

ULRICH EVERLING

Born in Berlin on June 2, 1925. Attended schools in Berlin; studied law and political science at Göttingen University from 1945 to 1948. State law examinations, first part, at Celle, in 1948. In 1952, obtained degree of Doctor of Laws from Göttingen University and passed State law examinations, second part.

Joined Federal Ministry of Economics in 1953, serving in the Legal Department. In 1955, became Regierungsrat (Assistant Head of Division). In 1955-56 participated in the preliminary conference and negotiations on the EEC Treaty. Posted to the newly established European Division of the Federal Ministry of Economics in 1958, and became Head of the Section dealing with the law of the European Communities, Right of Establishment, Representation of the Federal Republic of Germany before the Court of Justice of the European Communities.

Ministerialrat (Head of Division) in 1963, becoming Head of the Branch in the European Section dealing with the European Common Market and relations with non-member countries. In 1968, named Ministerialdirigent (Director), and from 1970 was Head of the European Policy Division, becoming Ministerialdirektor (Director General).

From 1971, Lecturer on European Community law, with special reference to commercial law, at Münster University. Named Honorary Professor at Münster University in 1975.

Member of the Management Committee of the Deutsche Wissenschaftliche Gesellschaft für Europarecht. Member of the Governing Body of the Max Planck Institute for Foreign Public Law and International Law, Heidelberg. Numerous publications on European Community law and European politics.

Judge at the Court of Justice of the European Communities since October 30, 1980.