolated areas. The Economic and Social Committee adopted¹⁰ a number of resolutions relating to the 1982-83 priority action programme,¹¹ the development of transport infrastructure,¹² common rules for international carriage of goods¹³ and Community and bilateral transport authorizations.¹⁴

Energy

Formulating and implementing a Community energy policy

2.1.75. The energy investment programmes of the Member States, particularly investment in the electricity sector, are the subject of a report the Commission sent the Council on 25 February.¹⁵

The energy situation in the Community

2.1.76. Also on 25 February the Commission sent the Council a report entitled 'The energy situation in the Community—Situation in 1980, outlook for 1981’.

According to this paper, the estimated inland demand for energy at about 932 million tonnes of oil-equivalent in 1980 showed a marked decline of 4% on the previous year—chiefly a reflection of the economic recession. However, some part of the decline in demand can be attributed to efforts to reduce oil consumption and to promote energy savings. The demand for oil in particular fell back significantly by 7.6%; and natural gas consumption also declined by 1.4%. The demand for coal fell slightly. The supply of nuclear energy increased by about 15%, reflecting mainly the expansion of the French nuclear programme. With the economic outlook for 1981 indicating an even lower growth of 0.6% in the Community’s GDP, total inland energy demand is expected to decline marginally. However, oil consumption is likely to fall by a further 2.7%, while natural gas demand should remain at about the same level. A modest increase is expected for coal consumption, up by 1.2%. Again, the supply of nuclear energy is expected to rise notably by over 20% as more nuclear plants come into operation. Oil’s share of total energy requirements declined in 1980 to about 53% as compared with 55% in 1979; it is expected to fall further in 1981 to about 52%. The cost of net imports in 1980 was of the order of USD 105 000 million against USD 75 000 million in 1979, and is expected to rise again in 1981, even if demand falls further.

Specific problems

Oil and gas

2.1.77. On 24 February the Council decided¹ to extend for a further period ending on 31 December the system of registering crude oil and petroleum product imports (instituted on 28 August 1979),² as proposed by the Commission last November.³

New sources of energy

2.1.78. In preparation for the United Nations Conference on New and Renewable

Sources of Energy—to be held in Nairobi in August—the Commission sent the Council on 17 February a communication concerning contributions the Community could make in this field.

The forms and sources of energy which will be discussed at the Conference—solar, geothermal, hydro, wind, wave and ocean thermal, biomass, peat, oil shales and tar sands, wood and charcoal—will be playing a bigger role in our energy supplies. The Community is devoting increasing efforts to exploring, researching, developing and demonstrating these forms and sources of energy at both Community and Member State level. The energies also figure largely in action by the Community under the various cooperation instruments available to it (Lomé Convention and relations with Mediterranean countries, with non-associated developing countries and with non-governmental organizations). The Community expects to continue this work in order to help further the aims of the Conference, particularly in those areas where it is in a privileged position, i.e. to develop new and renewable sources of energy under its traditional policy of cooperation with developing countries, and to analyse, forecast, and disseminate information on new and renewable sources of energy under the Community energy policy.

2.1.79. The Commission’s proposals on financial support for demonstration projects and projects to exploit alternative energy sources—sent to the Council on 13 October⁴—were the subject of a resolution by Parliament⁵ and an opinion by the Economic and Social Committee⁶ in February.

Research and development

Development of the common policy

Horizontal policies

2.1.81. On 20 February the Commission sent the Council a communication together with a report on the 'Common policy for science and technology: impact of Community R & D on horizontal policies'.

This document examines the impact of Community scientific research and technological development activities and programmes on regional policy, on small business and on development aid policy. It shows that existing R & D programmes affect horizontal policies only indirectly and sets out guidelines on the basis of which the impact of such programmes might be increased.

Scientific and Technical Research Committee

2.1.82. At a meeting of its alternate members on 26 and 27 February the Scientific and Technical Research Committee (CREST) examined the communications from the Commission relating to the impact of Community research on horizontal policies³ and to the exploitation and evaluation of research results.⁴ In particular, it recommended that the potential impact of all existing programmes on the regions and on small business should as far as possible be taken into account in the course of their implementation.

CREST also acknowledged the value of continuing the Community's concerted-action programme relating to the effects of processing on the physical properties of foodstuffs (COST 80).⁵

Multiannual research programmes

Joint Research Centre

Direct action

Remote sensing

2.1.83. The first of a series of meetings on the technical aspects of a new remote-sensing project was held at Ispra on 9 to 11 February. The experiment, known as SAR-580, which is being jointly organized and sponsored by the JRC and the European Space Agency (ESA), centres on a Convair 580 aircraft belonging to the Canadian Centre for Remote Sensing which is equipped with a three-frequency radar system of the Synthetic Aperture Radar (SAR) type.

This operation will make it possible to prepare for the analysis and use of the data transmitted by the European satellite ERS-1, which is currently at the design stage prior to its scheduled launching in 1981. It is also intended to interest European scientific organizations in the collection of data by the SAR system and in the mapping and monitoring features offered by the system as they relate to the environment and the problems of terrestrial and marine resources. These data will be collected from 50 land and maritime test zones over an area from Greenland to the south of Spain. During this campaign, some hundred institutes will be involved in the collection of supporting ground data which could subsequently be used to check the SAR data.

The ESA is responsible for the flight planning and technological aspects of SAR-580, while the JRC is concerned with the experimental or scientific aspects of the operation. The JRC meeting forms part of a series of workshops which are intended to prepare a ground data collection system and introduce a degree of standardization into the measuring techniques employed. The main topics discussed were calibration of the SAR, general organization of the campaign, ground data collection, communication and modes of SAR operation.

New alloy

2.1.84. A meeting was held at Ispra on 3 February to present a new aluminium/calcium-based superplastic alloy. The following points were dealt with at the presentation: metallurgical characteristics of the alloy (developed by the JRC research staff at Ispra); dissemination of information and the promotion of technology transfer; application and marketing prospects for the licensee of Community patents.

Superplasticity is a property which, under suitable conditions, makes possible substantial deformation (more than 500%) of certain materials. The aluminium/calcium alloy exhibits superplastic behaviour at temperatures of the order of 400 to 500°C. In such conditions, the alloy can be produced in vacuo or under pressure using techniques closely resembling those employed in thermo-plastic polymer processing. These processes do not require very expensive equipment, they can be used to make highly complex products and they afford a reduction in costs and in loss of material caused by successive processing operations. Aluminium-based superplastic alloys are currently used in the aircraft and automobile industries, architecture and various small-series applications (electronics, office automation, transport, etc.).

The meeting stressed the relationship between the development of research and its practical applications, emphasizing the Community's role in promoting a more effective interaction between the research laboratories and industry.

Contract research and coordination

Indirect and concerted action

Programme evaluation

2.1.85. The first meeting of the group of experts set up to evaluate the programme on the management and storage of radioactive waste was held on 6 February. This assessment, for which the assistance of outside, independent experts was sought, forms part of a series of pilot experiments conducted in connection with certain Community R & D programmes in order to develop a methodology of evaluation.

Within the framework of these activities, the 1975-79 energy research programme has been evaluated and the Community Bureau of References programme is currently being assessed.

Corrigendum

Bull. EC 1-1981, point 2.1.64

The last sentence should read:

During an exchange of views on its 1981-82 work programme, the Committee examined the question of how much importance should be given to generic (not genetic) research and to the maintenance within the Community of its intellectual capacity and material resources for industrial research.

Enlargement and bilateral relations with applicant countries

Portugal

Accession negotiations

2.2.1. The twelfth deputy-level meeting of the negotiations was held in Brussels on 27 February. The Community presented a statement on capital movements.

On this occasion Mr Alvaro Barreto, Minister for European Integration, and Mr Ferreira do Amaral, State Secretary for European Integration, met Mr Natali.

Spain

Accession negotiations

2.2.2. Mr Punset Casals, Minister for Relations with the European Community, paid a visit to Brussels on 3 February and had talks with Mr Natali on the current state of the negotiations.

2.2.3. The eleventh deputy-level meeting of the negotiations for Spain's accession to the Community was held in Brussels on 6 February.

The meeting dealt with the Spanish statements on customs union and free movement of goods (industrial), the ECSC, external relations, right of establishment, regional policy, Euratom and Community secondary legislation. The Community presented a statement on own resources.

Commercial policy

Implementing the common commercial policy

Import arrangements

Easing of restrictive measures

2.2.4. Under the Council Regulation of 4 December 1980 on import arrangements in respect of State-trading countries,¹ the Commission took the following measures to relax import restrictions:

Italy-Bulgaria: exceptional opening of an import quota for non-anodized aluminium angles, shapes and sections;²

United Kingdom-USSR/German Democratic Republic: alteration of two quotas for iron and steel products;²

Italy-China: exceptional opening of an import quota for bicycle tyres and inner tubes;²

Italy-USSR: exceptional opening of an import quota for aluminium alloy waste recast into ingots.²

Trade protection

Anti-dumping measures

2.2.5. On 9 February the Council imposed a definitive anti-dumping duty on certain chemical fertilizers originating in the United States of America.³ A provisional anti-dumping duty had been imposed by the Commission⁴ and its validity extended by the Council.⁵

2.2.6. On 13 February the Commission imposed a provisional anti-dumping duty on styrene monomer, also originating in the United States.⁶

2.2.7. The Commission also initiated anti-dumping/anti-subsidy proceedings in respect of imports of certain black-and-white portable television sets originating in Korea,⁷ fluid cracking catalysts originating in the United States,⁸ and upright pianos originating in the German Democratic Republic and Poland.⁹

It terminated the anti-dumping proceeding concerning imports of iron or steel coils for re-rolling, originating in Greece, following Greece's accession to the Communities.¹

Community surveillance

2.2.8. The Commission authorized Belgium, Luxembourg and the Netherlands to institute Community surveillance in respect of imports of certain products originating in a non-member country and in free circulation in the Community, concerning which protective measures might have to be taken pursuant to Article 115 of the EEC Treaty.²

It also made imports of certain textile products originating in a number of non-member countries subject to Community surveillance³ and instituted Community surveillance in respect of imports from Japan of cars, certain machine tools, colour television receivers and cathode ray tubes for colour television receivers.³

Sectoral commercial policy measures

Textiles

Agreements and arrangements with non-member countries

2.2.9. Protocols adapting the textile agreements with Hong Kong and the Philippines to take account of Greece's accession to the Community were initialled with representatives of the countries concerned. This brought the number of protocols initialled to 20.

2.2.10. Consultations with Indonesia resulted in a solution being found regarding quantitative restrictions on exports of trousers, blouses and shirts to the United Kingdom market. The consultations are continuing with a view to reaching agreement on exports of shirts to France, Ireland and Italy.

2.2.11. Following consultations, agreement on quantitative restrictions was reached with the Philippines (exports of socks to the Benelux market and of certain undergarments to the Community market), Romania (exports of anoraks to Italy and of certain outer garments to the Benelux countries) and

Hungary (exports of cotton yarn to the Benelux countries and Italy and exports of gloves to France).

2.2.12. Pending consultations with China and in conformity with the agreement with that country, provisional restrictions were introduced in respect of various textile products exported from China to France, Italy and the United Kingdom.

Development

Commodities and world agreements

Common Fund

Preparatory Committee

2.2.13. The Preparatory Committee of the Common Fund for Commodities⁴ held its second meeting in Geneva from 9 to 13 February, its composition having been widened to include all the States and intergovernmental organizations referred to in the agreement setting up the Fund.

At this meeting the Preparatory Committee adopted its work programme, postponing the finalization of its rules of procedure until its next meeting. It also examined the position as regards ratification of the agreement setting up the Fund: before it can enter into force, the agreement must be ratified by at least 90 States; so far, 24 States have signed but none of them has ratified.

Cocoa

2.2.14. In a communication sent to the Council on 11 February the Commission recommends that the Council approve and sign the 1980 International Cocoa Agreement on behalf of the Community. In its communication the Commission stressed the role played by the Community during the consultations and negotiations which led to the text of the new Agreement being finalized in November 1980;¹ the Agreement will be open for signature from 5 January to 31 March and is due to enter into force on 1 April.

Commercial, industrial, financial and technical cooperation

Briefing course for senior Arab officials

2.2.15. From 2 to 20 February the Commission organized a course for about 40 senior officials from the national administrations of Arab countries and from Arab organizations. The aim of the programme was to familiarize the participants with the Community and its policies and to open the way for wider cooperation with those countries and organizations, by means of personal contacts and specialized seminars. Visits to the other Community institutions completed the briefing course.

Aid to non-associated developing countries

2.2.16. On 17 February the Council formally adopted the outline Regulation on financial and technical aid to non-associated developing countries.² This automatically terminates the conciliation procedure with Parliament, which had been concerned in particular with the procedure for the adoption of projects. The essential features of this Regulation (objectives, framework, resources and procedures) have been in application—under an ad hoc procedure—since the Commission put up its proposal in March 1977.³

Food aid, emergency aid and exceptional aid

Food aid

Annual programmes

2.2.17. On 13 February the Commission transmitted to the Council its proposals for the 1981 food aid programmes. These programmes were drawn up in the light of the discussions in Parliament on hunger in the world⁴ and involve an increase in cereals aid (which the Commission nevertheless considers to be inadequate in relation to the requirements) and the implementation of several substantial improvements recommended by Parliament, the principle of which was subsequently accepted by the Council—multiannual aid programming, in particular.

The quantities proposed by the Commission are as follows:

Cereals	927 663 tonnes
Skimmed-milk powder	150 000 tonnes
Butteroil	45 000 tonnes

As in previous years, almost all the aid (91%) will be allocated to the poorest countries.

Following Parliament's suggestions, the Commission also urges that measures be adopted to allow better planning of aid, improved integration of food aid in overall development policy and in the food strategies of the beneficiaries, and that the products supplied should be in line with the real needs of the people concerned. Thus, under the 1981 programmes the Commission will present proposals for supporting development projects or programmes by means of multiannual food aid operations, to be examined case by case.

Emergency measures

2.2.18. The Commission has authorized the allocations of emergency food aid to UNHCR for Zimbabwe (475 000 ECU—skimmed-milk powder) and Salvadorian refugees in neighbouring countries—essentially Honduras (300 000 ECU—cereals).

Exceptional aidEmergency aid

2.2.19. The Commission has decided in principle on emergency aid amounting to 400 000 ECU for the people of El Salvador.

Relations with non-governmental organizations

2.2.20. During the period 1 January to 28 February the Commission committed 1 206 598 ECU to be used to cofinance 10 projects presented by 10 NGOs in developing countries.

The Commission has also contributed 8 890 ECU to a scheme undertaken by the NGO Liaison Committee to educate European public opinion on development matters.

International organizations and conferencesUnited NationsEconomic and Social CouncilEconomic Commission for Europe

2.2.21. The third session of the Senior Advisers to ECE Governments on Energy was held in Geneva from 16 to 20 February.¹ It focused on the problems relating to a possible high-level meeting and on the report prepared by the ECE secretariat concerning information and cooperation with regard to energy; it was agreed that this report would be amplified, updated and improved and would be studied by the Senior Advisers at a further meeting. The Senior Advisers would report accordingly to the 36th annual session of the ECE to be held from 30 March to 8 April.

General Agreement on Tariffs and TradeImplementation of the results of the multilateral trade negotiationsCommittee on Technical Barriers to Trade*

2.2.22. The Committee on Technical Barriers to Trade met from 4 to 6 February with Mr Tamura (Japan) in the chair.² The main item discussed was an American proposal concerning the applicability of the General Agreement to production methods and processes. In view of the importance of the subject, the Community reserved its position on this item, which will be included on the agenda for the Committee's next meeting, due to be held in June. The terms of Tunisia's accession to the General Agreement were approved by the Committee.

Committee on Anti-dumping Practices

2.2.23. The Committee on Anti-dumping Practices,³ meeting on 2 and 3 February, discussed the question of basic price systems and special anti-dumping monitoring schemes, such as trigger-price mechanisms and related systems. A draft understanding on the future of these schemes was submitted to governments for their consideration.

Consultations

2.2.24. The Working Party on Sugar met on 9 and 10 February.⁴ It finalized the report, drawn up following discussions between the Contracting Parties and the Community, on the possibility of limiting the subsidies which the Community grants on sugar exports. This report will be submitted to the GATT Council at its next meeting.

Having examined the various proposals for improving cooperation, it began work on drafting a concluding document. The Conference will probably run beyond the scheduled closing date (5 March). The Ministers of the Ten, meeting within the framework of inter-governmental cooperation, discussed the progress made and the prospects for the Conference in the light of the general situation of East-West relations.

Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development

Executive Committee

2.2.26. At a special session on 20 February the OECD Executive Committee¹ reviewed the situation of the North-South Dialogue in connection with the global negotiations. It noted that the OECD countries — whose efforts in the cause of improved North-South relations deserved to be stressed — would be able to approach the negotiations in a calm and open frame of mind. The importance of the work of specialized agencies and of regional or bilateral action was also emphasized.

The representative of the Commission set out its views regarding the principal components of a future dialogue on energy and financial and monetary questions, pointing out that these two issues need not be tackled as a package.

The Executive Committee also took note of the discussions held by the Group on North-South Economic Issues, which met on 17 and 18 February. The Group examined, on the basis of a study by the Secretariat, the principal questions currently arising in relations with the developing countries (energy, food, monetary and financial matters, trade) in the world economic context. Its examination brought out the disparate trends in the developing countries over the last decade and the diversity of their present situations. For the time being, it is not possible to form a very precise overall picture of the next stages of the North-South Dialogue.

Trade Committee

2.2.27. At its meeting on 11 and 12 February the Trade Committee² began its periodic review of the principal developments and problems in the field of international trade and trade policy. This was a preliminary review to ensure the proper implementation of the declaration on trade policy adopted by the Governments of the OECD member countries in June 1980.³

Industrialized countries

United States

2.2.28. On 9 and 10 February a Commission delegation visited Washington to draw the new Administration's attention to the Community's concern over the rapid increase in United States exports of certain textile products. The delegation insisted on the urgent need to eliminate any factors liable to distort normal conditions of competition, such as the price system for the gas used by the petrochemical industry in the manufacture of certain fabrics and fibres.

On 17 February the Council heard a report by the Commission on the results of these consultations; it noted with satisfaction that the United States Government had deregulated the price of petroleum products.

2.2.29. Following the decision by the Department of Commerce to raise the level of trigger prices applicable to steel imports for the second quarter of 1981 by 4.4%, the Commission expressed its concern to the US authorities as to the possible consequences of that increase on Community exports of steel to the United States, which had already shown a marked decline in 1980 compared to the previous year.

Japan

2.2.30. On 17 February the Council adopted a further statement on relations between the Community and Japan, based on the recommendations in the Commission report on the results of the January consultations.¹ The text of the statement is as follows:

(1) The Council reaffirmed its statement of 25 November 1980 in which it expressed its serious concern at the present state of trade between Japan and the Community and its likely future development. It regretted that the Japanese response to the statement had not been such as to remove the Council's concern.

(2) The Council took the view that economic factors were one facet of the overall relationship between Europe and Japan; the Community should therefore press its preoccupations on these economic difficulties at a high political level. The Community's concern should be conveyed forthwith by the representatives of the Member States and of the Commission in Tokyo.

(3) The Council noted in particular that the situation as regards Japanese car exports continued to give rise to increasing and very serious concern, in particular the position in certain regions of the Community, especially the Benelux countries. The work and the contacts should be promptly pursued in this and other relevant sectors.

(4) The Council further noted that the Commission intended to introduce Community-wide surveillance forthwith in order to make more rapidly available statistical information on imports from Japan of passenger cars, colour television sets and tubes and certain machine tools. It requested the Commission to monitor the results of this surveillance and to report to the Council as soon as the outcome for the first three months of this year was clear, and regularly thereafter.

(5) The Council took note that the Commission had circulated an initial analysis of the concentration of Japanese exports to the Community and invited the Commission to pursue the studies requested by the Council in its November statement.

(6) The Council recognized that it was for European enterprises to take advantage of the growing Japanese market and to develop positive strategies to deal with Japanese competition. It called upon the Commission to continue to pursue vigorously with the Japanese authorities the opening up of the Japanese market.

(7) At the next EEC-Japan high-level consultations, which should be held as soon as possible, the Commission should check on the progress of the various discussions and report to the Council on the results achieved.

(8) Since the question of trade with Japan has implications for all major industrialized trading countries, the Council took the view that it should be raised with them on every possible occasion and in particular at the Western Economic Summit in Ottawa next July in the context of the customary exchange of views on world trading problems.'

2.2.31. Following upon the Council's statement, the Commission decided on 24 February to introduce Community surveillance of imports from Japan of motor-vehicles, colour television receivers and tubes and certain machine tools.²

New Zealand

2.2.32. Mr Talboys, Minister of Foreign Affairs and Overseas Trade of New Zealand, had meetings with Mr Thorn, Mr Haferkamp and Mr Dalsager on 18 and 19 February on the course of a visit to a number of European capitals concerning New Zealand butter exports after 1980. Mr Talboys emphasized once more the political importance of this issue and the need for its urgent consideration by the Council on the basis of the Commission's proposal.³

Mediterranean countries

Malta

2.2.33. On 9 February the Council authorized the Commission to negotiate a supplementary protocol to the EEC-Malta Association Agreement with a view to extending until 30 June 1984 the provisions governing the first stage of the Association.⁴

Yugoslavia

2.2.34. On 13 February Mr Andow, the Yugoslav Minister responsible for relations with the Community, paid a visit to the Commission and had talks with Mr Thorn, Mr Haferkamp, Mr Contogeorgis and Mr Dalsager. The talks dealt in particular with the various aspects of the negotiations on the protocol to adapt the EEC-Yugoslavia Agreement following the accession of Greece to the Communities,¹ work on which is currently in progress within the Council.

Maghreb

Morocco

2.2.35. Negotiations to adapt the Cooperation Agreement following Greece's accession to the Communities got under way at a meeting held on 13 February. The Moroccan delegation asked that a number of problems be taken into account (for instance, the need for a more effective consultation procedure when Spain accedes) and that all quotas be reviewed in the light of Greek imports.

Developing countries

ACP States and OCT

ACP-EEC Conventions

Institutions

2.2.36. The Joint Committee of the ACP-EEC Consultative Assembly met in Freetown, Sierra Leone, from 23 to 27 February with Mr Pratt (Sierra Leone, acting co-chairman in place of Mr Kango Ouedraogo) and Mr Bersani (Italy) as joint chairmen. The discussions mainly concerned the implementation of the new Lomé Convention and fisheries development in the ACP States. The closing statement refers inter alia to procedures for EEC-ACP consultations in the event of enlargement of the Community, access for the ACP to the Community's surplus agricultural products as part of the campaign against hunger, regional cooperation, sugar, textiles and fisheries. A resolution on southern Africa recommends an oil embargo and a ban on arms supplies to South Africa and affirms the obligation of transnationals to respect the 'code of conduct'. There was also discussion concerning the hearing of representatives of business and labour, which is planned for early June; it was agreed that this year the hearing will be devoted to integrated rural development.

Regional cooperation

2.2.37. The first Europe-Caribbean talks took place in Pointe-à-Pitre, Guadeloupe, from 23 to 26 February at the joint initiative of the chambers of commerce and industry of the three French overseas departments in the Caribbean (Guadeloupe, Guiana and Martinique). Mr Cheysson and Mr Haferkamp attended the talks. Around 450 people representing the ten Caribbean signatories to the Lomé Convention (Bahamas, Barbados, Dominica, Grenada, Guyana, Jamaica, St Lucia, St Vincent and the Grenadines, Surinam, Trinidad and Tobago), the nine British and Dutch OCTs and the three French overseas departments of the region gathered with the aim of examining the new avenues of cooperation opened up in the Caribbean by the second Lomé Convention.

These talks represented a major innovation, inasmuch as those present (representing business, industry, banking and government) were meeting for the first time, in a single framework and with a common objective.

It was recognized that, while conforming strictly to constitutional and legal requirements and in particular the Lomé Convention, regional projects could involve the aggregation of funds from different sources of financing (the EDF in the case of the ACP and OCT and also the ERDF and the EAGGF Guidance Section for the overseas departments) and that in the field of training there were many opportunities for making better use of existing institutions on both sides for the purpose of integrating nationals who had hitherto been trained in isolation from each other.

Financial and technical cooperation

2.2.38. On 20 February a delegation from the Netherlands Antilles led by the Prime Minister, Mr Martina, visited the Commission to meet Mr Cheysson and sign the financing agreement for the St Martin Airport, which is the most important ever financed in the Netherlands Antilles (7 292 000 ECU).

Export earnings

Stabex

2.2.39. On 13 February the Commission decided to pay Madagascar a 1 million ECU advance against a transfer to be made for 1980 in respect of vanilla.

2.2.40. On the same day Parliament¹ adopted a resolution on the sugar quota in the French overseas departments.

European Development Fund

2.2.41. Financing decisions taken by the Commission in February involved the allocation of fourth and fifth EDF resources totalling 25 165 000 ECU to operations in the following sectors:

	(ECU)
Rural production	4 050 000
Training	1 205 000
Water engineering, urban infrastructure, housing	4 050 000
Exceptional aid	600 000
Miscellaneous ²	15 260 000
	25 165 000

Asia

ASEAN countries

2.2.42. In the context of the industrial cooperation in the mining sector provided for in the EEC-ASEAN Cooperation Agreement, the Commission organized a visit to the five ASEAN countries, at the invitation of their Governments, from 26 January to 11 February; the team consisted of about a dozen representatives of mining and metalworking companies specializing in non-ferrous metals and a delegate from one of the Community trade associations. Meetings took place with representatives of government and private industry concerned with the non-ferrous metals sector to discuss in depth the technical and economic opportunities for cooperation and the conditions in the ASEAN countries applying to investment from the Community.

Latin America

EEC-Latin America meeting

2.2.43. A meeting of the Permanent Representatives and the Commission with the Heads of the Missions of the Latin American countries accredited to the European Communities took place in Brussels on 9 February. This meeting marked the resumption of official contacts between the two sides, which had been in abeyance since June 1979. It took place outside the framework of the renewed dialogue and provided the opportunity to discuss subjects of common interest and to define the terms of an ad hoc procedure for the organization of future meetings. According to the terms worked out, it will first of all be up to the Commission to take the initiative in calling a meeting with the Latin-American ambassadors to identify and analyse jointly a number of topics which, at a later stage, when the subjects have been sufficiently examined and considered in detail, will be put on the agenda for a further meeting of the Permanent Representatives Committee, the Commission and the Heads of the Latin-American Missions.

It was agreed that discussion would centre on the following four topics: commercial policy, economic and industrial policy, scientific and technical cooperation policy and international economic policy.

Diplomatic relations

2.2.44. The President of the Council and the President of the Commission received Their Excellencies Mr Alberto Vasquez Restrepo, Mr Frederick Arthur Blumeris, Mr John George McArthur and Mr Oliver H. Jackman, who presented their letters of credence in their capacity as Heads of the Missions of the Republic of Colombia, the Republic of Zimbabwe, New Zealand and Barbados respectively to the European Communities with effect from 17 February.¹

They also received His Excellency Mr Kengo wa Dondo, who presented his letters of credence in his capacity as Representative of the Republic of Zaire to the European Community with effect from 17 February.¹

The new Ambassadors of Colombia, New Zealand, Barbados and Zaire succeed Mr Luis Robledo, Mr G.K. Ansell, Mr Cecil Beaumont Williams and Mr Inonga Lokongo l'Ome.

Mr Blumeris is Zimbabwe's first Head of Mission to the Communities, and his appointment brings the number of diplomatic missions to the Communities to 118 once again.

European political cooperation

2.2.45. On the occasion of the Council meeting of 17 February, the Foreign Ministers also held a political cooperation meeting. Mr Colombo reported on his visit to Washington and his first contacts with the new Administration, and the Ministers discussed the resumption of the Euro-Arab Dialogue and the preparation of a Euro-Arab meeting at ministerial level.

Mr van der Klaauw told his colleagues of the preliminary meetings which he had as a follow-up to the Venice mission with the Secretary-General of the Arab League, Mr Klibi, and with President Sadat in Luxembourg. The Ministers also discussed the question of the Madrid CSCE meeting and the Afghan problem. Lastly, they expressed their concern at the kidnapping of the Head of the Jordanian Mission in Beirut.

2.2.46. The following statement was issued by the Presidency after the abortive coup d'état in Spain:

'The Ministers for Foreign Affairs of the Ten, acting within the framework of European political cooperation and aware of the important role of Spain in a democratic Europe, express their sincere pleasure with the failure of an attempt to overthrow constitutional order in Spain, noting at the same time that the Spanish people as a whole, inspired by His Majesty King Juan Carlos, have confirmed their commitment to the constitution and to democracy.'²

2.2.47. On 9 and 13 February Parliament passed a number of resolutions on political cooperation matters—the violation of human rights in Uruguay, the indictment of Brazilian trade-union leaders and Egypt's participation in the Euro-Arab Dialogue.³

Relations between the institutions

2.3.1. On 12 February Parliament adopted its 'investiture' resolution approving the appointment of the Commission.¹

2.3.2. On 10 February, after consulting Parliament, the Council adopted a Regulation reinstating isoglucose production quotas with retroactive effect.² This was the final stage in the Isoglucose case, which had seen the Court annul the original Council Regulation for infringement of an essential procedural requirement (failure to consult Parliament)³ and Parliament intervene for the first time in a Court case in support of the firms bringing the action.⁴

Ministerial meetings

2.3.3. An informal meeting of Transport Ministers was held in Amsterdam on 16 February under the chairmanship of the Netherlands Transport Minister, Mr Tuijnman.

Items on the agenda included the Council's programme of priorities and decisions on transport between now and the end of 1983; the financial situation of the railways; weights and dimensions of commercial vehicles; transport infrastructures; and maritime matters.

Parliament⁵

Luxembourg: 9 to 13 February

2.3.4. Parliament's February sittings were dominated by a lengthy debate, prepared by the Committee formed for the purpose in 1979, on the situation of women in the Community. The debate was closed, for the time being, with the adoption of a resolution, which foresees that this ad hoc Committee will be set up again in two years' time.

As usual at this time of the year the House heard a statement by the President of the Commission on the priorities of the Commission's work programme for 1981. On this occasion, Parliament adopted for the first time a resolution on the 'investiture' of the Commission.

Visit by President Sadat (10 February)

2.3.5. On 10 February Parliament held a formal sitting in honour of the visit of Anwar El Sadat, President of the Arab Republic of Egypt. In her speech of welcome Mrs Veil, the President of Parliament, said:

'This is an historic occasion for the European Parliament'. Turning to Mr Sadat, she went on: 'You are one of the most respected leaders of that Arab world with which Europe has for several years been endeavouring to weave the fabric of permanent and constructive dialogue'. It was thanks to President Sadat that something which nobody thought possible had been achieved in the Middle East—the signing of a peace treaty between Israel and Egypt.

Parliament was convinced 'that a strong Europe can and must do its utmost to help to preserve and strengthen stability in the world ...'

'When countries and governments are imbued with the same resolve to attain the same goal of peace, the ways of reaching this goal will not need long discussions. In the dialogue to which you invite us today we should be able to remove all

The complete texts of the resolutions adopted by Parliament are reproduced in OJ C 50, 9.3.1981, and the report of proceedings is contained in OJ Annex 266. The political groups of members are indicated in brackets by the following abbreviations: Soc = Socialists; EPP = European People's Party-Christian Democratic Group; ED = European Democratic Group; Com = Communists and Allies; Lib = Liberals and Democrats; EPD = European Progressive Democrats; Ind = Group for the Technical Coordination and Defence of Independent Groups and Members; NA = Non-affiliated. our differences if we are both equally determined to attain that goal'.¹

In his reply, President Sadat hoped for a new partnership between Europe and the Third World and called for a tripartite agreement for cooperation between Europe, Africa and the Middle East. Turning to the members themselves, he said:

'Egypt urges you to support their right [of the Palestinian people] to self-determination and national dignity ... The establishment of a Palestinian entity, after a transitional period, would be a positive development to all countries in the region. It poses no threat to the security of Israel. In fact, it is the best guarantee for it ... We should like you to participate with us in persuading both Israelis and Palestinians to accept a formula of mutual and simultaneous recognition ... We invite you also to take part in additional security guarantees as a European contribution to peace in the Middle East.'

In conclusion, President Sadat paid tribute to Parliament's attitude towards the problems of peace in the Middle East. His speech received a standing ovation.

Commission programme for 1981 (11 and 12 February)

2.3.6. Following a statement by Mr Thorn on the Commission's programme,² the House held a debate, at the end of which it passed a resolution, moved by Mr Jonker (NL) and others on behalf of the EPP Group, Mr Haagerup (DK) on behalf of the Liberal and Democratic Group, and Mr Fergusson (UK) for the European Democrats:

'The European Parliament,

— conscious of its responsibilities as a directly elected body,

— recalling its determination to express confidence or non-confidence in the Commission, as proposed in the Rey report of 14 April 1980,³

— having regard to the conclusions of the debate on the programme submitted by the Commission,

1. Approves the appointment of the Commission and reiterates its request to participate in future in that appointment;

2. Takes note of the Commission's programme and declares itself in agreement with the underlying political principles thereof and asks the Commission to appear before the relevant parliamentary committees to discuss it in greater detail as soon as possible;

3. Notes with satisfaction the Commission's indication of its intention to submit, by 1 October 1981, a comprehensive document aimed at reaching agreement on inter-institutional relations for future cooperation.'

The explanations of vote revealed various leanings. Some members supported the principle of a vote along the lines proposed by the Rey report: Mr Colla (Soc/B) and Mr Hänsch (Soc/D) felt that this was logical. Mr Arndt (Soc/D) said that such a vote honoured the commitments which the German Social Democrats had made to the electorate. Other members, though supporting the principle, nevertheless opposed the resolution or, at least, some of its paragraphs. Mrs van den Heuvel (Soc/NL), who thought Mr Thorn's statement was too vague, refused to endorse it by voting against the second paragraph of the resolution. Mr van Minnen (Soc/NL) was another member to complain about the political platitudes in the Commission's statement, and he therefore voted against the resolution. Others again, like Mr Ferri (Soc/I), Mr Albers (Soc/NL) and Mr Welsh (ED/UK) expressed reservations about the political principles underlying the Commission's statement and finally abstained on the whole resolution.

Some members, however, were opposed to the very principle of such a resolution. Mr Fanti (Com/I), for example, considered it preposterous, first because Parliament did not have the right to approve the investiture of the Commission and second because it was proposing to endorse a programme which offered only promises and no specific commitments. Mr Lalor (EPD/IRL) found it impossible to vote, for it meant ratifying an unacceptable procedure. Mr Charalambopoulos (Soc/G) abstained, since no such procedure was provided in the Treaties. Mr Sarre announced that the French Socialists would abstain, for though Parliament could censure the Commission, it did not have the right to approve the appointment of its Members. Moreover, the policy proposed by the Commission would, to his mind, be nothing else but more unbridled liberalism. Finally, Mrs Scrivener (Lib/F) declared that she would vote for the resolution as a token of her confidence in the Commission and in Mr Thorn in particular, though it was neither a vote of investiture nor a vote of confidence.

When calling for roll-call and separate votes on each of the basic paragraphs of the resolution, Mr Glinne (B) had earlier announced that the Socialist Group was allowing its members a free vote.

The resolution was passed by 155 votes for, 31 against and 21 abstentions.

Situation of women in the Community (10 and 11 February)

2.3.7. Presenting her report on behalf of the Ad Hoc Committee on Women's Rights, Mrs Maij-Weggen (EPP/NL) explained how the economic crisis in Europe was highlighting even more vividly the critical position of women. It was women, she said, who were the prime victims of unemployment. The Community directives adopted since 1974, all very well in principle, had nevertheless failed to attain their objectives, notably because of disparate application in the different Member States. Implementation of the directives must be monitored and penalties must be imposed on recalcitrant States, mainly by denying them any further vocational training grants from the Social and Regional Funds.

To encourage the participation of women in social and economic life, Mrs Maij-Weggen proposes in her report a number of priority operations, the most important one being to reallocate paid and unpaid jobs between men and women. Working conditions must be improved (more flexible and shorter working hours), adequate vocational training must be provided, especially in the advanced technologies, and health care must be improved. While advocating more effective prevention, Mrs Maij-Weggen stressed the need to narrow the gaps between the Member States' laws on abortion. In conclusion, she called for an occupational status at European level for women working on family farms and in family businesses, and for the wives of migrants. In the developing countries an immediate study must be made on how methods of development were affecting the situation of women. Mrs Kraaijeveld-Wouters, the Council President, outlined what the Community had done to help women: on paper, equality had been achieved, but in practice there were still many differences, which were built into the structures inherited from the past.

For the Commission, Mr Richard said that in the present crisis the Commission was bound to do all it could to ensure that women did not pay the heaviest price.

The debate revealed general agreement on the need for a radical change in the traditional assignment of roles between men and women. It was also made clear that the provision of job opportunities for women was, in the present circumstances, the most effective means of enabling them to assert their independence and affirm their participation in society; but this meant that women must be able to make a genuine choice. Views differed mainly on the questions of shortening working hours, on the matter of abortion and on the role of women within the family.

Some members felt that women were still branded by certain roles assigned to them (Mrs Hoff—Soc/D); women encountered major problems in reconciling work and family life (Mrs Lenz—EPP/D); we must not underestimate the woman's contribution to the family unit, which was still the foundation of society (Miss Roberts—ED/UK); the importance of the housewife's role was being re-enhanced for political ends (Mrs Wiczorek-Zeul—Soc/D); the mother's role in the home must not be forgotten, it was a vital social one (Mrs Lentz-Cornette—EPP/L; Mr Seligman—ED/UK).

The abortion issue also led to a clash of opinions: Mrs Lenz (EPP/D) took a stand against any proposal which tended to make abortion easier; several Irish members (Miss De Valera—EPD; Mr Maher—Lib; Mr Clinton—EPP) took issue with passages in the report concerning voluntary interruption of pregnancy; other speakers, however, (Mrs Spaak—NA/B), Mrs Fuillet—Soc/B) stressed that this problem could not be ignored.

Lastly, some members criticized Mrs Maij-Weggen's report on various counts. Mrs Hoffman (Com/F) held that the ad hoc Committee had neither analysed the causes nor named those really responsible for the situation of women in Europe. Mr Vié (EPD/F) contended that the report betrayed a small-minded, narrow and misguided approach, while Mr Forth (ED/UK) described the measures proposed as unrealistic, expensive and impracticable. Mrs Squarzialupi (Com/I) said she was dissatisfied with a report which asked women to accept society as it stood.

At the end of the debate Parliament passed the resolution in the Maij-Weggen report, to which it made some amendments in the details. The House retained the much disputed point concerning voluntary interruption of pregnancy. With this resolution the House discharged the Ad Hoc Committee on Women's Rights, which will be reconstituted in two years' time for a further debate.

2.3.8. The House also approved Commission proposals relating to:

- a Directive on exemption from VAT on the final importation of certain goods:¹ Parliament suggested several amendments concerning, in particular, severely damaged motor vehicles;
- a package of Regulations concerning the use² and the control of the use³ of hormones administered to domestic animals: the Commission was asked to reword the proposals so as to produce uniform rules, free of contradictions, covering all possible dangers and guaranteeing real protection for the consumer;
- the common provisions for isoglucose;⁴
- a Regulation on the common organization of the market in fishery products:⁵ the Council was urged to adopt this proposal without delay.

2.3.9. The House also passed a number of resolutions concerning:

- convergence and budgetary questions: the House felt that the distributive effects of Community policies as between sectors, regions and countries should be a more important criterion in future in reviewing the value of existing policies and in establishing priorities for the future;

- tax-free allowances for travellers within the Community: the Council was asked to agree to a substantial increase in these allowances;
- the sugar quota for the French overseas departments: Parliament suggested a number of arrangements which should not result in any increase in the overall quota for France;
- the fixing of book prices;
- drivers' hours legislation in remote islands and depopulated and isolated areas: the House asked the Commission to propose derogations from the provisions governing driving time and rest periods;
- Community aid to Calabria for the recent flood damage.

2.3.10. Lastly, Parliament gave its opinion on the charges brought against thirteen trade-union leaders in Brazil and on violations of human rights in Uruguay.

Economic and Social Committee

2.3.21. The 185th plenary session of the Economic and Social Committee, the first to be attended by the twelve Greek members,¹ was held on 25 and 26 February with Mr Roseingrave, the Committee's Chairman, presiding. The agenda was a very full one owing to the cancellation of the January plenary session.

Opinions

Community loans (NCI)

2.3.22. The Committee unanimously approved (with one abstention) the proposal for a Council Decision empowering the Commission to contract loans for the purpose of promoting investment within the Community.² It saw the new Community instrument (NCI) as part of a whole range of measures designed to give renewed impetus to the move towards economic and monetary union. The proposal, continuing and extending the scope of the NCI (which was originally limited to 1 000 million EUA), aims to stimulate economic activity through increased investment and to promote convergence between the Member States' economies.

Information technology

2.3.23. The Committee unanimously approved the priorities set out in the Commission's first report on new information technologies.³

2.3.24. In a unanimous opinion the Committee endorsed the Commission's proposals for Community action in the field of microelectronic technology.³ However, it considered the funds fell far short of what was needed, considering the great importance of microelectronics for the future economic development of the Community. The Committee suggested that the Commission should fall back on existing national programmes and coordinate them in keeping with Community aims.

Insurance

2.3.25. Although expressing some reservations, in particular on the question of minimum cover, the Committee unanimously approved the proposed Directive on the approximation of the laws relating to insurance against civil liability in respect of the use of motor vehicles.⁴

Taxation

2.3.26. The Committee unanimously adopted an opinion on the proposal for a Directive on taxes other than turnover taxes affecting the consumption of manufactured tobacco.⁵

The Committee criticized the Commission's approach to harmonizing taxes on cigarettes in that it aimed to achieve the same ratio between the specific and the ad valorem elements of taxation in all Member States.

Protection of wild fauna and flora

2.3.27. The Committee approved the proposal to implement in the Community the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Flora and Fauna.⁶ But it called on the Community and the Member States to consider introducing even stricter protection measures than those set out in the Convention.

Use of hormones for livestock

2.3.28. The Committee approved the Commission's proposals on the use of substances having a hormonal or thyrostatic action in domestic animals⁷ and on measures to control their use.¹ In its view Community rules in this area were urgently needed. It stressed that examinations and checks should primarily be made on live animals at the farm and in transit. Tests to detect residues should be extended to cover meat products, especially those from non-member countries, and to all animals used for human consumption (including, for example, game from reserves or fish).

Transport

2.3.29. The Committee unanimously adopted a provisional opinion on the priorities and timetable for transport decisions to be taken by the Council before the end of 1983.² It recommended that the Commission's proposals should not be regarded simply as a continuation of previous programmes but as a blueprint duly reflecting the pressing needs of the day. The Committee intends to put forward concrete suggestions in its definitive opinion.

2.3.30. The Committee also unanimously adopted an opinion on the Commission memorandum on the role of the Community in the development of transport infrastructure³ and on a number of other Commission proposals on transport.⁴

2.3.31. The Committee adopted an opinion on the Saint-Geours report on an energy-efficient society, prepared at the Commission's request in 1979.⁵

The Committee concluded that the relation between economic growth and energy consumption is not necessarily the most important parameter in energy policy. It distinguished between disassociation through restructuring and disassociation through energy saving and considered it incorrect to regard disassociation and energy saving as independent objectives which could have a cumulative effect. In the Committee's view, the full potential can only be realized at the expense of economic growth. Further investigations are needed to determine the role of investment. Restructuring of energy-intensive industries should not be undertaken without ascertaining the full consequences for employment and business. The role of state intervention in pricing policy remains vital.

2.3.32. The Committee also approved Commission proposals on:

- the approximation of laws relating to flavourings for use in foodstuffs;⁶
- the application of social security schemes to employed persons and their families moving within the Community;⁷
- common action to stimulate the improvement of infrastructures in certain less-favoured agricultural areas of Germany;⁸
- financial support for demonstration projects in the field of energy saving and for projects to exploit alternative energy sources;⁹
- a research and development programme for an advanced machine translation system.¹⁰

European Investment Bank

Operations in January and February

2.3.33. In January and February the European Investment Bank announced loans totalling 86.1 million units of account¹¹ for investments in the Community, of which 32.8 million u.a. were financed from the new Community borrowing and lending instrument (NCI — the 'Ortoli facility').¹ The breakdown was 53.3 million for investment in Ireland and 32.8 million in Italy. Outside the Community the Bank made the first loan under the second Lomé Convention, amounting to 2.3 million u.a. for a fertilizer manufacturing plant in Senegal. It also granted 400 000 u.a. for a feasibility study on the exploitation of an oil field and for prospecting in Senegal.

The conversion rates at 31 December 1980 used by the EIB in statistics for the first quarter of 1981 were: 1 u.a. = DM 2.57, UKL 0.55, FF 5.94, LIT 1217, HFL 2.79, BFR 41.34, LFR 41.34, DKR 7.89, DRA 61.26, IRL 0.69, USD 1.31.

Community

Ireland

2.3.34. In Ireland the Bank granted loans totalling IRL 36.8 million. A loan worth IRL 25 million will go towards telecommunications development, involving the connection of 86 000 new telephone subscribers and 2 200 new telex connections. Between 1973 and 1980 the EIB granted loans totalling IRL 138.1 million (IRL 30.4 million under the NCI) for telecommunications projects in the country. The resulting improved facilities should help boost the economic development of the regions concerned. A second loan, worth IRL 6.8 million, went towards water supply and sewerage works in the Midlands and North-East regions. The works are designed to serve growing industrial and agricultural requirements and also protect lakes and watercourses from pollution. A 3% interest subsidy will be granted on these loans pursuant to the arrangements adopted when Ireland joined the European Monetary System (EMS). The Bank also lent IRL 5 million towards a new ferry which will help to improve the sea link between Ireland and Great Britain.

Italy

2.3.35. In Italy a loan of LIT 40 000 million has been granted under the NCI for the construction of a 1 000 MW hydroelectric power station at Edolo, near Brescia. Once it is fully operational in 1983, it should achieve annual energy savings of at least 70 000 tonnes oil equivalent. This loan also qualifies for an EMS interest subsidy.

Outside the Community

ACP States

2.3.36. The EIB granted loans totalling 2.3 million u.a. (almost CFAF 690 million) in Senegal for the construction of a sulphuric and phosphoric acid production plant near the Taiba phosphate mine, 50 km from Dakar, and a fertilizer factory in the free zone of the capital. This is the largest industrial project ever carried out in Senegal.

The loan, the first by the EIB under the second Lomé Convention, was granted to the State to cover part of its capital stake in Industries Chimiques du Sénégal (ICS), which is promoting the project. It is in the form of a conditional loan drawn from the risk capital provided for under the Convention and managed by the EIB on behalf of the Community. In 1980, under the first Lomé Convention, the EIB lent 9 million u.a. from its own resources to ICS and 6.4 million u.a. from risk capital for the same project.

A second conditional loan of 400 000 u.a. was granted to the State for the funding of the partly State-owned Petrosen company, which will be in charge both of the final phase of the studies on the possibility of exploiting the Dome Flore light oil field off Casamance and of oil exploration onshore and in territorial waters. The loan is drawn from the risk capital set aside for feasibility studies.

Financing Community activities

Budgets

General budget

1980 supplementary budget and 1981 budget

2.3.37. The Commission initiated the procedure provided for in Article 169 of the Treaty in respect of certain Member States for failure to pay their full contributions (VAT own resources) to supplementary budget No 2 of 1980 and/or the 1981 budget, arguing that implementation of the budget within the meaning of Article 205 of the Treaty involves not only the spending of the sums entered in the budget but also the collection of the relevant revenue.

On 13 February the Commission sent letters to the Governments of Belgium, the Federal Republic of Germany and France asking them to comply with their obligations under Article 10 of the Council Regulation of 19 December 1977¹ implementing the Decision of 21 April 1970 on the replacement of financial contributions from Member States by the Communities' own resources, and to pay their full VAT own resources contributions to the 1980 budget within one month or, failing this, to submit their observations by the same deadline. If necessary, the Commission will, once these observations have been submitted, deliver a reasoned opinion under Article 169 of the Treaty.

Similar letters have been sent to the Governments of the Federal Republic of Germany and France with regard to their VAT own resources contributions to the 1981 budget for the month of February.

Financial operations

ECSC

Loans raised

2.3.38. In February the Commission concluded a DM 120 million bond issue underwritten by a German banking syndicate. The loan, which is for ten years, bears interest at the nominal rate of 10% per annum payable annually. It was issued at par, and applications will be made for official listing of the bonds on the Frankfurt, Berlin, Düsseldorf, Hamburg and Munich stock exchanges.

The Commission also concluded a number of private placings in French francs and Luxembourg francs amounting to approximately 10.5 million ECU.

Loans paid out

2.3.39. Pursuant to Articles 54 and 56 of the ECSC Treaty the Commission made loans in February amounting to 18.1 million ECU (industrial loans, conversion loans and subsidized housing).

Industrial loans

2.3.40. Industrial loans paid out pursuant to Article 54 of the ECSC Treaty amounted to 15.46 million ECU. They were granted to firms to finance the following projects:

Italy

La Magona d'Italia SpA, Florence: improving product quality at the Piombino plant;

Acciaierie e Ferriere Lombarde Falck SpA Milan: plant rationalization and modernization.

France

Sacilor, Paris: rationalization of blast-furnace operation at the Gandrange-Rombas works; improvement of sintering plant; construction of a continuous casting plant;

Usinor, Paris: installation of a third 85-tonne OBM converter; addition of vacuum equipment for ladle refining; construction of a continuous casting plant.

Subsidized housing

2.3.41. Loans for the building of subsidized housing for steelworkers amounted to 43 000 ECU.

Conversion loans

2.3.42. In February a conversion loan for 2.6 million ECU was granted under Article 56 of the ECSC Treaty to a German banking establishment in North Rhine-Westphalia for small and medium-sized firms.

Loans raised

2.3.43. The Commission concluded a number of private placings in Luxembourg francs and Dutch guilders totalling approximately 21.4 million ECU and a USD 40 million bond issue underwritten by an international banking syndicate. The bonds bear interest at the nominal rate of $12\frac{7}{8}\%$ payable annually over nine years; the loan was offered to the public at par, and official quotation on the Luxembourg exchange has been applied for.

NCI

Loans raised

2.3.44. The Commission also concluded the following:

- a USD 25 million bond issue underwritten by an international banking syndicate; the bonds bear interest at the nominal rate of 13.25% payable annually over ten years; the issue price was 99.5% of par, and official quotation on the Luxembourg exchange has been applied for;
- a HFL 40 million private placing at 11.5% payable annually over ten years.

Loans granted

2.3.45. In February the EIB — on behalf of the Community — and ENEL signed a loan agreement under the New Community Instrument ('Ortoli facility') for an amount of LIT 40 000 million (about 92.9 million ECU). The purpose is to finance the construction of a mixed-type pumped-storage hydroelectric plant at Edolo, Lombardy, Italy.

3. Infringement procedures

Initiation of proceedings for failure to implement Directives

3.3.1. In February the Commission sent letters of formal notice to Member States for failure to implement Council Directives in the following five cases:

- Directive 74/562/EEC of 12 November 1974 on admission to the occupation of road passenger transport operator in national and international transport operations¹ (Federal Republic of Germany);
- Directive 77/93/EEC of 21 December 1976 on protective measures against the introduction into the Member States of harmful organisms of plants or plant products² (Belgium);
- Directive 72/194/EEC of 18 May 1972 extending to workers exercising the right to remain in the territory of a Member State after having been employed in that State the scope of the Directive of 25 February 1964 on coordination of special measures concerning the movement and residence of foreign nationals³ (Federal Republic of Germany);

- Directive 64/221/EEC of 25 February 1964 on the coordination of special measures concerning the movement and residence of foreign nationals which are justified on grounds of public policy, public security or public health⁴ (Federal Republic of Germany);

- Directive 78/319/EEC of 20 March 1978 on toxic and dangerous waste¹ (Ireland, Italy).

Reasoned opinions

3.3.2. The Commission also delivered reasoned opinions to the six Member States concerned in the following cases:

- Council Directive 71/235/EEC of 21 June 1971 on harmonization of the provisions relating to the usual forms of handling which may be carried out in customs warehouses and in free zones² (Netherlands);
- Council Directive 78/1018/EEC of 27 November 1978 on the harmonization of provisions in respect of standard exchange of goods exported for repair³ (France, Luxembourg);
- Commission Directive 79/370/EEC of 30 January 1979 on the second adaptation to technical progress of Council Directive 67/548/EEC on the classification, packaging and labelling of dangerous substances⁴ (United Kingdom);
- Bank guarantee required for imports of goods in excess of LIT 10 million (Italy);
- Classification of espadrilles (France);
- Non-recognition of certain medical practitioners' diplomas awarded by Belgian universities to nationals of EEC Member States (Belgium).

Proceedings in the Court of Justice

3.3.3. In February the Commission brought seven actions before the Court of Justice against Italy for failure to implement Council Directives on: admission to the occupation of road haulage operator (Case 28/81); admission to the occupation of road passenger transport operator (Case 29/81); disposal of polychlorinated biphenyls and polychlorinated terphenyls (Case 30/81); disposal of waste oils (Case 31/81); quality of bathing water (Case 32/81); quality of surface water (Case 33/81) and waste (Case 34/81).⁵

3.3.4. On 4 and 17 February the Court delivered four judgments holding that Italy had failed to fulfil its obligations under the EEC Treaty in regard to fertilizers (Case 44/80); pressure vessels (Case 45/80); public supply contracts (Case 133/80) and dangerous substances (Case 171/80).⁶

In a judgment given on 3 February the Court dismissed as unfounded the action brought by the Commission against France (Case 90/79) for charging dues on the importation of duplicating equipment.⁷

2 — 1981

Indledning

Dette katalog omfatter alle titler på tidsskrifter og monografier og serier, udgivet af Fællesskabets institutioner i den omhandlede periode.

Katalogisering

Kataloget er inddelt i tre dele, som følger:

I. del — Emnelisten katalogiserer titlerne under 20 emner (se nedenfor). Titlerne på monografier og serier er katalogiseret først, alfabetisk i blandet sprogorden; tidsskrifterne er dernæst katalogiseret på samme måde. Den fuldstændige titel for monografier og serier findes kun én gang. I andre tilfælde henviser følgenummeret i den venstre margin til den fuldstændige titel. Disse numre bruges ikke anvendes til katalogisering. I emnelisten er titler på tidsskrifter kun optaget med krydshenvisning. Den fuldstændige titel findes i II. del.

I. del — Tidsskriftslisten giver detaljerede oplysninger om Fællesskabets tidsskrifter, katalogiseret alfabetisk i blandet sprogorden.

II. del — Titel- og seriefortegnelsen er ligeledes en alfabetisk fortegnelse på hvert enkelt fællesskabssprog. Den er en alfabetisk nøgle til titlerne på monografier og serier i I. del og kendetegner dem ved følgenummeret. Disse fortegnelser er kumulative.

Hvordan man erhverver publikationerne. Publikationerne er enten til salg, gratis eller med begrænsede modagere. De to sidstnævnte slags publikationer kan fås direkte fra den ansvarlige institution eller, hvis det drejer sig om publikationer, som udgives af informationskontorerne, direkte fra disse. Informationskontorenes adresser findes på side 11 og 13. Publikationer med begrænsede modtagere er normalt forbeholdt medlemslandenes regeringer, fællesskabskontorer eller andre berørte myndigheder.

Bestillinger på publikationer til salg skal sendes direkte til salgskontorerne, som er anført på den sidste side.

Alle bestillinger skal indeholde den fuldstændige titel såvel som ISBN- og ISSN-nummer, hvor dette er anført, og prisingivelsen i kataloget.

Publications of the European Communities

2 — 1981

Introductory note

This catalogue includes the newly published monographs and series issued during the period to which it relates by the Institutions of the European Communities, and also their current periodicals.

Arrangement. The catalogue is divided into three parts as follows:

Part I — The classified list provides a subject classification of the titles included under 20 headings (see below). Under each subject-heading monographs and series are listed first, alphabetically by title in mixed language order; there then follows a similar list of periodical titles. Full entries for monographs and series appear only once; otherwise cross-references are given to the full entries, identifying them by the sequence numbers appearing in the left-hand margins. (Those numbers should not be used for ordering purposes.) Periodical titles only appear in the classified list as cross-reference entries, full entries being found in Part II.

Part II — The list of periodicals presents full details of each current Community periodical listed alphabetically in mixed language order.

Part III — The indexes of titles and series, presented in separate sequences for each language, provide alphabetical keys to the monographs and series included in Part I, identifying them by the sequence numbers already described. These indexes cumulate throughout the year.

How to obtain publications. Publications may be priced for sale, gratis, or of limited distribution. Those of the last two classes may be obtained from the issuing Institutions, or, where they are published by the Information Offices of the Commission, from those Offices, whose addresses are given in the lists on pp. 11 and 13. Publications of limited distribution are however generally only for the attention of governments of Member States, Community departments and other authorities concerned.

Orders for priced publications should be directed to the Sales Offices listed on the last page.

All orders should quote the full title, as well as the ISBN or ISSN where such a number precedes the prices in the catalogue.

Abbreviations and conventional signs. The text languages of publications are indicated by the following abbreviations:

DA Danish	GA Irish
DE German	IT Italian
GR Greek	NL Dutch
EN English	ES Spanish
FR French	PT Portuguese

A string of such symbols separated by diagonal strokes denotes a publication in which different language versions of the same text appear under one cover.

The abbreviation 'multi' indicates a publication with a mixed multilingual text.

Prices, which exclude any value-added tax which may be chargeable, are fixed in various currencies, using the following abbreviations:

BFR Belgian franc	HFL Dutch guilder
DKR Danish crown	IRL Irish pound
DM German mark	LIT Italian lira

Publications des Communautés européennes

2 — 1981

Introduction

Ce catalogue comprend les monographies et séries publiées dans le mois par les institutions des Communautés européennes ainsi que les périodiques de l'année.

Structure. Le catalogue est divisé en trois parties:

Partie I — La liste thématique fournit une classification des titres par sujet en 20 rubriques (voir ci-dessous). Dans chaque rubrique, les monographies et séries sont indiquées d'abord par ordre alphabétique, par titre, toutes langues confondues. Les périodiques sont ensuite répertoriés de la même façon. Une notice descriptive complète n'est donnée qu'une fois par titre et par langue; partout ailleurs, il est fait référence à cette notice, grâce au numéro séquentiel imprimé dans la marge de gauche (ce numéro ne doit pas être utilisé pour commander des ouvrages). Dans la liste thématique, les références aux périodiques renvoient à la partie II.

Partie II — La liste des périodiques donne une notice descriptive complète pour chaque périodique en cours, par ordre alphabétique, toutes langues confondues.

Partie III — Les index des titres et des séries sont divisés par langue. Classés par ordre alphabétique, ils renvoient par le numéro séquentiel déjà mentionné aux notices de la partie I. Ces index sont cumulés tout au long de l'année.

Pour obtenir une publication. Une publication peut être vendue, gratuite ou de diffusion restreinte. Dans les deux derniers cas, elle sera obtenue auprès des institutions éditrices ou, si la publication dépend d'un Bureau de presse de la Commission, auprès de ce Bureau. Les adresses figurent page 11 et 13 respectivement. Cependant, les ouvrages en diffusion restreinte sont en général destinés uniquement aux gouvernements des États membres, aux services des Communautés et aux autres organisations concernées.

Les commandes d'ouvrages en vente doivent être adressées aux Bureaux de vente mentionnés en dernière page.

Toute commande doit indiquer le titre complet aussi bien que l'ISBN ou l'ISSN au cas où ce numéro est indiqué dans le catalogue.

Abréviations et signes conventionnels. La version linguistique d'un ouvrage est identifiée par les abréviations suivantes:

DA	Danois	GA	gaélique
DE	allemand	IT	italien
GR	grec	NL	néerlandais
EN	anglais	ES	espagnol
FR	français	PT	portugais

Une séquence de tels sigles entre barres de fraction obliques indique que plusieurs traductions du même texte sont rassemblées sous la même couverture.

L'abréviation «multi» signale une publication comportant des textes différents dans diverses langues.

Publicazioni delle Comunità europee

2 — 1981

Introduzione

Questo catalogo comprende sia i titoli delle monografie e serie pubblicate nel periodo di riferimento dalle istituzioni delle Comunità europee, sia quelli delle pubblicazioni periodiche.

Struttura. Il catalogo è diviso in tre parti:

Parte I — La lista per soggetto classifica i titoli in venti rubriche (vedi sotto). In ogni rubrica sono indicati prima le monografie e serie in ordine alfabetico e senza tener conto della lingua, quindi i titoli delle pubblicazioni periodiche secondo lo stesso ordine. Nelle venti rubriche, la nota esplicativa del contenuto delle monografie e serie è indicata una sola volta per titolo e per lingua. Nel caso in cui la pubblicazione appaia in diverse rubriche, il numero di riferimento alla nota esplicativa è indicato a sinistra sul margine della lista (tale numero di riferimento non deve apparire negli ordini di acquisto). Nella lista per soggetto i periodici hanno solo i numeri di riferimento che permettono di trovare nella parte II la nota esplicativa del contenuto.

Parte II — La lista delle pubblicazioni periodiche, è redatta in ordine alfabetico; essa contiene per ogni titolo una nota esplicativa del contenuto.

Parte III — Gli indici dei titoli e delle serie delle monografie e serie sono divisi per lingua.

Tali elenchi in ordine alfabetico permettono di riferirsi alla parte I a mezzo dei numeri di riferimento già citati. Questi indici compendiano tutti i titoli e le serie pubblicati durante l'anno.

Come ottenere una pubblicazione. Le pubblicazioni con l'indicazione del prezzo sono in vendita. Le altre possono essere gratuite o di diffusione limitata e possono essere richieste alle istituzioni che le pubblicano o, ove si tratti di pubblicazioni degli Uffici stampa e informazione della Commissione, a questi uffici. Le liste degli indirizzi di tali uffici si trovano a pag. 11 e 13. Le pubblicazioni di diffusione limitata sono generalmente destinate solo ai governi degli Stati membri, ai servizi delle Comunità europee e alle altre autorità interessate.

Gli ordini delle pubblicazioni con l'indicazione del prezzo devono essere inviati agli uffici di vendita, il cui elenco si trova nell'ultima pagina.

Tutti gli ordini devono indicare il titolo completo e, se è indicato in catalogo, anche il riferimento ISBN o quello ISSN, che precede il prezzo.

Abbreviazioni e segni convenzionali. Le lingue del testo delle pubblicazioni sono indicate dalle seguenti abbreviazioni:

DA danese	GA gaelico
DE tedesco	IT italiano
GR greco	NL olandese
EN inglese	ES spagnolo
FR francese	PT portoghese

La presenza di vari simboli fra barre di frazione obliqua indica che lo stesso volume include lo stesso testo tradotto in varie lingue. L'abbreviazione «multi» contraddistingue una pubblicazione comprendente contenuti diversi in diverse lingue.

I prezzi sono al netto di IVA e sono espressi nelle seguenti monete:

BFR franco belga	HFL fiorino olandese

Publikaties van de Europese Gemeenschappen

2 – 1981

Inleiding

Deze catalogus bevat de monografieën en series welke door de instellingen van de Europese Gemeenschappen gedurende de periode waarop zij betrekking hebben worden uitgegeven, alsmede periodieke publikaties.

De catalogus is in drie afzonderlijke delen verdeeld:

Deel I – De indelingslijst geeft een classificatie naar onderwerp der titels, samengevat onder twintig hoofdtitels (zie onder). Onder iedere onderwerp-titel zijn allereerst de monografieën en series – in alfabetische volgorde naar taal – opgenomen, gevolgd door een overeenkomstige lijst van periodieke publikaties. De volledige titels van monografieën en series worden slechts éénmaal vermeld, voor het overige wordt door trefwoorden verwezen naar de volledige titels, welke door middel van in de linker marge afgedrukte, opeenvolgende nummers zijn terug te vinden. Bij bestellingen kan niet naar deze nummers worden verwezen. De classificatielijst vermeldt alleen titelverwijzingen van tijdschriften, de volledige titels zijn opgenomen in deel II.

Deel II – De lijst van tijdschriften geeft een volledig overzicht van alle periodieke publikaties van de Gemeenschappen en wel in alfabetische volgorde.

Deel III – Het alfabetische register van titels en series, eveneens samengevat in afzonderlijke volgorde naar taal, geeft alfabetisch trefwoorden van de monografieën en series in deel I, welke zijn terug te vinden aan de hand van de reeds vermelde, opeenvolgende nummers. Deze registers worden in de loop van het jaar bijgehouden.

Hoe kunnen de publikaties worden verkregen? De publikaties zijn ofwel in de verkoop, ofwel gratis verkrijgbaar, of worden slechts beperkt verspreid. De beide laatste categorieën kunnen bij de publicerende instelling worden verkregen, of, indien uitgegeven door de informatiediensten van de Commissie, bij de betreffende dienst, waarvan de adressen zijn vermeld in de lijst op bladzijden 11 en 13. Publikaties die slechts beperkt worden verspreid zijn gewoonlijk voorbehouden aan de regeringen van de Lid-Staten, diensten van de Gemeenschap of instellingen waarop zij betrekking hebben.

Bestellingen voor publikaties welke ter verkoop worden aangeboden, dienen te worden gericht aan de verkoopkantoren, opgenomen in de lijst op de laatste bladzijde.

Alle bestellingen dienen de volledige titel te vermelden en tevens het ISBN- of ISSN-nummer indien dit vóór de prijzen in de catalogus is aangegeven.

Afkortingen en conventionele tekens. De talen waarin de publikaties zijn gepubliceerd worden door de volgende afkortingen aangeduid:

DA	Deens	GA	Iers
DE	Duits	IT	Italiaanse lire
GR	Grieks	NL	Nederlands

FR	Frans	PT	Portugees

Een opeenvolging van deze afkortingen, gescheiden door diagonale lijnen, heeft betrekking op een publikatie waarin verschillende talen welke hetzelfde onderwerp behandelen, in één omslag zijn samengevat.

De afkorting „multi” verwijst naar een publikatie welke in meerdere talen is afgedrukt.
