

Am
1/10

BIOGRAPHY OF LAWRENCE A. FOX

Lawrence A. Fox is Deputy Assistant Secretary for International Economic Policy. He is a career employee of the Department of Commerce with twenty-five years experience in the international trade and economics fields. He was appointed Deputy Assistant Secretary in May 1969.

Previously he has held positions in the Department of Commerce as Director of the Bureau of International Commerce, Director of the Office of Commercial and Financial Policy, Assistant Director of Export Control, Chief of the Foreign Branch of the National Production Authority, and as general international economist. He has twice served overseas, most recently at Geneva, Switzerland. He has represented the United States at many international conferences concerned with trade and business problems.

Mr. Fox is a graduate of Clark University, Worcester, Massachusetts, has a masters degree from Syracuse University, and has done graduate work at Harvard University. He holds an LL. B. from George Washington University, Washington, D. C., and is a member of the District of Columbia Bar.